ANTI-AMERICAN FEELING RUNS HIGH AT VERA CRUZ

M'NAMEE ASKS U. S. TO RUSH WARSHIPS

Government Prepares to Act When Disquieting News of Anti-Foreign Demonstrations Come.

Washington, Aug. 10.—Serious anti-foreign demonstrations reported today to the Washington government from Vera Cruz gave state and navy department officials considerable concern, particularly in view of the pan-American conference to be resumed in New York tomorrow to devise means for restoring peace in Mexico.

Advices from Commander McNamee at Vera Cruz depicting a threatening situation at the seat of Carranza's government led to a conference between Secretary Lansing, Rear Admiral Benson, acting secretary of the navy, and Leon J. Canova, chief of the division of Mexican affairs.

Warships Made Ready.

Commander McNamee's report had at first been regarded as alarming enough to warrant sending naval reinforcements to Vera Cruz and preliminary orders have been given the battleships Louisiana and New Hampshire at Newport to make ready.

Deliberation on the situation, however, resulted in the determination to await further reports before dispatching any battleships, there being a genuine desire on the part of the administration officials to do nothing to stir up feeling that might be embarrassing to the pan-American conferees.

Gunboat is Sent.

An order was sent however, directing the gunboat Marietta to proceed at once from Progresso to Vera Cruz, a distance of about 360 miles. Rear Admiral Benson explained that the Marietta might be utilized to convey the Brazilian and Guatemalan ministers in Mexico to New Orleans.

Commander McNamee reported that natives have made incendiary speeches in the streets of Vera Cruz against Americans and other foreigners and that there had been numerous endeavors to incite uprising, although no over act has yet been committed.

Secretary Lansing will leave tonight for New York to resume deliberations with American Latin diplomats tomorrow. The secretary would not discuss the situation today asserting that he had "talked considerably yesterday about a confidential conference." Whether the definite plan agreed upon could be fairly worked out in one more session of the conference Mr. Lansing would not predict.

M'NAMEE ASKS FOR WARSHIPS.

Demonstrations Against Americans Are Particularly Violent.

Washington, Aug. 10.—Anti-foreign demonstrations in Vera Cruz were the subject of a long cablegram received at the navy department today. Acting Secretary Benson said the dispatch told of demonstrations being made in front of public buildings and street corners in an effort to incite the people against all foreigners, especially Americans. No acts of violence were reported.

Commander McNamee, the senior American naval officer at Vera Cruz, has asked the navy department to send a battleship squadron to guard against anti-foreign demonstrations, which he fears.

Ordered to Prepare.

The battleships New Hampshire and Louisiana, now at Newport, R. I., with the Atlantic fleet, were ordered to prepare at once to get to Vera Cruz, but if the emergency should become pressing the battleship Connecticut, now in Haitien waters, and about two days' sail across the gulf, would be ordered to join Commander McNamee. The Connecticut could reach Vera Cruz several days ahead of the New Hampshire and Louisiana.

Commander McNamee's report did not give details, but officials here believe the anti-American feeling which he reported is a direct outgrowth of the pan-American negotiations in Washington for the adjustment of differences between the factions.

Carranza Displeased.

Other developments in Mexico, such as General Carranza's expulsion of the Guatemalan minister and his differences with the Brazilian minister, because the countries of both participated in the pan-American conferences, are taken as evidence of Carranza's displeasure with the stand the United States has taken.

Although there are other small naval vessels in Mexican waters, the gunboat Sacramento, on which commander McNamee has his flag, is the only American naval vessel at Vera Cruz. With the arrival of the Louisiana, the flagship of the fourth division, Commander McNamee will be superceded in command of the American forces by Rear Admiral McLean.

Conference in Washington.

Admiral Benson and Leon Canova, chief of the American-Latin department, conferred concerning the reports that Americans were in danger at Vera Cruz and that additional naval force has been ordered yet to go to Vera Cruz."

It was inferred that Commander McNamee had urged the dispatch of vessels without loss of time. The conference with the secretary of state was brief. When Admiral Benson came out he said: "I repeat that no additional forces have been ordered to Vera Cruz or to Mexico City."

The gunboat Marietta has been ordered to proceed from Progresso to Vera Cruz in order to have a ship at the disposal of the Brazilian and Guatemalan ministers, who are leaving Mexico. It is assumed that the Louisiana and New Hampshire will be held at Newport for further orders.

BIG WARSHIPS GET ORDERS.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 10.—Orders for the battleships Louisiana and New Hampshire to proceed at once to Vera Cruz were received here today. The vessels immediately began taking on coal and provisions and prepared to leave this afternoon. The Louisiana is the flag ship of the fourth division of the North Atlantic fleet commanded by Rear Admiral McLean.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS BIG GOLD SHIPMENT

Bankers Refuse Details Regarding $25,000,000 Now Coming In.

New York, Aug. 10.—Considerable mystery surrounds the shipment from England to this country of a large amount of gold the sum being variously estimated at $15,000,000 to $25,000,000. The gold which usually takes the form of American eagles is being transhipped from Halifax to which port it was taken by a British steamer, presumably under government convoy to this city by special train.

J. P. Morgan & Co. are the consignees but the bankers refuse to give any information regarding the transaction, stating that such details ought to come from London where the shipment was arranged in response to the extraordinary exchange conditions between that center and this city. At the subtreasury it was admitted that a request had been received to take care of a large amount of gold now on the way from Canada, but the sum involved was not known. The American Express company, which has charge of the gold from Halifax to this city, declined to give any particulars of the shipment on the ground that such a course would be unwise at this time.

ART SMITH FINISHES AT SAN FRANCISCO

Art Smith, the Fort Wayne bird-boy, who has startled hundreds of thousands of people with his spectacular flying, has finished his contract at the San Francisco exposition and is now gradually working his way homeward. Wednesday and Thursday he is booked to appear at San Diego and from there he makes a jump to Mason City, Iowa, where he will fly at the state fair. He expects to make flights in many of the cities of the central west.

A large, nearly life size photograph of the aeroplane artist in the Duke's clothing store window, has been attracting the attention of many people. Several other pictures of some of his feats at the exposition are also on exhibit.

JOY FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGISTS.

Women to Receive Same Pay as Men for Same Work in Illinois.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Equal suffragists were jubilant today, according to Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout, president of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association, over the action of the state board of administration which decreed women employed in state institutions shall receive the same pay as men where they do the same work. Mrs. Trout issued a statement in which she said that the new recognition of the equality of women is an aswer to those who express doubt of the value of the franchise to women.

BREAKING IN FIRE HORSES, NOW UNDER WAY AT NO. 3 ENGINE HOUSE, REQUIRES PATIENCE OF A JOB.

One of the beautiful roans in the three horse hitch on No. 3 engine company's ladder truck, died of blood poison last week following the pulling of a tooth. Another was pulled out of service with an affection of the legs that make it useless permanently for fire service, and the result is that a pair of new horses is being broken in for the truck. The breaking in consists of teaching the animals the signals, making them to gallop into their right positions when the bell taps and the doors open, and all the other hundred little tricks that it is necessary to teach the horses in the department. The men at No. 3 station are working hours a day tutoring their new charges and were snapped by the Sentinel camera Tuesday noon in the midst of one of the drills.

BANK ROBBERS HOLD ONE HUNDRED AT BAY

Stand Off Citizens at Maple Hill, Kan., and Escape With $3,000.

Maple Hill, Kan., Aug. 10.—Several robbers held more than one hundred citizens at bay today while companions blew open the vault of the Maple Hill state bank and escaped with $3,000. It is believed there were seven men in the band. The first explosion aroused citizens, who, when they reached the street, were met by armed men who forced them to remain quiet until six charges of the explosive had been fired.

When the vault had been rifled the band disappeared in a heavy fog, which prevailed.

RUNS MACHINE INTO AUTO AND IS HURT

John Piatt, who rooms at 420 Baker street, was painfully hurt shortly before 11 o'clock Tuesday morning when his motorcycle collided with an automobile owned and driven by C. E. Perry, real estate dealer, with offices, 309-310 Shoaff building, at Berry and Calhoun streets.

Perry was coming from the south, the officer having given him the whistle to come on. As he went to turn off of Calhoun to go west on Berry, Piatt, coming from the north, lost control of his machine, speeding it up instead of slowing down, and ran directly into the rear wheel of the automobile. He was thrown forward against the handle-bars, and was hurt about the stomach. His injuries, however, are not regarded as serious. The front wheel of the motor [illegible]

SEND PITIFUL CRY FOR HELP

New Appeal for Aid Comes from Americans in Mexico.

DRIVEN ALMOST TO DESPERATION

Conditions in the Capital Are Described as Unendurable.

Mexico City, July 29.—By Courier to Vera Cruz—(Via Laredo, Texas, Aug. 10.)—An appeal for help for Americans in Mexico and for the relief of the people of the country itself was sent today by the American Society of Mexico to the state department in Washington through the Brazilian minister. It recites conditions in the Mexican capital, which are described as unendurable, and which are declared to have driven Americans here almost to desperation, and implores the Washington government to act promptly in bringing about amelioration.

"The American residents of Mexico appeal once more to their government and people for the suffering millions of pacific men, women and children in this country, who are victims of hunger, cruelty and violence," the appeal begins. "These conditions put the gravest and most pressing responsibility upon the United States, which not only has passively permitted them, but has promoted them with arms and ammunition and by encouragement to political adventurers who have prostituted the name of liberty and the cause of human rights.

"Americans and other foreigners," the appeal continues, "stand aghast and wonder whether they can be living in the twentieth century and in a country bordering on the United States, which has made itself responsible to the world for protection of life and property here

RAILROAD TO FIGHT OIL LAND DECREE

Southern Pacific Resists Restoration of Tract to Public Domain.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 10.—An appeal to the United States circuit court of appeals and the United States supreme court was in preparation today by attorneys for the Southern Pacific company from a decree rendered here yesterday in the United States district court by Judge Robert S. Bean, of Oregon, restoring to the public domain more than 6,100,000 acres of oil lands in Kearn county. Millions are said to have been produced in petroleum from the property which is situated in one of the heaviest oil producing sections of the state. The decision settles on its merits one of the first of the original oil land suits brought by the government against the railroad. It was instituted four years ago after similar suits had been disposed of in a demurrer.

Patents issued to the railroad company in December 1904, covering the Elkhills properties were cancelled by the decree. The following trust deeds were also declared by the court null and void:

One to the Central Trust company of New York, of September 13, 1893; a supplemental deed of August 18, 1898; another to the Equitable Trust company of New York, of January 3, 1905; and still another to Homer S. King and James K. Wilson, surviving trustee of a group in whose favor a deed was executed April 1, 1875.

DEATH BENEFITS MAY SOON BE INCREASED

Employes' Association Has Matter Under Consideration.

At the meeting of the Employes' Mutual Benefit association of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company, Monday afternoon, in the offices of the general manager, announcement was made that since the association was organized October 1, 1907, a total of $40,000 has been paid in benefits. The association now has a surplus of $12,000. A committee was appointed to take up the question of increasing the death benefits, it being proposed to raise class A members from $200 to $250 and Class D members from $400 to $500.

Extra service will be provided by the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company for members who will attend the convention of the Knights and Ladies of Honor lodge at Huntington on August 16. Two extra trains will be run from Indianapolis, leaving the state capital at 7 a. m. and reaching Huntington at 11:05 a. m.

GERMAN AIRMEN RAID BRITISH COAST AGAIN

Today's War News Given in Summary.

Teutonic pressure on the eastern war front continues heavy against the Russian positions all along the line, with steady retirement of the Grand Duke Nicholas' troops recorded in most of the sectors. Northeast of Warsaw and up to the Baltic provinces the Russians are making their most determined stand. Increasingly strong resistance to the German assaults is indicated in this territory, where serious breaches would menace the new Russian lines of defense.

In the Baltic provinces, Petrograd claims that the Germans are being pressed back from Riga on land while on the water an attempt by a German battle fleet to break through the mine barriers defending the entrance to the gulf of Riga was beaten off.

Rome reports the capture of some Austrian trenches in Cavallo pass in the Carnia region and a similar success in the Plava zone.

The allies are again attacking vigorously in the Dardanelles and are making substantial progress according to news agency dispatches from Athens.

The Russians report new successes against the Turks in the Caucasus near the Euphrates river.

So far as is shown by the latest Paris report there has been little activity of a notable sort on the front in France. Several attacks by German submarine of the entente allies engaged in the Dardanelles operamans are declared to have been stopped.

Turkish aeroplanes threw bombs tions and sank the craft with the loss of all its crew, Constantinople reports.

London, Aug. 10.—An attack by German airships, which flew over the English coast last night, was announced today by the official press bureau. The statement says one of the airships was damaged by British aeroplanes and was towed into Ostend.

According to the official announcement, eight women, four children and one man were killed and six women, four men and two children were wounded as the result of the explosion of missiles dropped by the Zeppelins.

A Central News dispatch from Amsterdam says that five Zeppelins were sighted this morning off Vlieland, near the entrance to Zuider Zee. They were taking a northwesterly course in the direction of the Scottish coast.

Troops of the entente allies in the Dardanelles made a gain of 200 yards on a front of 300 yards east of the Krithia road on the Gallipoli peninsula, it was officially announced here today. A footing has also been gained on Chunuk Bair and another landing effected elsewhere, the statement adds.

Check for Germans.

Although military operations in Russian Courland have hardly reached the decisive stage, the Germans who have been smashing their way toward Riga have been checked. Almost simultaneously German warships which attempted to enter the gulf of Riga and attain a strategic position to assist the troops ashore, were dispersed and damaged. The assemblage of German craft was the largest of any engaged in the naval actions of the war thus far, with the exception of the allied squadron at the Dardanelles. It nosed its way towards Riga much after the manner of the British ships ranged off the Belgian coast last fall.

Berlin, Aug. 10.—Fort No. 4 at Lomza has been stormed and the town of Lomza, which is situated on the Narew river, 72 miles southwest of Suwalki, has been occupied by German forces, according to an official statement issued by the German army headquarters staff today. The statement says:

"The troops of the army of General Falcke broke through the line of fortresses at Lomza yesterday afternoon and took fort No. 4 by storm. At daybreak today the fortified town was occupied."

WILSON TAKES HAND IN EASTLAND CASE

Seeks to Know if Any Federal Official is in Any Wise to Blame.

Cornish, N. H., Aug. 10.—President Wilson is planning, it became known today, to confer with Secretary Redfield soon after reaching Washington and go over thoroughly all the facts connected with the Eastland disaster in Chicago in order to learn whether any federal official was in any way to blame for the loss of life resulting from the overturning of the steamer. Although the president has received several communications from Mr. Redfield since the latter went to Chicago to investigate the disaster, he is waiting his return to the capital before reaching any conclusion.

President Wilson was in communication with Secretary Lansing today regarding a request from Commander McNamee that a battleship squadron be sent to Vera Cruz to protect Americans and was understood to be inclined to grant the request.

BUFFENBERGER NOW GIVEN HIS RELEASE

Chicago Police Drop Case Which Came Following Death of Babe.

Evidently concluding that there is no warrant for action, Chicago police have dropped their inquiry involving Henry Buffenberger and Mrs. Helen Pully, both of Fort Wayne, following the death of an 8-hour-old babe born to the woman in a Chicago hotel Sunday. Buffenberger is a car inspector, boarding at 2227 Oliver street, where the young woman was employed as a domestic. He originally told the Chicago police that the woman, who is 19 years old, was his wife. Mrs. Pully and her husband are separated.

Buffenberger secured a pass last Friday over the Pennsylvania for Chicago and left for that city Saturday. Mrs. Pully left the Oliver street residence Saturday afternoon, saying that she was going to Chicago. It is understood that the landlady was acquainted with her condition and that she had given her employment through pity. She declared that she would go to Chicago and after the birth of her baby place it in a charitable institution. Interest in the case was renew Tuesday when it was learned that a former baby had died in a charitable institution at Danville, Ill., last fall.

Buffenberger has been married twice and was divorced from both wives. His first wife is now in an asylum and their two children are in the custody of his parents in Decatur.

Buffenberger formerly boarded at 1123 Cochran street. He moved from there to 2227 Oliver street, saying that it was closer to his work and he would not have to pay car fare.

If Buffenberger and Mrs. Pully were married acquaintances here are not aware of it. All who know Buffenberger speak highly of him. According to the landlady at 2227 Oliver street, Buffenberger and Mrs. Pully had not known each other longer than two months, their first introduction being at the Star restaurant, on Walton avenue, where she was employed as a waitress. She worked there about two weeks when she went to the Oliver street home. According to employes of the Star restaurant she made frequent trips to the Pennsylvania yards, where Buffenberger is employed.

DAILY MEETINGS TO BOOST ARMORY PLAN

(By Willis S. Thompson.)

Indianapolis, Aug. 10.—The business men of Indianapolis, acting through their five strongest organizations, have decided to build an armory at Indianapolis for the Indiana national guard. It will probably cost between $300,000 and $500,000. Daily meetings are being held in completion of the plans. Within a week the Indianapolis Armory Building association or some similarly styled body will be completed and be very busy.

The 1915 legislature appropriated $$0,000 to be used by some city that could give an equal amount to build an armory, title and management to rest in the state. Indianapolis wishes to let some other city have this $20,000. The capital city business men will make their investment without state aid.

The new armory will probably be of sufficient capacity to accommodate a full regiment of infantry, one battery of artillery, one signal corps and one field hospital company. As a starter in the work, to stir the public interest and also raise a part of the money, Carl G. Fisher has proffered free use of the speedway for holding a military tournament during state fair week, Mr. Fisher also offers to advance all the money necessary to make the tournament possible and a success. Already all the officers of the state guard are busy making plans for this event, determined to make of it the greatest spectacular event ever pulled off. Two thousand enlisted men will participate and regular army officials will assist in the program.

The building of the armory will be done by subscription. The project is in the hands of men like Carl G. Fisher who are distinguished for accomplishing things. The building of the armory is prompted by the most excellent work of Adjutant General Franklin L. Bridges, and is in recognition of the splendid results he has accomplished. In the face of the meanest and most contemptible and unjust newspaper attacks and criticism, General Bridges has elevated the Indiana national guard from the deplorable condition in which many years of bad management had left it, to where an officer of the United States army told the Indianapolis business men "the Washington authorities now look upon the Indiana national guard as one of the very best in the whole country."

The same speaker said he recognized the fact that as yet it was not a large body, but that under the work of Adjutant General Bridges and the unusually excellent staff of officers he has enlisted the membership is growing fast and with only most desirable men enlisting.

The Indianapolis business men who are backing the armory building plan feel confident that the capital city will have a full regiment all her own. They feel equally sure that the building of one of the best, and probably the best, state armory in the country, will encourage steps in the same direction in other cities of the state, to the end that Indiana may soon have the very best national guard of which any state in the union can boast.

When General Bridges took charge of the national guard under appointment by Governor Ralston he found but five companies rated as "good" under the "militia" standard. Today he has over 2,800 men enlisted and holding their own under the standard set by the regular army. The present encampment is the most successful ever held in the state.

(By Jack, Jungmeyer.)

Tweaking the whiskers of death has been their pastime; coining daredevilry into gold, their vocation.

The foreign legion, recruited in 1911 to help Madero in Mexico, has since then participated in every bit of bloodletting on two continents, dwindling from 300 to less than thirty.

Today they are at the European battlefronts, shooting with or at one another in equal zest.

Mercenaries, if you please, but brave gentlemen.

A few of them—their boots off temporarily—met in San Francisco recently to pay their respects to the absent ones in a manner befitting soldiers of fortune.

They drank a toast to Gen. Jack Mosby, nephew of the dashing confederate leader, and now with the French near Arras. Under him the legion has killed Diaz's federals a-plenty in northern Mexico.

They remembered Capt. C. Rhys Pryce, English gentleman and military genius who had led them to victory often against terrible odds along the Sonora border. He is now with the Canadians in Flanders, and has written: "I expect to get mine in this war, but at least the Mexican coyotes will not gnaw my bones."

"A health to Pryce, the debonair!"

And Capt. Paul Schmidt, who used to growl with loathing of the "unspeakable Turk," now fighting beside the men he abhorred against the British, whom he hates the more, at the Dardenelles.

"A good comrade and a fearless soldier—prosit!"

Another: Lieut. Franz De P. Rathkolb, just back from the Austrian front in Galicia with a Cossack bullet scar on his leg.

Thus they called the roll, the few who were out of it, and sighed for "a chance at the fun."

They would have you understand that they are gentlemen, these soldiers of the mixed foreign legion; men of every blood, creed and station. Only once did they so far demean themselves as to dumdum their bullets.

That was in their last Mexican battle, after they had failed to establish a republic in Lower California and had turned against Madero for failing to give them the gold he had promised. The 300 had promptly joined Zapata.

While 1,500 Maderistas were marching against the legion from Ensenada, a fifth column of his own soldiers, themselves, shot up Tia Juana—but did not forget about the gold.

"Boys," said Jack Mosby, then in command of the legion, "there are five times your number of Madero's men out there on the plain. You haven't a chance in the world. You can quit if you choose. But if you'd like to take a final rap at 'em, we'll fight—and the devil take the losers!"

The legion, to a man, voted to fight.

They liberated their horses, slashed their saddles, smashed up the town, drank more mescal, marched out to face the 1,500 Mexican veterans and dumdummed their bullets.

Three hours later, the 300 cut down to ninety-seven, and their ammunition exhausted, backed across the international line and surrendered to Capt. Wilcox, of the United States army.

In the Balkan states war the ninety-seven were further reduced to fifty, and today there are a bare thirty—survivors of a legion that fights "for fun" and is always ready to twitch the Reaper's whiskers.

of fortune with high-proof mescal. They got gloriously lit up, dueled among

MARRIED SIXTY YEARS.

Bluffton, Ind., Aug. 10.—Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Donaldson, who live at 209 West Wiley avenue, celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding very quietly at their home today. A more elaborate celebration was held Sunday in their honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Brickley, at Murray, and a number of relatives were entertained in their honor. The wedding of William A. Donaldson and Miss Eliza Jane Karns was solemnized in Bluffton at the old Karns property on West Market street on August 9, 1855, by Rev. Wilson M. Donaldson, an uncle of the groom, who was then the pastor of the Bluffton Presbyterian church. Mrs. Clara Deam, a sister of the bride, was the only guest at the original wedding ceremony who was present at the gathering yesterday.

MEANS PHYSICAL CONNECTION.

Columbia City, Ind., Aug. 10.—The public service commission of the state of Indiana has rendered its decision in the matter of the physicial connection of the telephone exchanges of the Whitley County Telephone Co., and the Farmers' Mutual Telephone Co., of Whitley county, and the order is that there be a physical connection made in all the towns and villages in the county where each company maintains an exchange. The purpose of this movement is to enable the subscribers to one company to talk to the subscribers of the other company free of charge, with no change in the rental charge for phones. It will be recalled that Judge McClure was in this city March 23 and 24, 1915, and heard evidence pertaining to the proposed arrangement.

HAD A NARROW ESCAPE.

Bluffton, Ind., Aug. 10.—Shirley Hartman, son of Peter Hartman, of Lancaster township, while cutting grain with a binder was caught in a gasoline engine being used on the binder for power, and had a remarkable escape from serious injury.

When trouble developed Mr. Hartman had climbed down to investigate and accidentally had one of his trousers legs caught on the crank shaft of the engine. His clothing kept winding about the shaft, and his body was drawn up and wedged so tightly between the wheel and the engine that the engine was choked down, and was jerked from the binder. He was stripped of his clothes but was not seriously hurt.

WARSAW CITIZEN DIES.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 10.—H. D. Hetfield died at his home here Monday, after an illness of several months. He was 66 years old. Gall stones and complications was the direct cause of death. Hamlet D. He came to Warsaw from Peru with his parents when he was but four years old and has resided here since that time. His father, John Hetfield, was a minister and was pastor of the Methodist church. THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Mark 4:30-41.

30 And he said, Whereunto shall we liken the kingdom of God? or with what comparison shall we compare it?

31 It is like a grain of mustard seed, which, when it is sown in the earth, is less than all the seeds that be in the earth:

32 But when it is sown, it groweth up, and becometh greater than all herbs, and shooteth out great branches; so that the fowls of the air may lodge under the shadow of it.

33 And with many such parables spake he the word unto them, as they were able to hear it.

34 But without a parable spake he not unto them: and when they were alone, he expounded all things to his disciples.

35 And the same day, when the even was come, he saith unto them, Let us pass over unto the other side.

36 And when they had sent away the multitude, they took him even as he was in the ship. And there were also with him other little ships.

37 And there arose a great storm of wind, and the waves beat into the ship, so that it was now full.

38 And he was in the hinder part of the ship, asleep on a pillow: and they awake him, and say unto him, Master, carest thou not that we perish?

39 And he arose, and rebuked the wind, and said unto the sea, Peace, be still. And the wind ceased, and there was a great calm.

40 And he said unto them, Why are ye so fearful? how is it that ye have no faith?

41 And they feared exceedingly, and said one to another, What manner of man is this, that even the wind and sea obey him?

Safety on the Railroads

Despite the occasional railroad wreck that benumbs one with horror because of the loss of life that attends it, conclusive figures are at hand to make it apparent that few lines of activity in the United States are so safe as railway travel. The Bureau of Railway News and Statistics has collected data showing that during the last three months of 1914 in the United States 230,500,000 passengers were carried a total of 7,834,000,000 passenger miles and that not one lost life in a collision.

There were in that time 78 fatalities from train accidents, 14 of which were in cases of trespass, and the total includes railroad employes both on and off duty. For the entire year forty-one passengers met death as a result of collisions, a number that seems almost infinitesimally small when measured against the tremendous total of passengers transported, and the fact that railway mileage in the United States is steadily increasing while the number of fatalities is as steadily diminishing.

Reasons for this splendid showing, we think, are not difficult to find. American railroads are steadily improving both trackage and equipment. They are constantly making use of new appliances which operate for the safety of employe and public alike. More rigid rules to safeguard against accident are insisted upon, and the Safety First propaganda is steadily impressed upon operatives. Most important of all, however, is the fact that the American railroad man, as a class, was never of so high a grade as today. He is sober, quick-witted, careful, sturdy and dependable. The fine showing of the railroads is largely due to these conditions.

In all this discussion of possible republican presidential candidates for next year there is a plain undercurrent that makes very certain the fact that the "old guard" is going to be pushed so far back that it is going to be little more than mere scenery in the picture. It will be somewhat rough on those who have enjoyed the laurels of leadership for something like a quarter of a century, but when the race is under way it will be found that there is an entirely new entry and an entirely new driver. If there is one thing certain in the political indications at this distance in advance of the contest, it i sthat the rank and file of the party realizes that it can not hope for success without an entirely new deal both as to candidates and as to the crowd which surrounds them. The old-timers may as well prepare to do their yielding as gracefully as possible.

Fortunately, when the Board of Children's Guardians home near Indianapolis was destroyed by fire on Saturday, the fifty-one little inmates were rescued without loss of life, though the old structure was licked up like tinder by the flames. Equally fortunate, the lesson of the blaze has not been lost, for preparations are already under way for the erection of a thoroughly fireproof building as a home for the waifs under the care of the county board. And that is the only sort of structure that should ever be utilized for any institution of this character. Every city and every county that is following any other plan is apt sooner or later to pay a tragic penalty for its remissness and its neglect.

Lovers of the lighter variety of current American literature will at once realize that they have suffered a distinct loss in the death of George Fitch, the author, which has just occurred at Berkeley, Calif. George Fitch was possessed of the faculty of seeing humor in life's commonplaces and of depicting it with unusual charm. His work, none of it ranking pretentiously from a literary standpoint, was nevertheless delightful and wholesome, and it furnished millions of readers of the magazines and the newspapers with uncounted hours of rare delight.

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, successor of Dowie as overseer at Zion City, the Dowieite colony near Chicago, is now manifesting a desire to lock horns with Evangelist Billy Sunday over the latter's methods. Whether Mr. Sunday will deign to take note of it remains to be seen, but if these gentlemen ever unlimber their oratorical guns at each other, the fact that there has been no great clash of mighty dreadnaughts in the European war will be quickly forgotten, in view of what we shall probably see and hear.

A trained bear which had escaped from a circus wandered into the interurban station at Rolling Prairie where passengers were awaiting the arrival of a trolley car. The consternation was so great that the passengers made use of windows in negotiating a hasty exit from the building, and terror ran riot until the beast was taken blinkingly and unremonstratingly into captivity once more. Well, Rolling Prairie is clearly entitled to a bit of excitement of one sort or another occasionally.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

(Indianapolis News.)

The federal reserve board's summary of conditions in the twelve federal reserve districts indicates that in the business world there is a feeling of mild optimism which promises better business at least until the war brings new conditions. It is stated that "banking conditions remain dull, with large excess reserves on hand and low rates, at which banks seem reluctant to lend on the eve of the movement of crops. But even the banks expect an improvement in the near future, and this seems to be true in most of the districts." Thus, with the banks looking forward to better conditions, and business men in general expecting a revival of business as soon as the crops begin to move, there seems to be a fairly substantial basis for optimism.

The summary further calls attention to the widespread effect of war orders. Many manufacturers are enjoying better business than in normal times, and the number of such manufacturers is increasing. In New England and the cotton cloth manufacturing district of the south the demand for khaki, tenting and blankets for shipment to the belligerent nations has had a stimulating effect. The demand for steel, iron and plate has indirectly created a demand for coal and coke, which has extended the improvement area into sections having no special interest in war orders.

This summary by the government experts is on the whole encouraging. The large wholesale houses of New York city state that collections are "very satisfactory." When contrasted with reports from the same source a year ago, this statement is cheering. The summary agrees, in the main, with reports of better conditions, which have lately been coming from Wall street, although in that quarter some concern is expressed lest the speculative fever that has seized the public may react unfavorably on the situation. But with good crops and an abundance of war orders in the large industrial centers, business activity for the next few months seems likely. What the country needs to prepare for is the permanent readjustment of commercial and industrial relations after the war—when Europe's purchasing power will have been reduced and many of our own factories will need to return to the manufacture of peace products.

RECALLING AN OLD STORY.

(Pittsburgh Dispatch.)

The international law situation may best be summarized by recalling the familiar story of the man who was arrested and placed in jail and sent for a lawyer. The legal adviser heard the circumstances with expressions of incredulity and indignation. The whole business was preposterous, he declared, without warrant of law or reason. He proved to his own satisfaction, by chapter and verse and precedent, that the incarceration of his client was an outrage and that the other side did not have a leg to stand on, winding up with the declaration: "They can't put you in jail. There's the law." "Yes," said his client dubiously, "but here's me!"

The international lawyers on all sides are very much like that lawyer. They declare things are impossible that have already been done. They cite precedents without number and establish to their own satisfaction that their case is flawlessly made out. But they cannot deny the facts. Perhaps if the diplomats would quit pettifogging and get down to business something might be accomplished. Results are worth more than precedents.

Fred Maguire, the young pianist, is spending a few days in Chicago.

Mrs. R. G. Thompson has gone to Petosky for a two weeks' stay.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Fitch left today for Mackinac Island by way of Detroit and the lakes.

Gustav Detzer, of the Old National bank, will soon leave for a tour of the lakes.

M. M. M. Slattery, of the Electric works, will attend the convention of electricians at Cape May, this week.

August Detzer, the druggist, will spend the next two weeks at Detroit, Mackinaw and other great lake resorts.

Clarence Schell will leave tomorrow for Boston, Philadelphia and other eastern points on pleasure as well as on business for the Pulley works.

Deputy Sheriff Platt J. Wise has sold the woolen mill on East Columbia street to Mrs. Maria C. French, the mortgagee, for $22,220.

Prof. C. R. Dryer, who was in the city for several days, left this morning for Lake James, near Angola, to rejoin his family.

Supt. C. D. Law, of Pittsburg railroad, and his family have left for a two weeks' outing at Ashbury Park, N. J.

The White wheel works, the immense plant of the American Wheel company, in this city, were entirely destroyed by fire Friday night. The loss is $150,000, with insurance of $51,000. The origin of the fire is not certainly known, though credence is given the theory that a spark from a Nickel Plate locomotive caused the destruction of the big plant in the eastern part of the city.

The excursion party to the White mountains and the St. Lawrence river, chaperoned by Mrs. D. B. Wells and Miss Carrie Sharp, of Westminster seminary, has returned to this city. In the party besides the chaperones were Mrs. A. B. Nickey and daughter, Maxie, Mrs. J. O. Keller and Misses Pauline Thieme, Emma Buchman, Stella Mossman, Cora and Mabel Tinkham and Miss Pauline Flint, of Kendallville.

Two Parades On Woman's Day, Wed., Aug. 18

There will be two parades at Robison park on Woman's Day, August 18th. Wearing Newport scarfs, souvenirs of the 1915 Old Ladies' Congress, the venerable women will slowly march, two abreast, from the pavilion to the band stand in the grove where the exercises will be held. The Hard Times Parade will line up at 4:00 p. m. in front of the pavilion. The line will move through the park to the band stand where the prizes will be distributed. Imported German sewing baskets, also many useful and ornamental baskets, as well as imported French china plates that have been on exhibition in the pavilion will be awarded this year to those appearing in the Hard Times Parade. It is but fit and proper that those who so largely aid in the day's success should receive the souvenirs. There will also be ten grand prizes for the best ten costumes suggestive of hard times.

His Majesty Talks While He Watches Her Majesty, the Queen, Mend the Royal Shirt.

(By Fred L. Boalt.)

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 6.—His majesty the king sat cross-legged on the dirt floor of the royal tepee, watching her majesty the queen mend his shirt.

In the entrance to the tepee I made deep obeisance and requested an audience. Also, would his majesty pose before the camera?

"Bimeby—mebby," said the king.

Finally I was waited upon, where I tarried, by one whom I must designate, I suppose, as a duke—a slim-waisted young Indian in a pink silk shirt, chaps and high-heeled boots—one of the royal nephews.

The king would grant me an interview. I could take his picture. Even now the king was making his toilet.

George Maninick is hereditary old, fat and rich—the richest Indian chief of the Yakimas. He owns much stock, both horses and cattle.

For thirty-two years King George has been going about the country, entering his horses at fairs and roundups, his young men riding them for prizes. It is a profitable business.

The duke confided to me: "Ol' man he want to show off. He be ready bimeby. You wait get dam' fine picture, you bet!"

I learned later that the duke is what you might call the heir-apparent, the king being without issue. After I had cooled my heels an interminable while the king appeared, followed by the queen.

The king was wearing his royal robe. The queen set upon his head the royal war bonnet. She placed in his hand the royal turkey's wing.

Now the king would mount his horse. The duke shouted, and other dukes came running. I helped.

Some of us propped the rangy grey on the offside. Others of us grasped the royal legs and hoisted! The grey spraddled and trembled. The king grunted. The queen held her breath.

Heave! The thing was done.

Later, in the tepee, the king talked to me graciously. The young man squirmed uncomfortably.

"He say," translated the heir-apparent, "he last chief. He say me no good for chief."

"Why?"

The question was put in the tribal tongue. And answered:

"He say no need for chief now. He say his father chief before white man come. Now Wilson chief."

The king listened intently. Suddenly he displayed a knowledge of the English language he had not previously revealed. The heir-apparent was cheating.

"Ugh!" said King George of Yakima. "You hear me!"

He plucked at the heir-apparent's pink silk shirt.

"White man shirt."

With the toe of the royal moccasin he touched the heir-apparent's high-heeled boot.

"White man boot."

He slapped his own mighty chest:

"Indian shirt."

He indicated the royal feet with a fat finger: "Indian moccasin."

The queen's sides shook. A giggle escaped her.

"Indian boy one time go to school, learn hunt, fish, make fire now Indian boy go school learn shorthand. Forget Indian custom. I die bimeby. No need for chief."

The heir-apparent lit a cork-tipped cigaret. He consulted an Ingersoll watch. The king waived a fat hand.

"Go 'way," he commanded. "Too much talk. 'Sleep now. Go 'way!"

WOMEN AT ISSUE WITH ROOSEVELT DOCTRINE

Big Family Theory is Attacked in Suffrage Circles.

New York, Aug. 10.—"Roosevelt talks like the kaiser," said Mrs. Kate Morris, secretary of the Domestic Science Club of New York, "in relegating women to the nursery as he does in his latest remarks. Any man who would tell a woman with seven children who is attempting to live on $20 a week that she must keep on having more must be crazy. It is simply returning to the old German point of view which regards women as simply fit for church, kitchen and children. No woman can care for so many children and do her duty to society."

Colonel Roosevelt's advice, given in San Diego, Cal., to a mother of seven, whose husband is unemployed, and who asked him what she should do, aroused comment in suffrage circles. He is reported to have replied, "Keep on being a mother, no matter what the conditions may be."

"I can't believe he said it," asserted Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, "or at least I can't believe that he meant it literally. If he really did mean it I think his advice simply criminal. No child ought to be born into the world until its economical future is assured as far as possible. To have children without thinking what is to become of them or how they are to live, threatens the whole system of society. Why did the woman put it up to Roosevelt, anyway? He isn't running a social service bureau."

LITTLE ADELAIDE CLOSE WHO HAD A CIRCUS FOR BIRTHDAY PARTY.

ADELAIDE B. CLOSE

Greenwich, Conn., Aug. 10.—More than a hundred youngsters from New England's leading families are still chattering excitedly about that "birthday circus." It was certainly the oddest birthday party in all history.

Little Adelaide Close, daughter of E. B. Close, was seven years old. Her mother just had to do something nice to celebrate the great day; so she had a full two-ring circus, with clowns and animals and popcorn and pink lemonade all complete, give a matinee performance in Adelaide's front yard!

Marcelline, most famous of clowns, was there, and everything from peanuts and candy to the big show in the eighty-foot tent was free and exclusive for little boys and girls who were Adelaide's guests.

AIRMAN CANNOT KNOW EXACT DAMAGE DONE

Precise Results of His Attacks Not Often Disclosed to Him.

Paris, July 30.—Correspondence of the Associated Press.—During the first year of war, so far as accounts have been rendered to the public, thirty-five German flying machines, not including dirigible balloons, were brought to earth and destroyed by French airmen. The day he was obliged to alight behind the German lines and was taken prisoner, Roland Garros, the well known civilian aviator, held the record, with three machines to his credit. He has since been surpassed by Lieutenant E—— G——, who has brought down four.

Garros used a special armament planned by himself with a machine gun regulated to fire across the axis of the propeller. In the first ten days with this machine he brought down his three victims.

What a single airman is able to accomplish against land forces is indicated by the case of Adjutant V——, reported by Jacques Mortane, sporting writer and a volunteer in the aviation corps, as having in a single day dropped twelve three and a half-inch shells and 8,000 steel darts upon batteries of mortars that he destroyed at Norroy, eight shells and 4,000 darts on the general headquarters at Thiaucourt, four shells and 2,000 darts on Pagn-sur-Moselle, four shells and 2,000 darts at Pannes and four shells and 2,000 darts at Chambly—a total of thirty-two shells and 18,000 darts.

It is generally impossible for the airman to know exactly what damage he has done, except in the case where bombs cause conflagrations. In various ways, however, details of the results of some bombardments, have become known. At the headquarters of the German crown prince at Rivigny, October 22, fifteen men were killed and thirty-six horses and twenty-two men wounded. The men were mostly officers. At the general headquarters of Emperor William, November 1, two of the emperor's aides-de-camp were killed. In the destruction of a military train at Zeebrugge, December 17, forty soldiers were killed and 100 wounded. At the headquarters of the Prince of Wurtumberg, General Garnereich and two lieutenant generals were killed. On May 31, the airmen killed forty-four soldiers and wounded thirty at the German aerodrome at Contrade.

Official details have been given of over a hundred air attacks upon German camps, aerodromes, railway communications, etc., but they are only a part of what the attacking flying corps has done; it often happens that the raider does not come back to render account. How many French airmen have been brought down it is impossible to state; the French give out no figures of their losses. A number of accidents are known, however, and among them some that give a vivid impression of the dangers run by the bombarding section of the flying corps. Captain D—— was about to take the air for a raid, and, the machine gun man with him, was preparing a shell at 1,800 meters high, when he awkwardly let it fall upon the frame. The shock exploded the projectile and blew the apparatus and men to pieces.

A similar accident occurred to the English aviator, Captain C——. While he was taking aboard his supply of ammunition, a bomb fell to the ground, exploded, destroyed the machine, the pilot and twelve machinists who were standing by.

M—— P——, caught in the clouds on a severely cold day, came out at a height of 1,200 yards, so benumbed that he lost control of his machine and fell to the earth.

Lieutenant N—— was reconnoitering with an observer whose scarf became unwound in the wind and caught in the propeller, precipitating the machine to the ground.

WORKMEN ARE ASKED TO QUIT DRINKING

Illinois Steel Company Starts Dry Campaign Among Employes

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Officials of the Illinois Steel company in South Chicago have started a campaign against drinking among their employees. Signs and posters telling the evils of strong drink were displayed in all parts of the plant. The campaign had a good effect and the officials were just beginning to congratulate themselves when the saloon-keepers hit upon an idea to offset the boycott against them.

They established elaborate free lunches and advertised the fact. They posted signs, which told of the bad effects cold lunches had on digestive organs. One sign read:

"Don't come in to drink. Come in and eat."

The company came back with the establishment of a restaurant in the plant. Recently the men ate their first meal with the following menu; Bowl of soup, two cents; roast beef and potatoes, five cents; tomato, one cent; pie, one cent; coffee, two cents; ham sandwich, two cents; beans, two cents; ice cream, two cents.

WED LONG; ASKS DIVORCE.

Paris, Ky., Aug. 10.—Suit has been filed in the Bourbon circuit court here by Mrs. Willie Fisher Ingels against Edward M. Ingels, asking for an absolute divorce.

Mrs. Ingels was the beautiful Miss Willie Fisher, daughter of the late W. W. Fisher, a prominent Blue Grass farmer. She was married twenty-eight years ago to Edward M. Ingels, only son of Dr. Edward M. Ingels, who formerly was one of the most noted physicians and surgeons in Kentucky. Their wedding was a society event. In her petition Mrs. Ingels alleges that her husband has been a habitual drunkard during almost their entire wedded life.

FALL HATS, DID YOU SAY? HERE THEY ARE—THE FIRST CROP OF THE SEASON.

(By Betty Brown.)

Dame Fashion is going to see to it that no one's disappointed in the matter of hats this fall. There are broad brimmed, drooping hats for the girl who likes a picturesque frame for her face; there are perky little tri-corner turbans for the girl who likes a hat with a saucy tilt to it and there are hats betwixt and between in size, and richly trimmed to suit "Every woman."

For the early season the wide brimmed, simply trimmed hat will have supremacy, but with winter's approach the small, close fitting turban will come into its own, and milliners who forecast styles say the little hat will have great vogue in the late fall season.

The tri-corner hat at left is also black velvet, with the dove of peace—wings and breast—perched jauntily on its crown.

These hats will be shown at the August style show given in Chicago under the auspices of the Chicago Garment Manufacturer's association.

The Willing Workers Aid Society will hold their annual picnic and the only meeting of the year they have which is not devoted to work, on Thursday, at Robison park. If the weather seems uncertain and the members are in doubt as to which place to go, they can have the matter decided for them by calling up the Willing Workers' society headquarters.

Among the out-of-town guests who were here Sunday to be present at the Maloley-Bashara wedding, were Solomon D. Nazzar, interpreter and secretary to Archbishop Girmanos: N. F. Naggir, of Lawrence, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Naggen, of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Michael Gannen, of Detroit, Mich.; Louis R. Smith-Strebig.

A pretty wedding that took place at the Church of the Precious Blood at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning was that of Miss Isabel Strebig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Strebig, of 1418 Wells street, and Mr. Joseph F. Smith, a young man employed at the Bowser works. Rev. Father Hummer officiated at the nuptial mass. Miss Gabrielle Strebig, a sister of the bride, and Mr. Joseph Bauman were the bridesmaid and groomsman. The bride's costume was a very pretty dress of white trimmed with lace and embroidery. She wore a veil held to her hair with a wreath of smilax and sweetpeas. The bride carried her prayerbook which had a marker of ribbon and swansonia. The bridesmaid was gowned in a pink satin with white chiffon overdress and she carried a bouquet of pink roses. The wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home and then the bridal party started on an outomobile ride. Later in the day together with a couple of young friends, the bride and groom went on a trip to James and Clear lakes. They are to be gone two weeks. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Smith will go to housekeeping in a residence in Maumee avenue. Both bride and groom have many friends who are interested in their future happiness.

Kelley, and the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Ahern, were the witnesses. Miss Ruth Walls was present at the marriage service. The bride and groom left immediately for a trip to southern points. They will visit a friend at Toledo, Ohio, on their return Mr. and Mrs. Ahern will go to housekeeping and will be at home to their friends after Sept. 1 at 2041 South Calhoun street. Gown That School Girls May Like.

(By Betty Brown.)

"Simple elegance" are just the words that describe this stunning little costume I saw the other day in the studio of Mme. Marguerite of the Fashion Art League of America. It's made of marquisette and fine French serge, but just plain serge could be used with good effect and with a trimming of buttons it would be a charming gown for a school girl.

In the gown sketched the serge forms a 12-inch band at the bottom extending upward at the sides in pocket form. The marquisette blouse is trimmed with hand embroidered medallions of gold run lace, and gold buttons are used on the blouse, sleeves and skirt.

AT THE TEMPLE.

LAUGH, LAUGH LAUGH.

Paycen Stock Players in Mirthful Farce, "Hello, Bill."

Laughs of every size and shape known to man or woman are brought into being by the exhilirating farce comedy, "Hello, Bill," the hilarious three-act riot in which the Paycen stock company players are appearing this week. A happier selection in response to the request of scores of patrons of the house for a farce could hardly have been made, as the comedy, "Hello, Bill," although essentially a farce, is not mere bufoonery, especially as it is handled by the Paycen players. Maurice Jenkins, who in only one other character he has done during the current summer season, has had an opportunity to display his talents as a comedian, scores in the role of Bill, while his friendly fixer, done by Harry Manners, is a splendid foil for him. Jay C. Collins has originated his own conception of Dr. Hastings, and finally the stock company's "villain" has found a role in which he is not a double dyed rascal. He's one of the big laughs of the farce as the fussy, gushing young doctor who helps keep Bill Fuller in hot water.

Princess to Rule the Fall Fashions

The princess gown is to "queen" over the fashion world this fall. Not that all the gowns will be princesses, but according to fashion forecasts I hear most of the smart gowns will be built on princess lines.

A demure little frock to be shown soon at the Chicago Garment Manufacturers' association style show with a quaint fichu draped about the shoulders attracted so much attention at a recent style show that I sketched it for the benefit of my readers. It's dark blue charmeuse with fichu of black Chantilly drawn through the inside panel and reappearing at the back where it is tied in a sash. The skirt is short as are all the new skirts and the scalloped edge is one of the new ideas as are the seam on the side [illegible]

AT THE JEFFERSON.

PAULINE FREDERICK.

Famous Stage Beauty and Emotional Artiste at Jefferson in "Sold."

Containing all the elements for vigorous emotional portrayal, "Sold" provides Miss Frederick with a role adapted to her finely developed talents. Miss Frederick's characterization is that of the wife of an impoverished artist, who, in order to obtain funds for her husband, consents to pose in the nude for his wealthy rival. This sacrificial act is detected by the husband, who, misunderstanding her motive, spurns her and laughs at her protestations that the act he brands her for was committed for his sake. From this point, the drama develops much stress, and after a series of overpoweringly tense situations, the husband learns of his wife's true nature and absolute fidelity, and a happy reunion is effected.

As the doubted and suffering wife, Miss Frederick does not miss the slightest opportunity to score. It seems as if all the ability that she evidenced on the stage in "Joseph and His Brethren," as Potiphar's wife, and as the central character of "Innocent," are concentrated in the impersonation of the heart-broken wife in "Sold."

AT THE NEW PALACE

DISTINGUISHED ACTOR AT PALACE

William Faversham in "Right of Way," Tonight and Tomorrow.

The distinguished actor, William Faversham, makes his Fort Wayne screen drama debut tonight and tomorrow at the New Palace when he will be seen in the film adaptation of Sir Gilbert Parker's absorbing story of the great north country, "The Right of Way." Mr. Faversham is supported by Miss Jane Grey and a cast of notable proportions in this his premiere in the silent drama. Mr. Faversham's splendid successes on the legitimate stage are paralleled by his achievements in this thrilling story of life in the bleak north country as unfolded by the camera. His versatility and surpassing histrionic talents lend themselves admirably to the role of Charlie Steele, in which he appears in "The Right of Way."

Chaplin Coming Back.

Charlie Chaplin will be back Thursday and Friday in another satisfying revue of his favorite farce comedies. The selection for this second big revue include some of Mr. Chaplin's most recent laugh makers.

AT THE LYRIC.

A "MOVIE" CABARET.

"Midnight at Maxim's Colorful Four-Act Screen Revue at Lyric—Chaplin Friday.

With fifty-five of Broadway's prettiest, most symmetrical chorus beauties in the score of gigantic ensemble numbers, and twenty-five of the foremost entertainers of the native stage taking part in the different specialty numbers, "Midnight at Mixim's," the sensational four reel "movie cabaret" produced by the Kalem company, represents the greatest aggregation of feminine loviliness and cleverness ever gathered together in an event of the kind. Rector's Maxim's, Bustanoby's and the Winter Garden, Bohemian spots in New York, all noted for wealth of beautiful show girls, contributed in making this screen conception the dazzling success that it is.

In addition to "Midnight at Maxim's," the Lyric will display two other reels of pictures, one a Billy Reeves Lubin comedy and one of the inimitable Sophie Clutts comedies. On Friday and Saturday Charles Chaplin appears in his latest Essanay photo-scream, "The Eank."

BUT HE DREW REVOLVER.

Anton Refused to Kneel While Popping Question.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 10.—When Anton Miles went wooing pretty Rose Blue he intended to ask her to marry him. When he got to the point where he intended to pop the question, she insisted that he conform to time-honored custom and kneel. Anton wouldn't.

"You'll have to kneel to marry me," Rose said. Police charge that Anton then drew a revolver and fired at her. The bullet caused a flesh wound. Anton fled, but a crowd caught him and he was arrested on the charge of shooting to kill. He said he declined to kneel because it would humiliate him.

"GOT HER" ALL RIGHT.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 10.—When friends of Carl Ryder, private secretary of H. S. Kelsey, of Boston, learned that he was seriously ill in that city some time ago, they wired, "Get the best nurse possible." A little later came the reply, "Got her."

And they discovered that the nurse formerly was Miss Mary A. Foulke, that her name now is Mrs. John Carl Ryder, and that the patient had "got her" indeed.

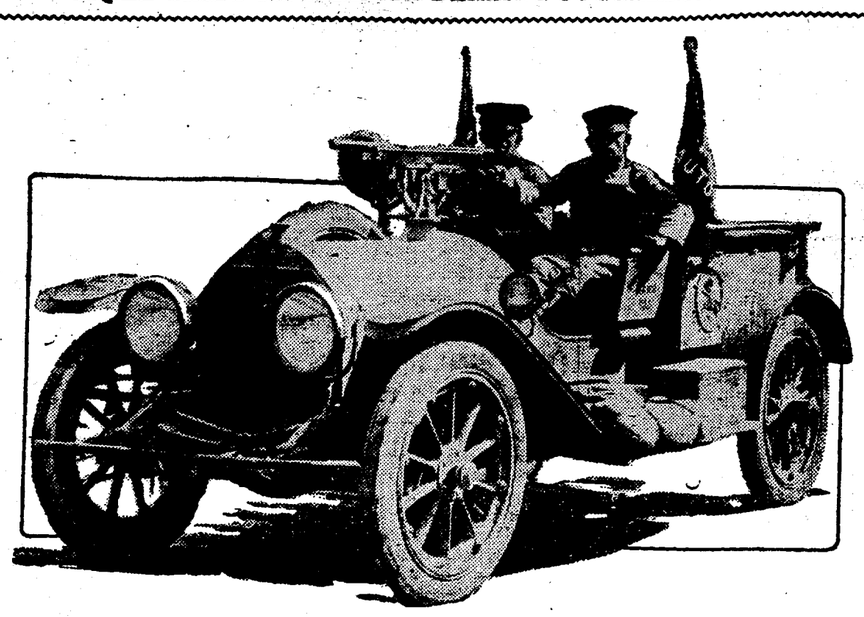
UNCLE SAM'S NEW DEATH-DEALING JUGGERNAUT.



One of eight armored motor cars recently taken overland to the exposition at San Francisco from Lake Geneva, Wis., by thirty honor students of the Northwestern military academy, under command of Colonel R. P. Davidson. The party was on the road forty-three days.

The purpose of the trip was to demonstrate the efficiency of modern war machines now being turned out in this country and used in Uncle Sam's army.

The armored car squadron's equipment includes rapid-fire guns, mounted on the machines, wireless paraphernalia, heliograph instruments, field kitchen and hospital and other emergency requisites.

PROTESTS AGAINST CUT OF TRACK LEVY

Mayor Hosey Will Send a Special Message to City Council.

In a special message to be sent to the city council Tuesday evening, Mayor W. J. Hosey will strongly protest against cutting the track elevation levy from 10 cents to 7 cents, and he will present some strong reasons for his position. He will not oppose the proposed motorization of the equipment at No. 1 fire station, but he will undertake to show the council that the $15,000 asked by the board of safety for that purpose can be procured without taking anything from the provisions for track elevation. The mayor will insist that the $30,000 in the garbage plant fund is sufficient for any plan that it will be wise for the city to adopt for increased facilities to destroy garbage and that the 3-cent levy maintained for two years for the garbage plant can be added to the general levy, producing next year about $12,500. He also will represent to the council that by motorizing the equipment at No. 1 station the proposed appropriation of $4,000 for fireproof quarters in which to install the electric fire-alarm headquarters can be in large part dispensed with and the money thus saved used to increase the motorization fund. The mayor will point out that the use of motor equipment will enable the fire department to remove the haymow from the station and thus eliminate the most complained of source of danger to the electric signal headquarters, which can be given more room and safety at a comparatively small expenditure. The mayor's message will approve the estimates prepared by City Comptroller W. C. Baade in practically all other details. But he will not acquiesce in the proposed cut of the track elevation levy.

The mayor will point out that the city must prove its good faith in demanding track elevation east of Calhoun street by display of financial preparation to perform its part of the work, and be ready in the event of litigation to demonstrate to courts that its own financial arrangements are complete.

BUDGET WILL ENGAGE COUNCIL.

First August Meeting Will Bring Annual Appropriations and Levy Forward.

The regular meeting of the city council Tuesday evening will have as the main event the presentation by the city comptroller of the annual budget and tax levy for 1916. The fireworks will be provided, however, by the anti-screen ordinance introduced by Councilman J. B. Mills, of the Sixth ward, a measure on which the committee on rules, regulations and ordinances will submit majority and minority reports. The majority report, signed by Members Jacob Hartman and Frank Schlebecker, will recommend that the ordinance do not pass, and Member Robert John will report favorably. A large delegation from the Men's Christian league and numbers of other persons will be present to urge the passage of the ordinance. The appropriations and levy ordinances will be referred to the committee of the whole.

and yet does nothing more than to send repeated warnings that are derided by half savage men, drunk with ill-gotten power and the spirit of graft and hate.

"For many months the Americans here, driven almost to desperation, have tried to bring their government to a realization of the awful situation and begged that the American people be informed. Their request, long denied, was finally conceded in part by the president in his own statement of June 2, reciting briefly the conditions in Mexico. These conditions, then hardly endurable, are much worse now and the apparent inactivity of the government at Washington fills Mexico with despair. There is not even a semblance of government here at the capital and we are living on a smoldering volcano. The entire city council has been imprisoned without cause. We have seen three changes of armed government in thirty days. There is no communication with the world except by special messenger."

WHERE THE EXTREMES OF MATRIMONY MET

Words Uniting Couple Mingle With Demand for a Divorce.

While Justice H. C. Nierman stood up in County Clerk Stout's private office, Tuesday afternoon and said the solemn words that joined in the holy bonds of wedlock a very pretty girl and a good-looking youth, there stood just outside another and an older woman whose words rose above the marriage service while she "bawled out" her lawyer who had failed to file her divorce suit. As the pretty bride and the good-looking groom said "yes" to all the injunctions, the mismated one told her troublees to Deputy Clerk Al Brink and she was in considerable fuss because her lawyer had not got her suit for "a bill" from "that man" started. The extremes of matrimony were in a head-on collision.

Leonard, Rose & Zollars appear for the plaintiff.

Mrs. Caroline Taylor on July 21 last brought suit in the superior court for divorce from Cecil Taylor, has now begun action in the same court against Berne Archer for $10,000 damages ,alleging that this defendant has alienated the affections of Cecil Taylor from the plaintiff. William C. Ryan and Howard Hanthorn are the plaintiff's attorneys.

The will of the late Marie Hartman has been filed for probate. She leaves a number of cash bequests to relatives, the amounts ranging from $50 to $500, $500 each to the Zion Evangelical Lutheran congregation of Fort Wayne and the Lutheran hospital of this city and the balance of her property in equal shares to Henry and Christian Buettel and Charlotte Koop. Fred Klein is named executor.

The superior court has fixed Nov. 10 as the date for hearing the suit of George Jeffers against the Wabash railroad for $3,000 damages, and Nov. 18 for hearing the suit of George Wright against the Wabash for $5,000 damages. Each case will be heard by a jury.

Shattered Ancient Hunting Law and Gains $19,000 During Otter Season

(By Jack Jungmeyer.)

San Francisco, Aug. 7.—Fred Schroder a friend of the lost Viljalmer Stefansson and veteran whaler, who is about to go north again, was telling me how he introduced the doctrine of co-operation among the Eskimo huntsmen of the arctic.

It was when Schroder was accounted the most successful otter hunter above the circle, with pelts bringing $1,000 each.

By changing in a day the age-old custom of the natives he enriched himself by about $19,000 that season; shattered the accumulated wisdom and sagas of tribal patriarchs, and brought opulence in place of poverty among the Eskimos with whom he dealt.

It was simple enough.

"My natives," said Schroder, "in their skin kyaks, worked under the ancient tribal law that the kill belonged to the hunter who first wounded the animal, no matter who subsequently killed it. And to him also belonged all the reward.

"The man who believed he had planted a bullet in an otter—for my hunters used rifles and shotguns, as well as harpoons—held aloft the paddle of his canoe. From that time until the otter was captured none of his fellows might shoot at the quarry. It had to be killed with the harpoon.

"Naturally bluffing crept in. Shrewd hunters raised their paddles on the thinnest pretext, and often the chase of an otter would consume an entire day under this crazy code—the law of the first wound.

"This meant few otter in a season, small profits for me and equally little pay for my natives.

"At the head of my crew was old Elia, an Aleut chief, and a great hunter—ugly, wrinkled and very proud of his prowess. No white man could tell him anything. His ways were the ways of his forefathers and of his Indian gods.

"Alongside Chief Elia's skin boat rode Loveretti, a lad of fourteen, in his "bidarka," out on his first hunt. Quiet and respectful he was, as behooved a boy in the presence of his distinguished elders.

"But when it came to shooting, Loveretti did not wait for his chief to fire first. So it was that the untried youngster got the first otter of the season, after many weeks of fruitless hunting.

"Chief Elia gloomed with pique and jealousy. But the tribal law allowed the boy the entire pay for the killing.

Fred Schroder; his whaling vessel "Elvira," and a group of Siberian natives, expert otter hunters.

When I paid the boy I got the men together and gave them a talk.

"'You see,' I explained, 'how it is with your law of the first wound. Chief Elia, a great hunter, gets nothing. This Loveretti, a mere boy, gets everything. And yet all of you worked hard, maybe harder even than Loveretti. That is not good; it is not fair.'

"They nodded doubtful approval.

"'Now,' I continued, 'why don't you all hunt together, get as many otter as you can, no matter who wounds them or kills them, and then divide the money equally among all?'

"The old chief got to his feet, a new light in his eyes.

"'Why you no tell us before?' he said, voicing surprise that a white man could have thought of this happy solution first. 'We do that way after this.' And he issued orders accordingly.

"In place of a probable half-dozen skins, I got twenty-four during that season under the new co-operative hunting. And everyone was the gainer.

"'Always hunt 'em your way now,' Elia told me on my last trip. 'Good way, even if white man think 'em first. Maybe white man know something, I guess.' And he grinned his compliments."

CUBS OPEN WITH WIN OVER TERRIERS

Re-arranged Line-up Goes Great and Cops First of Series.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 10—Fort Wayne defeated the Highlanders yesterday when they pounded Gilbert out of the box and then repeated the stuff on Gregg in the ninth. Osborne started for Fort Wayne but went a little to the bad in the seventh, and Hart went to the rescue, stopping what for a moment looked like a Terrier win. The locals hadn't lost a game in the last dozen and the crowds took out their revenge on Umps Goehler at the end of the game, necessitating police protection for the indicator man.

Fort Wayne got to Gilbert for two in the third on a wild heave by Gilbert, singles by Hartle and Osborne and Brant's sacrifice fly. Three more piled up in the next frame and Gilbert yanked himself in the midst of it. Two were down then when Grey threw wild, and a double and a base on balls and a single made three more.

Brant doubled in the fifth and went to third on an error, Holderman sending him home with a sacrifice fly. Three more in the ninth cinched the game. Score:

"LITTLE OLD MAN OF THE LINKS" RETIRES.

(By Brown Holmes).

Walter J. Travis, the "Little Old Man of the Links," is through. He has announced he will not play in the national championship tournament at Detroit, Mich., next month.

The tourney will be the first big one in years without the entry of the little old man who has watched golf grow from a game scorned as a pastime only for the Oslerized to a sport so popular that in many cities the courses are far too few to accommodate the demand of both young and old.

Travis has competed in golf tournaments twenty-two years. He was 34 when he began competition play. A little more than a month ago, at the age of 56, he won the Metropolitan championship.

Jerry Travers is the only golfer who has won more titles than the "Little Old Man." Travis won the Metropolitan championship four times, was national champion, and in 1904 won the British championship. He was the only Yankee to ever carry away an English golf title.

Travis, by being on the links almost every day for years, reduced the game to a science. He knew to within a few feet the carrying distance of each of his sticks. He played golf a good deal like a chess champion plays chess.

Travis' reason for staying out of the national meet is typical of his fairness.

"It would not be right for me," he said, "to start fresh and possibly eliminate some good man, then weaken and allow some one else, with not much chance of winning, to remain in. I'll just knock around for fun hereafter."

The tourney will not seem right to golfers and fans who, year after year, have watched the "Little Old Man" in his traditional uniform of Oxford jacket and knickerbockers, chewing on a black cigar, playing his way into the semi-finals and finals.

"I've had my day. I'm willing now to step aside for the younger element," was the statement of the "Little Old Man" as he closed his tournament career.

LOW PERCENTAGE IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

A new record for the forty-four years of major league baseball will be set this season, judging from the way things stack up now. Some club in the National league is going to win the pennant with a percentage mark of .588.

Since the National league was started in 1871, there have been 59 pennant struggles, 44 in the National and 15 in the American league. In all these struggles only one pennant was ever won with a mark under .600. The Detroit Tigers turned the trick in 1908 with .588. They just nosed out the Cleveland Naps.

The National race has been so torrid this season the Phils, although they led for a long time, have not been able to get far above the .550 mark.

If any club is going to go above .588 that club will have to cut loose from the rest of the bunch and run completely away from everybody. It does not seem likely any of the clubs can do that.

There are four clubs bunched around the top and all seem of almost equal strength. None is able to pull far ahead of the other. The race is getting hotter all the time, so the chances for a new record in low percentage is very good.

Over in the American league things are different. There is a bigger difference in the strength of the first and second division clubs. Boston has been well over the .600 mark for some time and Detroit has beaten that figure. There does not seem much chance there for the winning team will be under .600.

CROSS LEAVES RING TO STICK TO DENTISRY.

Leach Cross

Leach Cross, the lightweight, who has been prominent in the ring for some time, says he will not fight any more, but stick to pulling teeth. Cross is a dentist and has a dental parlor in New York.

Cross says he has as much money as he needs, a fine auto and a good dental business. As a fighter Cross was one of the hardest punchers among the lightweights.

UMPS SLEAR WAS STAR IN LONG CENTRAL TILT.

(Terre Haute Star).

Umps Bo Slear in his day was quite a ball player. The indicator handler who is on the job at Athletic park has a clipping which shows that he won a 17-inning 1 to 0 game at South Bend, Ind., on Labor day, 1903, in which Cecil Ferguson, town lot star, and "Cy" Alberts, former Terre Haute flinger, were the rival slabbists. Slear decided the duel with a single which scored the only run of the affair. Ferguson was found for ten hits while Alberts, twirling for Fort Wayne, allowed but five. Cecil issued but one walk in the game, which lasted three hours and five minutes.

LONELY WOMAN COOPS UP HUBBY AND PLAYS BALL.

MAKING A SAFE SLIDE FOR THE PLATE IN A CLOSE PLAY.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 10.—Some cities have their feminine golfers, their tennis sharks and some their swimmers, but Spokane has its women baseball teams.

There is great rivalry between the married women and the single women for the city championship, and the contests have been wavering between the feminine benedicts and the unmarried sisters until hair pins strewn like base lines and bats are covered with ribbons.

The married women have carried off most of the games, but the single maids now threaten the umpires with hat pins unless more favorable decisions are given.

Every week the matrons line the baby buggies up next to the grandstand, put their husbands behind the wire netting at the park so that a mere man cannot get out of the cage, and then they commence to slam the ball.

Miss M. Davenport is star pitcher for the singles, while Mrs. F. Fletcher holds down the mound for the matrons. Mrs. A. Creder, the accomplished and stalwart shortstop for the married women, is champion slider and can usually make home from third in three slides. Mr. Creder, her husband, is waterboy. He comes in handy when the women wash up after a hard inning.

Two single women put their wedding ring on a chain to wear it around their necks, saying it chafed their fingers.

STATISTICS PROVE THE CENTRAL LUCKY

Heilbroner's Circuit Weathers Storm That Sinks a Fleet of Clubs.

That the Central league, under the able command of Skipper Loole Heilbriner, has weathered a baseball gale of no small proportions and remained afloat while many sister leagues were foundering, was proven when Heilbroner's Blue Book supplement came off the press. The supplement is composed of figures secured at the end of the second act and looks a lot like an embalmer's manual. It is chiefly a list of the late lamented in the matter of leagues, managers and clubs.

Two leagues, the South Atlantic and the Georgia State, closed before July 20, and the latter changed its circuit and went under an alias through the last three weeks of its sickly existence.

The following leagues disbanded:

Southern Michigan association.
Nebraska State league.
Bi-State league.
Middle Texas league.
Central Texas league.

Void schedules are chalked up against the following:

Illinois-Iowa-Indiana league.
Northern league.
Ohio State league.

And thirty-four league clubs have fired their managers and taken on new pilots since the opening of the season, too. Eight new presidents have taken the places of those that have fallen by the wayside, four clubs have changed cities, the Northern league dropped a pair of clubs, and so much for the mortuary statistics.

And there has come into existence one new league (count it, one). It is the Central Texas league, and it came to an early death. But with the wails of the wounded and the sighs of the dying on every hand, and the snug little old Central playing right along, it shows that there was good management here. Hats off to Loole, gents, the little giant who sat so cussed tight on the Central lid that not a single team got spilled, and that we are having baseball here today.

COWS EAT DYNAMITE.

Three Members of Indiana Man's Herd Dead in Consequence.

Columbus, Ind., Aug. 10.—Ben Perry, a farmer who lives near here, reported today that three of his cows are dead as a result of eating dynamite. Perry says he left about five pounds of the explosive in a field where he had been blowing stumps and that the cows swallowed it.

QUITS AFTER CAREER OF 25 YEARS ON BALL FIELD.

BILL HART.

Bill Hart, after a career of more than twenty-five years on the ball field, has resigned as National league umpire. It was said he quit because he got tired of having his work criticised.

Hart was a pitcher more than twenty years, and was still hurling in the Southern league when he passed the age of forty. He was in the same class with Cy Young in point of service. Hart spent his years in the minors, while Young was in the majors. He was called "Bond Hill Bill" Hart because he lived at Bond Hill, near Cincinnati.

SOME IMPORTANT INSPECTION TRIPS

Pennsylvania Has Three Booked for This and Next Week.

Two important inspection events are slated on the Western division of the Pennsylvania for this week and one for next week. The first is the trip over the line by General Superintendent W. G. Downing, which is now on and which was mentioned in detail by The Sentinel yesterday. The second one this week will be the color blind, station and building inspection trip, which will be a combination of departments in which the maintenance of way and the operating will figure. The color blind inspection trip was arranged some days ago and to save time and expense, it was decided to combine station, building and track inspection with it. The special train carrying the inspection party will leave Fort Wayne at 7:30 Thursday morning and work east as fast as Lima, where a stop for the night will be made. Friday the territory between Lima and Crestline will be covered, the party returning here Friday night. Among those who will be in this inspection party will be Supt. Otto Schroll, Trainmaster C. L. Hamilton and one of his assistants, Road Foreman of Engines C. R. Colmey and one of his assistants, Master Mechanic E. E. Griest, Division Engineer Guy Scott and Assistant Harvey Hall and possibly a few others. The bridge inspection, which will be confined to the maintenance of way department, will consume three days, commencing at Clark Junction Thursday, August 19, and working east, stopping en route at each bridge and important culvert. A. A. Wirth, of Pittsburg, supervising engineer, will have charge and among those who will be with him will be Division Engineer Guy Scott and Assistant Engineer Harvey Hall. Each supervisor will accompany the party over his own sub-division.

HAVE TREAT FOR PATRONS.

Electric Works' Band to Put Up Good Music Tonight.

The ice cream social and concert to be given by the band boys of the Fort Wayne Electric works at Swinney park tonight will be one of the best park entertainments of the season. The band has been rehearsing new music and will play some of it for the first time in public tonight. The "eats" feature of the entertainment will also be above the standard for lawn festivals. The money derived from the social goes into the treasury of the band and helps to defray expenses of the noonday concerts in McCulloch park, the second one of which will be given next Thursday.

WILL TAKE WESTERN TRIP.

Raymond J. Miller, engine dispatcher at the Pennsylvania round house, will enter upon a two weeks' vacation next Sunday, when he will start for Salt Lake City. He expects to stop over at Denver, Pueblo, Colorado Springs and other points of interest en route west and on the return trip.

S. Warusewicz, a locomotive oiler at the Pennsylvania round house, received a bad wound in the hand above the thumb yesterday. He will be off duty several days on account of it.

R. B. Monroe, a flue caulker, reported for work at the Pennsylvania round house this morning. He had an eye injured a few days ago.

THREE WILL BE RETIRED.

"The Roll of Honor," as the list of retired Pennsylvania employes is called, will receive three new names in October. Then three of the old shopmen will pass the seventieth year of their age. They are John Lindeman, employed since July, 1884; August Krone, employed since 1868, and Frederick Krauser, employed since September, 1871.

RETURNS FROM THE ADIRONDACKS

Daniel Davis, chemist at the Bass Foundry and Machine works, has returned from a three weeks' vacation trip in the east. A portion of the time was spent in the Adirondack mountains with a party of friends. Mr. Davis met Rev. H. B. Masters, of the First Presbyterian church, in the mountains, and several other people who are known in Fort Wayne.

WILL ATTEND CONVENTION.

The Master Blacksmiths' association will hold its annual convention at Philadelphia next week and among the delegates will be Frank A. Opatz, foreman of the Pennsylvania blacksmith shops in this city. Mr. Opatz will be accompanied to Philadelphia by Mrs. Opatz and they will leave for that city next Sunday.

SOCIAL AT SWINNEY PARK.

The Electric works' band will give a concert and ice cream social at Swinney park tonight and the ticket sales indicate that a big crowd will be in attendance. The band will give another noonday concert at McCulloch park next Thursday, the second affair of its kind this summer.

JOHN BURLAGE QUITE SICK.

John Burlage, whose illness was mentioned by the Sentinel several days ago, continues in bad condition. He underwent a surgical operation a year ago, the effects of which, he says, is still felt, in addition to other trouble. Mr. Burlage is foreman of the tin department at the Pennsylvania east car shops.

AUTOS FOR THE ALLIES.

A train of twenty-five cars, loaded with Jefferies automobiles for the allies, passed through the city over the Nickel Plate, running on passenger train schedule, last night. The autos were built at Racine, Wis.

UNION LIGHT GUARD TO MEET ONCE MORE

Bodyguard of Lincoln Will Hold Reunion at G. A. R. Encampment.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10.—A reunion of the Union Light Guard, which was the bodyguard of President Lincoln for two years during the civil war, is planned in Washington during the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, September 27-October 2.

While conversing with Secretary of War Stanton in 1863 the governor of Ohio offered to obtain a bodyguard for President Lincoln. Secretary Stanton accepted the offer. The governor therefore asked for a picked man from each county in Ohio, but did not say what the service was to be.

Each man thought he was going to the front, or to lead a "forlorn hope," and he gave his life when he enlisted, and it was accepted as a sacrifice to his country. When the soldiers arrived in Washington they were informed they were to be the bodyguard of the president, and they served as such until after the war closed.

They were quartered upon the ellipse south of the treasury, and some of them were on guard every hour, two hours being the limit for each day and night, winter and summer. There were 108 men in the company and nearly every county was represented; a few being slow in responding, the deficiency was made up from other counties. They were mustered in at Columbus, O., December 17, 1863, and their enlistment was for three years of the war.

The mustering officer was Capt. Elmer Otis, Fourth United States cavalry. They left for Washington, December 22, 1863, and reported to the secretary of war, learning for the first time their mission.

The soldiers were not all kept about the white house, but were at times in Virginia, below Alexandria, and along the river to a point opposite Georgetown, scattered about Washington and the forts surrounding the city, but always a goodly number was kept on duty about the white house.

After being mustered out of service the members scattered, and it has been difficult to trace them, but at the encampment of the G. A. R. in Toledo in 1908 nine gathered and effected an organization with Lieut. George C. Ashmun as president and Robert W. McBride as secretary.

It was decided that a more thorough search should be made to locate the missing members, so that they might have the privilege of "touching elbows" again in a peaceful organization. Last year there was a meeting of the survivors in Detroit, Mich., and another meeting will be called in September during the G. A. R. encampment here.

HIS 70-YEAR-OLD DREAM COMES TRUE

Priest Who Greeted Commodore Perry in Japan Now in U. S.

San Francisco, Aug. 10.—Seventy years ago a Japanese lad of thirteen edged his way through a crowd of countrymen in Tokio to grasp Commodore Perry's hand.

At that time he dreamed of Perry's native land and vowed that some day he would visit it. The dream has at last come true. Purple clad in robes,

Archbishop Nichimio Asahi.

Archbishop Nichimio Asahi, 83 years old, of the Buddhist churches of Japan, is in America. He came to the world's fair here to see the two things that interest him most—the exposition and the Indians.

"It frightens me, it is so marvelous," said the famous priest through an interpreter. "An old man who had never been in this wonderful country which gave Japan its civilization cannot help but marvel at its richness and immensity. It's unbelievable.

"When the great Perry came to Tokio in a ship that spouted fire," continued the venerable visitor, "it fired my imagination. I yearned to visit the country where such things are conceived. I wanted to see the place where the nations of the world intermingled and produced the American ideal from the melting pot of the races.

"As yet I have seen little. Even so, it is beyond my dreams."

When the priest was left alone for a moment he got an excellent idea of real Americanism.

A smartly gowned woman sat down beside him and admiring his fan indicated she would like to have it.

Genially the patriarchal archbishop waved his assent. Another feminine souvenir hunter took his string of beads. A third admired his handsome staff. But the priest's escort luckily returned and prevented the old man from being disrobed.

The archbishop now resides in Kioto, formerly capital of Japan. He will preside at the Buddhist convention to be held here next month.

A glimpse of the Glacier Park Indians of the Great Northern railroad exhibit afforded the Japanese much pleasure. He asked why the race, which once held sole possession of North America, should become so nearly extinct.

Archbishop Asahi has crossed the China sea fifty-three times. He has served as missionary in India, Siam, China and many other countries of the east where the Buddhist religion flourishes.

TONY WILL HAVE TO FIGHT FOR BRIDE

No Fiancee of a Reservist in America May Leave Italy.

Philadelphia, Aug. 10.—Italian reservists in this city, subject to military duty, are dismayed by the announcement that no passports to leave Italy will be issued to their parents, relatives or friends until the men have answered the call to arms.

Hundreds of excited Italians have been visiting the office of L'Opinione, the daily Italian newspaper, and the Italian consulate, asking what they shall do. They have been informed that the issuance of the precura, the official document made out by the consul here and forwarded to Italy as a basis for the passport, has been suspended and that no reservist subject to military duty can obtain that document.

The suspension of the precura took place July 8. A full knowledge of exactly what it means has just been brought to the attention of local Italians by the announcement that August 19 is the last day to report, and that men liable to military duty who do not enroll themselves by that date will be classed as deserters.

The suspension of the passport will at once put an end to thousands of weddings from the old country which have been a feature of the Italian colony and of life among the immigrants in the coal regions, the coke regions and the great industrial centers throughout Pennsylvania. No brides can come from Italy to their sweethearts here if the men are reservists.

COUNCIL'S ANNUAL PICNIC.

The annual picnic of the city council will be held August 29 at the grounds of the Cripple club on the St. Joe river, north of Robison park. A committee of arrangements, consisting of Councilmen Frank J. Schlebecker, Peter A. Ofenloch and Albert H. Keller, met at the city hall Monday evening, and took some preliminary steps for the affair. All city officials and employes will be invited as the guests of the councilmen. It was decided that there should be no "kangaroo court" this year. The feature of last year's picnic afforded much amusement, and was profitable, but overworked the city attorney, who was prosecutor.

The deadly time of the year for babies has come and knowledge of a bad supply of milk will aid greatly in fighting entero-colitis, cholera infantum and like ailments that are the summer scourges of babyhood.

BLIND JOHN CONDON, OLD GAMBLER, DEAD

Noted Chicago Sporting Figure Once Operated in Fort Wayne.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—"Blind John" Condon is dead.

The Chicago race track man and noted figure in gambling was claimed by death yesterday at the family residence, 2623 Michigan avenue. An attack of paralysis following a long period of illness proved fatal. Mr. Condon was 60 years old.

Funeral services will be held from the residence and at St. James' church tomorrow morning. Interment will be at Calvary.

Ruler in Gambling.

"Blind" John Condon ruled the gambling fraternity with an iron hand for over thirty years. There was no one to dispute that authority. Although he was heartily hated by some of his followers, his mastery was complete and his genius for organization everywhere recognized.

Although he has amassed several fortunes during his lifetime, only a careful appraisement of his estate will determine whether he died rich or a comparatively poor man. His property consists chiefly of interests in race tracks in the United States and Canada.

Interested in Many Tracks.

He was interested with Tom Williams in the California Jockey club, which operated the track at Oakland, Cal., permanently closed; with Cella and Johnson, in the track at New Orleans; with Cella and others in Douglas Park, Ky.; with Cella and Congressman Rhinock in Latonia track, Kentucky, racing permitted; the famous Blue Bonnet track at Montreal, racing permitted.

Condon built the Oak Lawn track with Dan Stewart at Hot Springs, Ark., but no racing meets can be held there.

Story of Ups and Downs.

There is something peculiarly western in the story of Condon. While it is the story of a gambler's life with its many ups and downs, it shows Condon to have been a man of unusual business ability, which, if applied to what is generally considered legitimate business, would have made him a financial leader of the country.

A poor boy, living in Logansport, Ind., he began life as a barber. He attracted the attention of Sam Doll, a well known gambler, who took an interest in him. Doll introduced Condon to the owner of a gambling house in Logansport. He soon developed remarkable dexterity as a dealer at faro, being one of the most expert in the country. He was never known to lose his nerve even when pitted against the old timers.

In early 80's he came to Chicago with Doll, and together they established a gambling house here. Chicago was then only a western town and gambling had not lost its western character. Everything was wide open, with Simeon O'Donnell as chief of police.

"All gamblers knew the ins and outs of the game as well as any one knew them at that time," said an old timer, growing reminiscent, "but they lacked what Condon had—the genius for organization. Condon was the first man to realize the possibility of organizing police protection and using it to control the gambling business of the city. This he proceeded to do as soon as he had established himself.

Central "Fixing Power."

"He became the central 'fixing' power. No gambler could do business in Chicago without consulting him and giving up a share of his business. He divided the city upon natural and racial lines; named the districts in which crap and stuss and faro were to be permitted and the lieutenants who were to be in direct charge of each. In certain districts he allowed high class gambling palaces, in which he was always a silent partner.

"The only losing fight he ever made was that which killed the racing game. It is generally supposed that the fight, made by John R. Walsh, the banker, upon Mayor Harrison through his newspaper, resulted in the closing down of Washington park.

Battle Over Washington Park.

"As a matter of fact, it was Condon's effort to control Washington park, with his partners, Hinky Dink and Tom McGinnis. I was the messenger who went to see Walsh in behalf of Condon. This is the message I gave him:

"'Unless you turn over the field book and ring, we to put up $100,000 for the field book privileges, and a further payment for the betting ring, to be arrived at later, you will receive information from the mayor's office that there will be no betting at Washington park.'

"This was in the latter part of March, 1903, and the state book announcing the meet was already out, but John R. Walsh was a good, game fighter.

"His answer was to kick me out of his office. He said: 'You boys may be able to carry out your threat, but if you do, I'll hang crepe on the gate of every race track in Illinois.'

Kills Racing in Illinois.

"The Washington park meet did not take place, as every one knows, but John R. Walsh was as good as his word. Racing in Illinois has been dead ever since.

"That's the story of 'Blind' John Condon. He kept the reins as long as his health held out. Some time ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis, and then he resigned his throne to Mont Tennes."

Condon had good taste as a collector or art. His beautiful home at 2623 Michigan avenue, built at a cost of $45,000 and decorated inside at a cost of $45,000, contains a remarkable art gallery. One of his finest canvasses is "Napoleon's Coronation," by Davies, which he picked up in the Swiss Alps for a few pounds. Gambler and man of the world, though he was, he yet found time to admire the beautiful in life as well.

LIVED IN FORT WAYNE.

Older Residents Remember Condon and His Career Here.

John Condon, "king of gamblers," who died Monday at his home in Chicago, was a resident of Fort Wayne for a number of years and is well remembered by the older residents of the city. He came to Fort Wayne when a boy, and, was for years, a barber in a shop on South Calhoun street. Later he worked for Dennis R. McFeely, who conducted a saloon and restaurant at Calhoun and Wayne streets. This was in 1873 and 1874. Shortly after he left for Logansport, where he made his first start in the gambling world. Although he did some gambling in Fort Wayne and was well known among the sporting element of the city, he did not operate extensively as a gambler until after he left this city.

While he was never a hard drinker he would frequently get on periodical "drunks," and, it was during one of these sprees, that he engaged in a fight on Columbia street with Jim Black, who has since died. He is alleged to have struck Black a terrific blow on the head, which caused him to be paralyzed for the remainder of his life. Condon never forgot this incident, and for years practically kept Black, sending money to him at regular intervals for his maintenance and support. After he left Fort Wayne Condon reformed, according to McFeely, and so far as he knows, was a total abstainer.

McFeely did not know of Condon's death until informed by a Sentinel reporter.

"He was one of the best friends I ever had," McFeely said. "He certainly was mighty good to me. I never went to him for a favor but what I got it."

McFeely worked for Condon in Chicago from 1893 to 1898. Condon was known among his friends for his generosity and kindness.

NUDE WOODS NYMPH IS SEEN ONCE MORE

Mysterious Sprite Still Causing Sensation at Sparta, Wis.

Lacrosse, Wis., Aug. 10.—Should America really become involved in the European war the commander of the summer encampment of the United States regulars at Sparta has a plan of demoralizing the enemy worthy of consideration.

He knows it is effective because that portion of the United States army encamped at Sparta has been suddenly demoralized without the firing of a shot. The mysterious nude wood nymph, who startled Farmer Valbusby almost out of his boots and who has successfully eluded Sheriff George Boss, Humane Officer George Manuel and several posses of Spartans, is the demoralizing agency. She appeared on the fringe of woods near the encampment last night, and it is with the utmost difficulty that maneuvers have been continued today. After the excitement over the twilight visitation subsided and the soldiers were in nervous slumber, a sentry saw her again right in the midst of the camp, but at the command of "halt" she scampered off into the woods.

Officers hunting for the mysterious woman have found plenty of foot prints, but the nymph has eluded pursuit. They believe her insane and they say the soldiers at camp soon will be, too, if she is not captured.

ALLIES HAMMER HARD AT TURK ONCE MORE

Paris, Aug. 10.—The allied forces have resumed their attack upon the Turkish positions at the Dardanelles with great vigor during the last two days and have made sensible progress on the Gallipoli peninsula, according to a Havas dispatch received from Athens. The Turkish losses have been heavy.

Simultaneously the allied fleet bombarded the Turkish positions on the Dardanelles, inflicting severe damage upon their defense works.

Austrian Troops, Released From Russian Campaign, on Italian Front.

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 10.—The appearance on the Italian front of Austrian troops released from the Russian campaign is announced by the Tribune in a dispatch from Laibach, Austria. These troops, to the number of 30,000, equipped with artillery sufficient for two army corps, attacked the Italians yesterday outside of Gorizia. The Italians brought up additional artillery and after a battle of fifteen hours, the dispatch says, forced the Austrians to retreat into Gorizia, leaving 2,000 dead on the battle field.

The Italians are said to have gained an important point strategically by joining forces between Romans and Doberdo, south of Gradisca. The Austrians endeavored in vain to prevent this junction, losing heavily in the effort.

The bombardment of Roverto continues.

German Losses Heavy.

A despatch to the Tribune from Innesbruick, Austria, says that in the recent fighting along the section of the eastern front running from the Pissa river to Ostrov, northeast of Warsaw, the Germans lost 65,000 men in killed or wounded, but succeeded in capturing the principal fortified positions of the Russians.

The engagements in the vicinity of Novogeorgievsk, the despatch says, have been continuous for five days, and the Germans have occupied the northern portion of the defenses of the surrounded fortress. The Russian garrison depends mainly upon bayonet charges, as artillery ammunition is lacking.

North of the Lublin-Chelm railroad the battle continues to the advantage of the Austrians and Germans. In the region of Nova Alexandria on the Vistula, south of Ivangorod, the Russians are offering fierce resistance, inflicting heavy losses on their opponents.

LABOR MEN DISCUSS NEW TRUST COMPANY

Federation Endorses Movement for Damming the St. Joe River.

The proposed new trust company to be installed in connection with the Co-Operative store was discussed Monday evening at the regular meeting of the Fort Wayne Federation of Labor. The state law provides that the company must be capitalized at $100,000 or more. Those discussing the matter declared that this amount could be raised with very little trouble. It was pointed out that the Farmers' Equity union could be depended on for $50,000, labor for $25,000 and the same amount from other sources. The proposition will again be taken up with the state banking board on September 4.

After listening to arguments presented by a committee composed of A. J. Vesey, Rodney Fleming and Louis Moore for the damming of the St. Joe river the Federation endorsed the movement.

The following delegates were named State Federation of Labor, which opens at Gary on September 28: E. T. Drew, J. D. Shaw, William A. Jackson, F. J. Schwanz and A. C. Berger. The alternates chosen were: J. E. Wolfe, J. J. Perry, J. Lakey, Edward Miller and John A. Koch.

P. H. Shea, general organizer for the Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway Employes and Cal Wyatt, general organizer for the American Federation of Labor, reported the progress that is being made in the organization of the street railway employes. Mr. Shea declared that he had found a good sentiment among the men and that many of them want an organization.

WAR MAY DOUBLE PAY OF POWDER PLANT MEN

Remarkable Wage Increase is Announced at Works in Indiana.

Gary, Ind., Aug. 10.—(Special) One of the most remarkable wage increases ever offered in this country is announced by the Aetna Chemical company and the Aetna Explosives company of New York, which operate plants at Aetna, a suburb of Gary, Thebes, Ill., and Ishpeming, Mich.

Employes are to participate in war order profits and monthly increases will be made until their wages are greater by 100 per cent.

Effective Aug. 1, the military powder operatives of the chemical subsidiary and the dynamite, black powder, cap and explosive operatives of the parent corporation receive a voluntary 10 per cent. wage increase.

Till End of War.

A similar monthly increase will be made for five months and if at the end of that period the war still permits and the experiment is a success, monthly advances will continue until June 1, 1916, when employes will be receiving over 100 per cent. increase over today's wages. The plan is to be effective only during the continuance of the war.

The Aetna Explosives company, which is a merger of several powder companies, with the old Aetna Powder company of Chicago as its head, employs several thousand men. It has a number of plants in the Pittsburg district, Emporium, Pa., and at Birmingham, Ala.

Want All to Share.

A circular issued by General Manager Egbert Moxham says in part:

"It is the desire of the company that all its employes should share in the profits which the company expects from its war orders. To accomplish this, the following plan is announced:

"From Aug. 1 on there shall be made an advance of 10 per cent. in the existing scale of pay roll employes' wages, payable at the end of each month as a bonus, and at the end of each month thereafter, for four additional months, making five months in all, the bonus will be further advanced 10 per cent. every month.

100 Per Cent. Increase.

"If the experiment gives us results expected during the next five months, the company further intends that for another five months thereafter, provided the war lasts that long, it will continue the monthly increase of 10 per cent. So that by the 1st of June, 1916, our employes will be receiving 100 per cent. increase over today's wages."

The circular further states that the closing of the war may make necessary a reduction to normal wage rate.

The company is stated to have nearly $40,000,000 worth of war orders.

MAY PURCHASE BLOCK FOR A PLAYGROUND

Ninth Ward Residents Present Arguments at Meeting of School Trustees

Members of the school board have taken under advisement the proposition to purchase the entire block bounded by Orchard, Second, Marion and Third streets for a playground. On a part of these streets the Bloomingdale school is located.

Many residents of the Ninth ward attended the meeting of the school board Monday evening and presented arguments why in their opinion this property should be purchased. Among those present were: President William A. Bayer, of the council; Chairman Robert E. Kelly, of the board of works; Secretary Charles J. Steiss, of the park board, and Councilman Peter A. Deitschel, of that ward.

Upon recommendation of Principal Ward the board will purchase fifteen typewriters for use in the commercial course and two hundred lockers to be built in the high school building.

Upon request of various labor organizations the board has decided to install a commercial course in the vocational schools. The board unanimously decided to spend approximately $2,500 for supplies, included in which is an appropriation of $400 for fifteen drawing tables in the high school, twelve double tables in the Harmar school at $500, to be used in the domestic science department, and twenty-four benches, range, locker and sink to the amount of $450. Four hundred dollars will be expended for installing the necessary equipment in the lunch room of the high school.

It was decided to place portable schoolhouses at the Lakeside school, Hamilton school, Franklin school and Bloomingdale school.

No action was taken on the matter of asking the board of public works to remove the electric light tower from the Bloomingdale school property. The tower interferes with the portable school on that side of the building.

SPANK HER, SAYS JUDGE; I WILL, AGREES MOTHER

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Judge Graham was "stumped" for a minute yesterday, in finding a proper punishment for Miss Mary McDermott, 21 years old, who gave her address at 226 East Forty-ninth street. She had been arrested for fighting with Arthur Beck, of 21 East Fifty-sixth street. The judge after hearing evidence, said he didn't want to send her to the bridewell and didn't want to fine her. He decided, if she would promise to reform, he'd let her off, provided that her mother would give her "a good old-fashioned spanking." Mrs. McDermott said she would. A reporter was unable to learn, however, if the punishment was imposed as directed.

LYNCHING IS THREAT OF MICHIGAN POSSE

Deputies Save Peddler at St. Joe and Hustle Him to Jail.

St. Joseph, Mich., Aug. 10.—A posse of angry farmers after scouring the woods and lowlands of two townships in the southern part of the county yesterday, captured Charles Hunter, a peddler, accused of having attempted to attack the thirteen-year-old daughter of Peter Malone, a farmer living near Niles.

There were threats of lynching, but while the captors were holding a council deputy sheriffs hustled the prisoner to the county jail.

The Malone girl was passing a clump of weeds when a man jumped out and dragged her into a ravine. She fought desperately, and finally freeing herself from her assailant, regained the road and shouted for help. She was not seriously injured.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat which clogs Kidneys, then the Back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Adv.

(By Kenneth W. Payne.)

New York, Aug. 10.—Six hundred and thirteen million two hundred thousand be realized in the United States of separate and distinct sneezes! That is a record for resonation almost the equal of the cannonading in Europe, and devotees of the annual sneeze declare it will America before the hay fever season, now just open, has terminated!

According to P. F. Jerome, secretary of the United States Hay Fever association, there are 200,000 persons in this country who are annually preyed upon by the pesky poisons of the pollen. Officials of the association claim that seventy-three sneezes a day is a low estimate for each person, and forty-two days is the minimum length of their affliction. Thus by simple calculation is obtained the foregoing terrifying total of the nasal titilations terminating in temper-trying tempests known as sneezes.

As a matter of sad fact there are probably hundreds of hay fever victims today in Fort Wayne who aren't included in the above total, who haven't the time nor the means to seek safety in one of the "high and dry" zones marked "immune" on the hay fever map, and yet who suffer and sneeze and suffocate and weep, to the pitiless amusement of their friends, throughout the weary season while the noxious ragweed blooms.

For these, the unsung and neglected victims of Dame Nature's annual campaign of "schrecklichkeit" the following article is written. It tells all that is known about the wherefore and the cure of the great American sneeze, and as this topic will soon have supplanted the war and the weather in all leading conversations, it is advised that every reader of the Sentinel acquaint himself with the following facts:

Hay fever was discovered (for literary purposes) about a century ago by a chap named Bostock who lived in England.

There are 130 plants known whose pollen carries the particular poison which produces hay fever. Ragweed, golden rod, daisies, wild roses, burdock, pigweed, rye and timothy are among the guilty strands of herbage.

But why should city people, living perhaps on the top floor of a flat miles from the nearest field of golden rod, succumb to the ruthless aerial campaign of these plants?

Well, German scientists who have studied the disease maintain that one tiny pollen grain carries enough poison to produce the affliction in those who are subject to it. And the quantities of pollen adrift in the air at this season are amazing. As many as 4,000,000 grains, the records show, are deposited on a surface of three square feet when the flowering season of the grasses is at its height! Go into the business heart of Fort Wayne, where there is only asphalt and brick and no weeds at all. Climb to the top of the tallest building. You will find ragweed pollen soaring around you there! Hence this hurrying hegira of hay feverists now under way to the mountains and the northern forests.

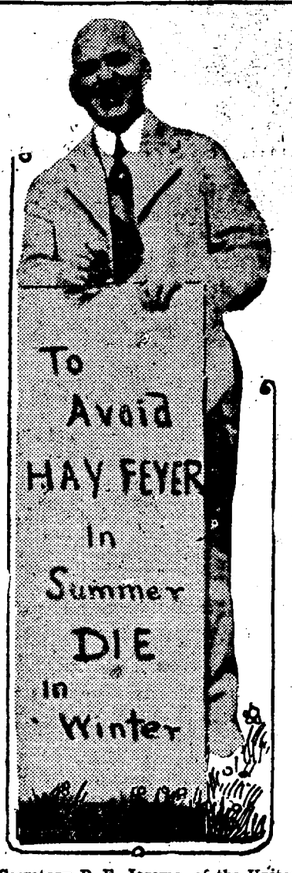
Meanwhile, the United States Hay Fever association, whose headquarters are in New York, is waging a great fight to immunize further parts of the country, by lobbying for anti-weed laws.

As for the remedies—well, the association recently in convention assembled at Fire Island, N. Y., heard 100 remedies discussed, including everything from pyscho-analysis and hypnotism to osteopathy and bleeding. Some members declared they had tried them all, and in vain!

But hope for the hay feverite is at last actually beginning to dawn! At least ten or a dozen American physicians are now experimenting with various methods of immunization, and each reports a great number of successful cases.

Some inject a toxin made from a mixture of ragweed and nettles; others vaccinate their patients with a serum taken from rabbits into whose blood the toxin has been injected. Though these doctors do not claim to cure hay fever, they declare that they have rendered their patients immune for one season or more.

Anti-vaccinationists have evolved another variety of hay fever cure. This year, clad in heavy furs, they are spending two hours each morning in a cold storage refrigerator. Relief for the day is thus assured, according to several New York society women, who take the cure regularly in the Woolworth building storage vaults.



Secretary P. F. Jerome, of the United States Hay Fever association, and his "recipe" for curing hay fever.

BILLY SUNDAY TO PREACH.

Will Deliver Sermon at Winona Lake on August 29.

Winona Lake, Ind., Aug. 10.—Dr. Dickey announced in the auditorium yesterday that he had received a telegram from Billy Sunday, saying that he would be present at the closing of the Winona Bible conference and will preach a sermon on August 29. Dr. Dickey has hoped all the time that he would be able to secure this engagement with Mr. Sunday and has telegraphed him three times recently regarding the matter. It will be a great pleasure to persons attending the conference to hear Mr. Sunday. He has spent most of the summer on his fruit farm at Hood River, Oregon. He has received great benefit from the quiet and rest of the summer, and will be in excellent shape to begin his evangelistic campaign next fall.

City of Berlin in Canada is Loyal to Britain, But It's Pretty Hard on Berlin

(By Harry Payne Burton.)

Berlin, Ontario, Aug. 10—If there is a "hyphen" in Canada, Canadians of Anglo-Saxon tradition are certain it is located here in Berlin, in the province of Ontario. Canadians of Germanic inheritance, populating this thriving nemesake of the Prussian capital, are equally certain such opinion is a libel.

One is conscious of Berlin's external "Germanism," at least, the very moment he steps off the train. The platform of that depot is, I am sure, cleaner than any other west of the Gulf stream! Here there are no peanut shells nor discarded lunch boxes, those station adornments almost universal outside of the "Fatherland." The place is as spotless as any German "bahnhof" and to add to the illusion, there is a wrinkled old Bavarian going along the tracks impaling stray bits of paper on a nail fastened in the end of a broomstick, while another is scrubbing the brick wall on his hands and knees!

And this illusion of being in some "new Germany" gains upon one steadily. From the depot one turns into von Webber street and in the door of a store marked "Baeckerei," a rosy-cheeked woman with flaxen hair calls across the way to another in a blue calico gown and her words are spoken in unmistakable "low German!"

The houses here, too, one sees, are, like those of Germany, all of brick and stone. They are built on those square "villa lines" that prevail so deadeningly in the kaiser's kingdom; indeed, they might have been set down out of Leipsic!

The impression of "Germanism" deepens as one turns out of Ahrens street into King street, the business thoroughfare of Berlin. For it is immediately evident that there is nothing English about this "strasse"—except its name! For there greets the eye, as one walks past the half mile of typically German shops that make up the retail district, only such names as Braun and Schweitzer, Bauer and Rheinhardt!

And, as if in imitation of Krupps, there is one munition factory in Berlin, Ontario!

Dr. John E. Hett, rosy and affable, is the mayor of Berlin, this German-Canadian community of 20,000 souls, 100 miles or so due north of Cleveland, O. He was born in the dominion of German parents who emigrated from Hessen and is strictly representative of his people—15,000 of them—who compose easily three-quarters of the entire population here.

"We of Berlin, Ontario, are British subjects," said Mayor Hett to me, "and we are loyal to the union jack; you will find none loyaler in the whole dominion!" when I asked him to tell me of the attitude of the German-Canadians toward the great conflict.

"Our loyalty cannot be questioned," he said. "We have not had a single citizen interned yet and we have given freely to the cause of the allies. Our contribution to the Canadian patriotic fund has amounted to $100,000—by far the greatest proportionate showing made by any city in the country. And we are preparing to excel that record in our local Red Cross work."

Could this mean, I pondered, that the German-blooded people of Berlin had actually become Canadians—Anglicised in their hearts? Would their names appear on the Canadian volunteer army rosters?

Colonel H. J. Bowman took the recruiting lists of Berlin out of the court house safe and went over them with me.

"We have sent three contingents of recruits from Berlin so far," he said, "amounting to a little over 100 men, all volunteers. It is a German center, you know, and whatever volunteers there have been have enlisted without pressure. Of course, German-born Canadians are not taken—only their sons."

The lists were then disclosed and here is the story they tell:

English-born recruits, eighty.

German-Canadians, nine.

At first sight these figures, one can readily see, are calculated to make Canadian officialdom do some tall thinking about their German-extracted population, and their intrinsic value to the strength of the empire. I said so much frankly to Mayor Hett, and here is what he said back to me:

"In the years between 1727 and 1775 there emigrated to Philadelphia from Germany and Switzerland 69,000 Mennonites—the so-called Pennsylvania Dutch. They were a religious sect, and history tells us that their chief mark of distinction was that they objected strongly to military service and warfare and to the taking of judicial oaths and the baptism of infants. When the revolutionary war broke out the Mennonites, hating all conflict, fled—many of them, at least—to Canada and settled in Waterloo county, of which Berlin is now the center. Of course, there have been many additions to this stock from the fatherland, notably that of 1848. But these latter came here to avoid the yoke of Prussian militarism, so that the abhorrence to warfare, early inculcated in the colony by the Mennonites, then received a fresh impetus.

"Now we Germans here all hate militarism—it is our chief legacy, as you can see from our history. We loathe the Prussian militarism of the kaiser, but we also instinctively loathe all kinds of warfare. We know the militarism of the Rhine must be crushed, but it is going to take a little time for us to overcome our instincts and adjust them to the conditions we must now face. And he must be blind who cannot see that it is going to be doubly difficult for us to volunteer to shoot men who sprang from the same blood as we did. When recruiting comes to Berlin it is going to reach down into the very hearts—as it can do nowhere else in the world today!"

Tears stood in Mayor Hett's eyes as he spoke, and I knew he spoke the truth—and that means that the people of Berlin are theoretically loyal to the flag of their adoption and are now trying with might and main to prove it in that hardest of all ways—to point muskets at trenches in Flanders where commands are given in their mother tongue!

Are they going to be able to do this soon enough and completely enough to shut down once and for all the rumors about their "real feelings" which continually are cropping out?

"I am pretty sure we will," said Mayor Hett to me, "and yet sometimes I have my doubts."

Two things which had happened while I had been going about the city with the mayor made me have my doubts, too!

In the first place, in the public park of Berlin, which, of course, is largely kept up by the German Canadians, since they pay most of the taxes, a beautiful bronze bust of Emperor William the First, commemorating the "peace" between Germany and France, as the shaft distinctly states, was recently pulled down by the English-Canadians and thrown into the lake.

The second incident occurred when I was talking with a leading member of the Berlin board of trade, who is a Scotch-Canadian. I asked him if he thought the Canadian government was concentrating any particular watchfulness on Berlin and the German-Canadian communities. His manner grew very excited and accusing, saying that the dominion officials are altogether too lax. He declared that more than a dozen German spies made Berlin their headquarters.

As we walked to the station Mayor Hett was pointing out to me the wonderful industrial progress Berlin has made.

"We have 125 manufactories here," he said. "We are the furniture and leather center of Canada and very rich. Seventy per cent. of our 200,000 people own their own homes. Most of the cities of Canada are feeling the war depression. We are not; it is the sample of the efficiency and thrift that is everywhere in the German blood. Yes, the world has something to learn from the Germans!"

It is a good thing there are no more German statues there—and only one munition factory, I thought, as the train slipped between the great buildings of the Kurz Furniture company, and I heard one Englishman say to another in khaki, "I'll bet that place has got a concrete base!"

Battleship No Torpedo Can Sink Will Be Considered by Newly-Created Naval Board

Louis Gathmann, Famous as Armament Inventor, Plans Triple Hull That Will Enable Warships to Defy Shells, Mines or Torpedoes.

Washington, Aug. 10.—A battleship that no torpedo can sink—that will be one of the first things Uncle Sam's newly created naval board of experts will consider.

Such a battleship is badly needed now, as demonstrated by the present war, but the idea is not new, for Louis Gathmann, famous armament inventor, submitted his invention to the navy department some twelve years ago—but vainly.

Gathmann for years has worked on plans for a triple hull battleship that could defy mines, torpedoes and high explosive shells. During this time he has sought to get the navy department interested in his plans, but his idea was always ignored.

Recently, however, an experiment was made with a torpedo charge against a hull construction representing the latest United States dreadnaughts.

The torpedo charge sank the target—just as it would had it been our newest and biggest dreadnaught—and Gathmann again laid his invention before the navy department. This time with some success.

In letters to Secretary of the Navy Daniels, Gathmann said:

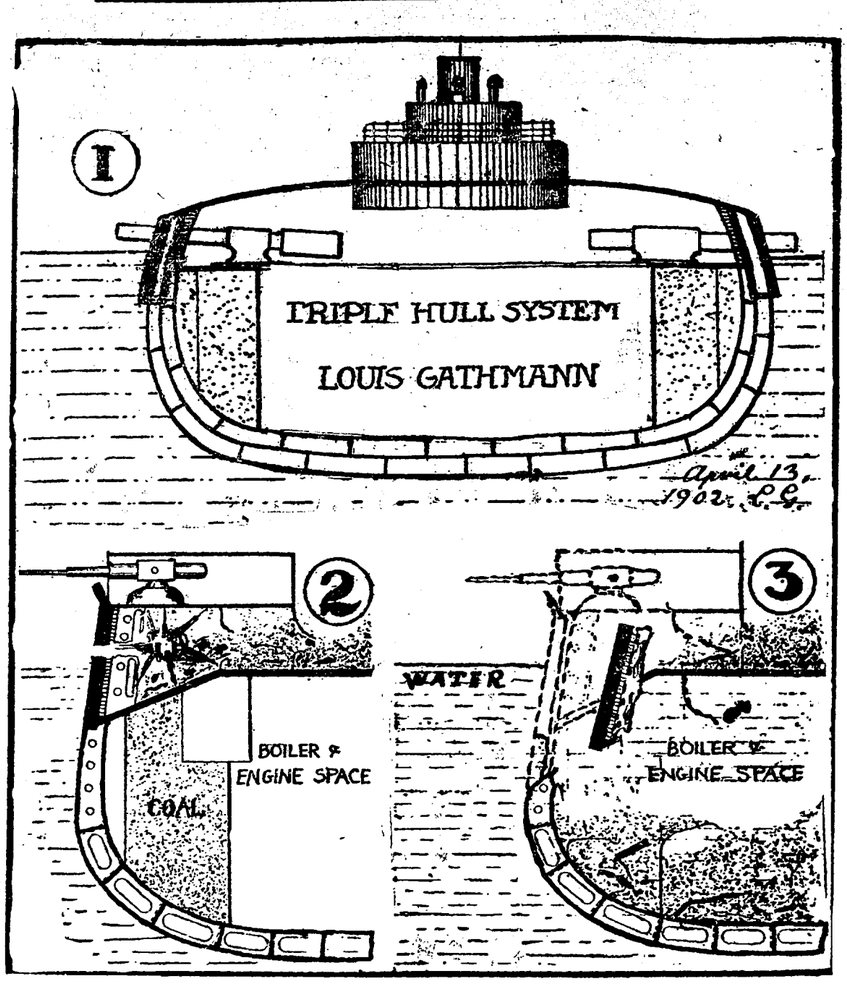
"My advice to you, Mr. Secretary, is to call a halt on the war vessels now under construction, because being not constructed nor equipped in harmony with modern science, they will be absolutely or no military value."

In a later letter accompanying sketches of the triple hull which the secretary of the navy has asked for that he may submit them to the new board of experts, Gathmann points out that:

"Germany is the only country which has recognized the value of this triple hull system so far, and their latest dreadnaughts are so constructed and can defy high explosive shells and torpedoes or mines."

The accompanying sketches, now printed for the first time, were drawn by Louis Gathmann. Figure 1 shows an outline of a battleship provided with his new invention—the triple hull.

Against such a war vessel, Gathmann claims, all navies and coast fortifications today would be defenseless, for their guns could not sink her.



Louis Gathmann's exclusive diagrams showing old style and his new triple hull invention, which are explained in the accompanying story.

Figure 2 shows the effect of the explosion of an armor piercing shell after it has pierced the armor belts used in the present construction of our battleships.

The United States navy depends upon armor piercing shells while other naval powers use shells that explode on impact.

With an armor piercing shell penetration of a ship's armor belt as shown in Figure 2 could only be effected at target practice and not in actual conflict, Gathmann claims, because the enemy's ships using impact shells could sink our ships at long range before we could penetrate even a five-inch armor belt on their ships.

In Figure 3 is shown the effect of a 42-centimetre high explosive shell (or a large torpedo) striking the belt armor of a battleship. As shown in the sketch it practically blows in the side of the ship. Yet Gathmann claims vessels with his triple hull could withstand even such an attack without being sunk.

men under arrest are Frank Wilson, who is alleged to have disposed of the stolen goods; Benjamin Watkins, an employe of the express company and a man known to the police only as "The Mysterious Man," who is said to have traveled under as many as 20 aliases.

Watkins was employed by the United States Express company which was absorbed by the Wells Fargo more than a year ago. For 11 years previous to that time, detectives said, the United States company had been losing an average of $2,000 worth of goods a month. Watkins remaincd in the service when the United States company was absorbed.

Packages containing valuables would be wrapped into one large parcel by Watkins, it is charged, and adressed to the "Mysterious man" at some suburb of Chicago, where it would be claimed by him under the alias which happened to be on the label.

DECLARE IT WORK OF TRAIN-WRECKERS

Pennsy Train Plunges Into Open Switch—Two Men Are Killed.

Indianapolis, Aug. 10.—Two trainmen were killed when the Pennsylvania railroad's fast passenger train, running from St. Louis to New York, went into an open switch and was wrecked a few miles east of Indianapolis about 8 o'clock last night. None of the passengers were injured seriously. The dead are:

William H. Ervin, 50, engineer, Indianapolis.

William Z. Henness, fireman, Indianapolis.

The engine, a baggage car and a sleeping car turned over. The engineer and fireman were crushed under the locomotive.

Deputy Coroner Wagner, after an investigation of the wreck, said that the lock on the switch had been broken, the lamp extinguished and the switch opened by some person with intent to wreck the train. A train passed the switch twenty minutes before the wreck and the device was in proper position at the time. A heavy iron rod was found near the switch. The deputy coroner believes this was used to break off the lock.

H. B. Reynolds, Pennsylvania trainmaster, and John W. Coneys, superintendent of Indianapolis terminals, after an investigation, declared that the train was "maliciously wrecked." Many passengers were bruised and scratched, but none required medical attention.

WHEN MEN GO OUT TO FIGHT AND DIE

A Just-Before-the-Battle Story from Blood-Stained Flanders.

(By Mary Boyle O'Reilly.)

London, England, July 26.—(Staff correspondence.)—London has been curiously quiet these last few days. Indeed, the most real news I have heard from the front was told me the other day by two tired soldier priests, an Irishman and a Frenchman, who have come over for a quiet week-end. The Irishman spoke first.

"English, Irish, Scotch, Canadian, Australian, yes, and Catholic and Protestant, we are just brothers-in-arms 'out there,' he said. "One must see to understand how the allies lift up their hearts to the unseen when death is at their feet.

"Never will I forget the night before that last big battle in early June. What an inspiration for a poet, what a picture for a painter.

"We are billeted within hearing of the guns. The men belong to two famous regiments of the guards, fine young fellows with the delicious laugh of youth and never a care for bullets or shells.

"Suddenly a worn-out staff officer rode in to report that disaster threatened a salient. The guards were summoned to action.

"Then I saw things which made eyes swell with tears. For I looked along the ranks of brave boys preparing to die.

"It was very hot. The boys were coatless and hatless, their open shirts showed their quietly heaving breasts. A few yards from the company street half a dozen Tommies began to prepare a temporary altar while various chaplains heard the confessions of the men. Each father embraced his departing penitent, urging him to shed his blood for his country.

"The altar was soon ready and a benediction service began. Not a grenadier was absent. Many of the guardsmen were not Catholics, of course, and most of the Catholics were Irishmen. Even the ironic cockneys knelt to make vague petition for the something they could not understand.

"While the angel of death hovered over that battlefield altar the Sacred Host was exposed. A thousand voices rang out with 'O Salutaris Hostia,' the sound of singing being drowned at intervals by the roar of artillery.

When the hymn was finished the officiating priest raised the sacrament and every head was bowed in silent prayer. Darkness had fallen and except for a motor lamp the only light came from enemy flares as they lit up the night. Distant bombs exploded somewhere and the crackle of machine gun fire increased in volume.

"When the Catholic part of the service was over the Irishmen and the non-Catholics burst forth into 'Onward, Christian Soldier.' What a thrill must have gone through the hearts of those fighters!

"Business-like and cheerful every man fumbled through his knapsack to find and put on his token (i. e., war office medal), lest he be shot dead. Five minutes later the battalion marched out to action, light hearted, high spirited boys.

"In the dark one could hear a mellow voice inquire, 'Are you there, Murphy?' or, 'What's the matter with your feet, Hennessy?' and inquirers always getting as good as they sent. So off they went to the firing line, no longer singing pious verse but rollicking along to a lusty 'Here we are. Here we are. Here we are, again.'"

The little French priest looked up with his quiet smile. "It was a lieutenant of the royal Irish told me about Grenadier Mulligan," he said. "The lieutenant was close to poor Mike the night he died. The officer, slightly wounded, asked what he could do for the stricken private.

"'Maybe, sir,' said Mike, 'you could say a bit of a prayer for me.' But, naturally, the lieutenant knew none of the familiar Catholic prayers. 'Never mind, sir,' Mike reassured him, 'I have a little book here with them all in it.'

"So the officer opened the little book and read the prayer Mike chose. When it was finished the dying soldier looked thoughtful for a moment. 'I do hope, sir,' he said, 'that God won't think any less of that prayer because it was said by a Protestant.' Then, still smiling he lapsed into unconsciousness.

"The war has taught us all a good deal that has nothing to do with matters military," commented the little priest.

FEAST OF REJOICING.

Follows Syrian Baptismal Ceremony at Home of Nissiff Maloley.

Following the solemn ceremonies attendant upon christening in the orthodox faith of Salem Bashara, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bashara, at the home of N. Maloley on North Harrison street, Monday evening at which time Archbishop Girmanos, of Baalbec, officiated, a feast of rejoicing was held. Many out of town visitors were present. Mary Maloley was the godmother and Louis Shamie, of Detroit, the godfather.

The feast of rejoicing lasted well into the morning hours. The peasant dances and folk songs which have been preserved through many ages were danced and sung. One hundred and fifty people enjoyed the supper, which was served by Head Chef Sam Sooky.

The red grouse is the only bird that is exclusively British.

Business and Professional Men Take Up Military Life for Month.

Plattsburg, N. Y., Aug. 10.—The vanguard of the little army of 1,200 business and professional men from the chief cities of the eastern and middle western section of the country, who are to undergo a month's military training in a camp of instruction here, had arrived today. One thousand more of the volunteer military students were due to arrived some time today from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Boston and other cities.

Many men of national reputation or of prominence in the various cities represented are among the volunteers. Mayor Mitchel, of New York city, one of the early arrivals, was assigned to the task of setting up cots in the tents. Today was devoted chiefly to the organization of the camp. As fast as the student soldiers arrived they were assigned to companies and army equipment was issued to them.

The regular work of the camp will begin tomorrow when three days of drilling will be commenced. Evenings will be devoted to lectures on military subjects. Major General Leonard Wood, who has taken a keen interest in bringing the civilians together to train them in preparedness for military defense, was expected to arrive today. Lindley M. Garrison, secretary of war, will be at the camp for several days and an effort will be made to induce President Wilson to come here and review the student troops. Governor Whitman was here today to review the regular troops at the local barracks.

St. Paul, Aug. 10.—Delegates to the annual convention of the national federation of German-American Catholic societies held lengthy sessions today in order to leave only routine work for tomorrow when the four days' meeting ends. The report of the resolutions committee was expected late today.

The social study movement was discussed at the first meeting, the establishment of a school at Chicago to study capital and labor being agreed upon by a number of delegates. Preliminary plans for the organization of a Frauenbund of women's league, have already been completed. It is expected temporary organization for which Mrs. Mary Bosack, of Pittsburg, is chairman, and Mrs. Val Reis, of St. Louis, secretary, will approve plans today for the calling of a convention next year when the league will be permanently organized. It is proposed to combine all societies of the German Catholic women engaged in social work.

FARMERS ARE BUSY HARVESTING OATS

The farmers of Allen county are about the busiest people on earth this week for the few days of pleasant weather and sunshine have made it possible for them to get into the harvest fields to cut the oats which is already dead ripe. The farmers have been compelled to face some very difficult and perplexing problems this summer in harvesting their grain. Some of the fields have become so damp that it seems that nothing will dry them out and as a result the horses find it a hard task to walk, much less pulling a heavy binder behind them.

According to a Fort Wayne business man who was in the country Monday a farmer residing near Monroeville and Maples has invented something entirely new in the way of harvesting his oats. He placed his binder on a very low mud boat and also put a gasoline engine on it. The engine is attached to the binder, supplying the necessary power to cut and bind the grain while four horses were hitched to the mud boat to pull it about the field.

In many communities farmers have united their forces and it is not uncommon to see two, three or even four binders at work in one field.

The price of corn, which has steadily been on the increase for the past ten days, took another stride upward Tuesday and farmers on the street received from 88c to 92c a bushel. Seven loads were weighed at the city scales. Twenty-one loads of new hay brought from $9 to $12 a ton, while two loads of old hay were sold at $16.00@16.50. CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Declines in the price of wheat resulted today from the bearish showing made by the government crop report. After opening ⅜c to ⅞c lower, the market underwent a moderate additional sag.

The close was firm at ½c to ⅞@1c net advance.

Corn responded only a little to the downturn in wheat. Opening prices, which ranged from the same as last night to ⅜c down, were followed by a slight hardening of values all around.

The close was steady, ⅜c to ⅝@¾c above last night.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Aug. 10—Announcement that the western railroads are soon to receive an increase of freight rates, imparted further strength to the market at today's opening. Union Pacific opened with a substantial fractional gain on an offering of 1,000 shares. This soon increased to 1¼ points. St. Paul and other grangers also were higher.

War specialties were again conspicuous with new high records for General Motors, Westinghouse and Willys Overland. U. S. Steel touched 75½, its best quotation of the current movement.

Sales in the first hour approached 300,000 shares, steel supplying the major share, with large dealings in Union Pacific, American Smelting and Crucible Steel. Prices were more than maintained in the face of continued profit taking, steel advancing to 76¾ by noon. The effect of the proposed rate increase was seen in the general strength of the western rails although trunk lines and coalers, notably Norfolk and Western, Chesapeake and Ohio and Reading also rose spiritedly. Bonds were steady.

The movement was more irregular, the later war shares falling five to eight points, with further gains in some of the railways. The closing was strong.

STEEL TONNAGE.

STATE TO DEMAND $100.

Madison County Prosecutor Says Justice of Peace Was Short.

Anderson, Ind., Aug. 2.—S. L. Brooks, prosecutor of Madison county, says he is drafting a complaint to be filed against Daniel Sigler and Ira Kidwell, both of Elwood, sureties on the bond of Ward Roach, a justice of the peace at Elwood, from November 16, 1910, to September 25, 1913. The state will demand $100, alleging that Roach collected fees from fines and other cases to the amount of $104, and that state accountants can find only $4 reported on Roach's books. Friends of Mr. Roach at Elwood assert there was no dishonesty on his part and that there was probably a misunderstanding as to the fees, since, he contended at the time he was justice of the peace, he did not believe he could collect the same fee that would be charged if a city court on

EXPLAINS HEAVY BRITISH LOSSES

English Stick to Trenches to Last; Others Not so Particulars.

London, July 30.—Correspondence of the Associated Press.—The British stick to their trenches to the last man, hence their heavy casualties. The French, the Germans and Belgians have no sentiment about yielding ground, if to their military advantage to do so, especially when they can draw the enemy on to marked ranges. But the tradition of sticking it out to the last, born of the days when man was pitted against man instead of man against machine, is so strong in the British army that one of the most important lessons of the war has yet to be learned by it.

These are the observations of a Canadian surgeon who has worked on the three allied fronts in Flanders and made a close study of the different fighting methods.

According to his account, the French and German, unlike the British, lay no stress on holding their front line of trenches. In case of an attack they withdraw to the rear lines. Being a careful measured range, the enemy in taking the first line gets into a wasps' nest. The French, with marvelous accuracy, pour in both shrapnel and high explosive shells from their famous 75 field guns. When they assume the offensive and capture a German trench, they protect their men with a curtain of fire as long as possible; but if its occupation seems likely to prove too expensive, they withdraw, measuring the ground as best they can in their retreat in order to correct the aim of their batteries. Somewhat the same tactics are followed by the Germans, who, however, use machine guns instead of field cannon. But the British hold on to their front trench when attacked, and onto the captured trench when attacking, with a courage unexcelled in history. But they act with more courage than intelligence, since they play into the hands of the Germans by their very stubbornness.

British losses have almost all been due to an effort to stick it out to the last man, when the French would have retreated, shelled out the foe and made a fresh attack. This is the French policy of attrition. It enabled them to assume the offensive at will and to keep up a constant and wearing action, while the British make their fight and then remain [illegible]

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

Practically normal temperature conditions obtained this morning. Since yesterday morning temperatures have not changed materially in any portion of the country. In connection with a low area centered in the west gulf states, the weather is unsettled in the south and thence northeastward to the Ohio valley, with the rain area extending northward to central Illinois. This low has given rains in the lower Mississippi valley and on the middle eastern slope of the Rockies, with quite heavy rains in Arkansas. Another low over the New England states has been attended by local showers in the upper Ohio valley, and thence northeastward over the St. Lawrence valley. Pressure conditions over the western states have been favorable to fair weather and generally clear skies in north central and western sections.

In this vicinity conditions will become unsettled during tonight, with probably showers early tomorrow morning or during the day. The changes in temperature will be slight.

"Belgian Navy" Seeks Shelter in New York Harbor from Dangers of Wartime

Lone Ship and Crew Without a Country Have Been Wanderers on the Face of the Sea, But Always Hoping for Best.

(By Kenneth W. Payne.)

New York, Aug. 10.—The Belgian navy has taken refuge in New York harbor!

"The Belgian navy" consists of the one forlorn and lonesome sailing ship, L'Avenir.

And aboard her are seven little boys without a country, seven young middies who have no present, but are living only in the future! L'Avenir is the French word for future; the prophetic name, given to the ship when she was built six years ago, sums up all the hopes and thoughts of her crew today.

She is certainly the saddest ship that ever tied up at a dock in New York. The visitor who goes aboard her feels at once the tragedy that has fallen upon Belgium. The seven little middies came of prosperous Belgian families. Today they are homeless wanderers on the seas, their parents are poverty stricken refugees in London!

L'Avenir is not officially a part of the Belgian navy. Two or three gunboats, now interned in Holland, constituted the little kingdom's only sea power. L'Avenir was a naval training ship meant to educate officers especially with the purpose of building up a Belgian merchant marine.

"When the war broke out," said her second officer, Camille Verhe, "all the cadets who were old enough enlisted. Only these little lads are left. They are from twelve to sixteen years old —too young to fight, yet!"

And since the conqueror has taken their own land from them, they have had to make "The Future" their home. And earning money for their native land is their business. They have converted the beautiful ship of which they were so proud into a tramp cargo ship, and are cruising about the seas picking up freight wherever they can get it. The profits go to help support their ruined government.

L'Avenir will sail shortly on her first cargo carrying trip, laden with oil for Australia.

Sailors without a country! Belgian middies aboard the L'Avenir, the "Belgian navy," which has taken refuge in New York harbor.

They are sturdy these Belgians. In the course of his day's work, little Pierre LePage, the youngest of the middies, has twice fallen down an open hatch, thirty feet to a steel deck! Yet today he is running about the rigging as nimbly as ever.

HAS SON ARRESTED ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Then Heinrich Becker's Wife and Children Tell Bad Stories on Him.

William Becker was arraigned in the city court Tuesday morning on an assault and battery charge in which his father, Heinrich Becker, 1121 Jones street, was the complaining witness. The case itself amounted to little, but afforded members of the family, including the wife and mother and her two grown sons, an opportunity to tell damaging stories against the household. William Becker resides in rooms on the upper floor of the house and has the use of the stable for a garage, for all of which he pays rent. His father wants him away from the premises. The trouble for which William was arrested occurred Sunday evening, when he shook his father. Mrs. Becker said the trouble was all due to her husband's drinking and she took her son's part in her statement to the court. William testified that his father wanted to get him out of the house so he would be free to beat up the wife and mother, and declared his mother's body was covered with scars that bore testimony to his father's brutal treatment. Another son testified against the father. Judge Kerr continued the case until August 31 and William Becker was allowed to go on his own recognizance.

Negro's Loot is Identified.

Fred Helms, a yellow negro who was arrested early Monday morning by Officer Johnson, who saw the fellow drunk and toting a big willow rocking chair and large brass jardiniere on Harrison street, was arraigned Tuesday morning on a charge of petit larceny in having stolen the chair from the residence of Ray Vordermark, 1010 Harrison street. Helms pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs and given thirty days in jail. He stuck to his story told in court Monday morning, when he was arraigned on a drunk charge, that he did not know where he had stolen the property, persisting that he cannot recall where he got the jardiniere.

Prejury Case Falls Flat.

When the trial of Mike Ross for prejury was finally put through after numerous continuances, it resulted in the disclosure of a curious state of affairs. He was accused of having procured a loan of $225 from the People's Collateral Loan company by means of a perjured affidavit declaring that certain chattels scheduled as security were his own and unincumbered. This was proved not to be the case, but it was shown in court that Ross could not read English, had never heard the affidavit read and that his oath as to its contents was not taken. Judge Kerr ornation of perjury may follow and also a damage suit for false arrest.

Other City Court Cases.

Tom Jordan, Joe Brown and Tom Ryan were the names given by three vags who were arrested while staging a drunken orgy in the Wabash yards. All went over for fifteen days. Bob Mitchell, J. Bartlett and Harry McLane, picked up in the same neighborhood, were released on vag charges to get out of the city at once.

John McLee and James Armold, another pair of jagsters, were given fifteen days.

James Worley and Fred Collins, drunks, and James Blanard and Edward Larry, vags, were turned loose.

John Schuler, charged with embezzlement of $2.50 given him to buy wall paper for the Bowers home, where he roomed, was blown up when he produced a witness to prove that he had payed for the wall paper. The $2.50 has gone off the road somewhere, and L. O. Hull, from whom the paper was purchased, had already marked the account from his books and is shouldering the loss.

Vera Hart, a negress residing on Francis street, was tried for disorderly conduct and was continued on her own recognizance till August 31.

LUCKY STONES ARE BARRED FROM MAILS

Order Has Been Received at Fort Wayne Office to That Effect.

An order has been received at the Fort Wayne postoffice to the effect that hereafter "lucky stones" will be barred from the mails. As a result a business which has netted its promoters about $44,000 annually in recent years has been given a "black eye."

The order is directed against Captain Rand, Walter I. Rand and W. I. Rand, at 270 Tremont street, Boston. The department says:

"The representations which induce the purchase of said stones are to the effect that they are rare, hard to procure and of great value, and that they possess mysterious powers, by means of which lost jewelry is restored, true and false friends pointed out, the sick are healed, the poor come into possession of wealth, the unemployed secure work, hard luck is banished and hundreds of secrets are revealed.

"The evidence shows that these stones are found in abundance and that Rand purchased them from dealers in New York, London and Colombo, Ceylon, by the thousand at from two and one-half to fifteen cents apiece, and that said stones are often defective in that they show internal seams upon the outer surface, which, however, Rand attempts to induce persons to believe are not flaws, but are peculiar marks of these so-called lucky stones, which he calls magic mirrors, and states that because thereof, those favored mortals who are gifted with the illumination of the astral light can, by the aid of this peculiarity, read on the surfaces of said stones the reflections of the past and the promises of the future."

M'NAMEE ASKS U. S. TO RUSH WARSHIPS

Government Prepares to Act When Disquieting News of Anti-Foreign Demonstrations Come.

Washington, Aug. 10.—Serious anti-foreign demonstrations reported today to the Washington government from Vera Cruz gave state and navy department officials considerable concern, particularly in view of the pan-American conference to be resumed in New York tomorrow to devise means for restoring peace in Mexico.

Advices from Commander McNamee at Vera Cruz depicting a threatening situation at the seat of Carranza's government led to a conference between Secretary Lansing, Rear Admiral Benson, acting secretary of the navy, and Leon J. Canova, chief of the division of Mexican affairs.

Warships Made Ready.

Commander McNamee's report had at first been regarded as alarming enough to warrant sending naval reinforcements to Vera Cruz and preliminary orders have been given the battleships Louisiana and New Hampshire at Newport to make ready.

Deliberation on the situation, however, resulted in the determination to await further reports before dispatching any battleships, there being a genuine desire on the part of the administration officials to do nothing to stir up feeling that might be embarrassing to the pan-American conferees.

Gunboat is Sent.

An order was sent however, directing the gunboat Marietta to proceed at once from Progresso to Vera Cruz, a distance of about 360 miles. Rear Admiral Benson explained that the Marietta might be utilized to convey the Brazilian and Guatemalan ministers in Mexico to New Orleans.

Commander McNamee reported that natives have made incendiary speeches in the streets of Vera Cruz against Americans and other foreigners and that there had been numerous endeavors to incite uprising, although no over act has yet been committed.

Secretary Lansing will leave tonight for New York to resume deliberations with American Latin diplomats tomorrow. The secretary would not discuss the situation today asserting that he had "talked considerably yesterday about a confidential conference." Whether the definite plan agreed upon could be fairly worked out in one more session of the conference Mr. Lansing would not predict.

M'NAMEE ASKS FOR WARSHIPS.

Demonstrations Against Americans Are Particularly Violent.

Washington, Aug. 10.—Anti-foreign demonstrations in Vera Cruz were the subject of a long cablegram received at the navy department today. Acting Secretary Benson said the dispatch told of demonstrations being made in front of public buildings and street corners in an effort to incite the people against all foreigners, especially Americans. No acts of violence were reported.

Commander McNamee, the senior American naval officer at Vera Cruz, has asked the navy department to send a battleship squadron to guard against anti-foreign demonstrations, which he fears.

Ordered to Prepare.

The battleships New Hampshire and Louisiana, now at Newport, R. I., with the Atlantic fleet, were ordered to prepare at once to get to Vera Cruz, but if the emergency should become pressing the battleship Connecticut, now in Haitien waters, and about two days' sail across the gulf, would be ordered to join Commander McNamee. The Connecticut could reach Vera Cruz several days ahead of the New Hampshire and Louisiana.

Commander McNamee's report did not give details, but officials here believe the anti-American feeling which he reported is a direct outgrowth of the pan-American negotiations in Washington for the adjustment of differences between the factions.

Carranza Displeased.

Other developments in Mexico, such as General Carranza's expulsion of the Guatemalan minister and his differences with the Brazilian minister, because the countries of both participated in the pan-American conferences, are taken as evidence of Carranza's displeasure with the stand the United States has taken.

Although there are other small naval vessels in Mexican waters, the gunboat Sacramento, on which commander McNamee has his flag, is the only American naval vessel at Vera Cruz. With the arrival of the Louisiana, the flagship of the fourth division, Commander McNamee will be superceded in command of the American forces by Rear Admiral McLean.

Conference in Washington.

Admiral Benson and Leon Canova, chief of the American-Latin department, conferred concerning the reports that foreigners were in danger at Vera Cruz, and then went to the office of Secretary Lansing. Admiral Benson said: "No additional naval force has been ordered yet to go to Vera Cruz."

It was inferred that Commander McNamee had urged the dispatch of vessels without loss of time. The conference with the secretary of state was brief. When Admiral Benson came out he said: "I repeat that no additional forces have been ordered to Vera Cruz or to Mexico City."

The gunboat Marietta has been ordered to proceed from Progresso to Vera Cruz in order to have a ship at the disposal of the Brazilian and Guatemalan ministers, who are leaving Mexico. It is assumed that the Louisiana and New Hampshire will be held at Newport for further orders.

BIG WARSHIPS GET ORDERS.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 10. Orders for the battleships Louisiana and New Hampshire to proceed at once to Vera Cruz were received here today. The vessels immediately began taking on coal and provisions and prepared to leave this afternoon. The Louisiana is the flag ship of the fourth division of the North Atlantic fleet commanded by Rear Admiral McLean.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS BIG GOLD SHIPMENT

Bankers Refuse Details Regarding $25,000,000 Now Coming In.

New York, Aug. 10.—Considerable mystery surrounds the shipment from England to this country of a large amount of gold the sum being variously estimated at $15,000,000 to $25,000,000. The gold which usually takes the form of American eagles is being transshipped from Halifax to which port it was taken by a British steamer, presumably under government convoy to this city by special train.

J. P. Morgan & Co. are the consignees but the bankers refuse to give any information regarding the transaction, stating that such details ought to come from London where the shipment was arranged in response to the extraordinary exchange conditions between that center and this city. At the subtreasury it was admitted that a request had been received to take care of a large amount of gold now on the way from Canada, but the sum involved was not known. The American Express company, which has charge of the gold from Halifax to this city, declined to give any particulars of the shipment on the ground that such a course would be unwise at this time.

ART SMITH FINISHES AT SAN FRANCISCO

Art Smith, the Fort Wayne bird-boy, who has startled hundreds of thousands of people with his spectacular flying, has finished his contract at the San Francisco exposition and is now gradually working his way homeward. Wednesday and Thursday he is booked to appear at San Diego and from there he makes a jump to Mason City, Iowa, where he will fly at the state fair. He expects to make flights in many of the cities of the central west.

A large, nearly life size photograph of the aeroplane artist in the Duke's clothing store window, has been attracting the attention of many people. Several other pictures of some of his feats at the exposition are also on exhibit.

JOY FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGISTS.

Women ta Receive Same Pay as Men for Same Work in Illinois.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Equal suffragists were jubilant today, according to Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout, president of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association, over the action of the state board of administration which decreed women employed in state institutions shall receive the same pay as men where they do the same work. Mrs. Trout issued a statement in which she said that the new recognition of the equality of women is an aswer to those who express doubt of the value of the franchise to women.

Illinois women can vote and students of political economy know that no class of persons in history deprived of a voice in the government have ever received fair treatment by the government, said Mrs. Trout

BREAKING IN FIRE HORSES, NOW UNDER WAY AT NO. 3 ENGINE HOUSE, REQUIRES PATIENCE OF A JOB.

One of the beautiful roans in the three horse hitch on No. 3 engine company's ladder truck, died of blood poison last week following the pulling of a tooth. Another was pulled out of service with an affection of the legs that make it useless permanently for fire service, and the result is that a pair of new horses is being broken in for the truck. The breaking in consists of teaching the animals the signals, making them to gallop into their right positions when the bell taps and the doors open, and all the other hundred little tricks that it is necessary to teach the horses in the department. The men at No 3 station are working hours a day tutoring their new charges and were snapped by the Sentinel camera Tuesday noon in the midst of one of the drills.

BANK ROBBERS HOLD ONE HUNDRED AT BAY

Stand Off Citizens at Maple Hill, Kan., and Escape With $3,000.

Maple Hill, Kan., Aug. 10.—Several robbers held more than one hundred citizens at bay today while companions blew open the vault of the Maple Hill state bank and escaped with $3,000. It is believed there were seven men in the band. The first explosion aroused citizens, who, when they reached the street, were met by armed men who forced them to remain quiet until six charges of the explosive had been fired.

When the vault had been rifled the band disappeared in a heavy fog, which prevailed.

RUNS MACHINE INTO AUTO AND IS HURT

John Piatt ,who rooms at 420 Baker street, was painfully hurt shortly before 11 o'clock Tuesday morning when his motorcycle collided with an automobile owned and driven by C. E. Perry, real estate dealer, with offices, 309-310 Shoaff building, at Berry and Calhoun streets.

Perry was coming from the south, the officer having given him the whistle to come on. As he went to turn off of Calhoun to go west on Berry, Piatt, coming from the north, lost control of his machine, speeding it up instead of slowing down, and ran directly into the rear wheel of the automobile. He was thrown forward against the handle-bars, and was hurt about the stomach. His injuries, however, are not regarded as serious. The front wheel of the motorcycle was badly damaged, while the bending of the rear fender was the extent of the damage done to the automobile.

SEND PITIFUL CRY FOR HELP

New Appeal for Aid Comes from Americans in Mexico.

Conditions in the Capital Are Described as Unendurable.

Mexico City, July 29.—By Courier to Vera Cruz—(Via Laredo, Texas, Aug. 10.)—An appeal for help for Americans in Mexico and for the relief of the people of the country itself was sent today by the American Society of Mexico to the state department in Washington through the Brazilian minister. It recites conditions in the Mexican capital, which are described as unendurable, and which are declared to have driven Americans here almost to desperation, and implores the Washington government to act promptly in bringing about amelioration.

"The American residents of Mexico appeal once more to their government and people for the suffering millions of pacific men, women and children in this country, who are victims of hunger, cruelty and violence," the appeal begins. "These conditions put the gravest and most pressing responsibility upon the United States, which not only has passively permitted them, but has promoted them with arms and ammunition and by encouragement to political adventurers who have prostituted the name of liberty and the cause of human rights.

"Americans and other foreigners," the appeal continues, "stand aghast and wonder whether they can be living in the twentieth century and in a country bordering on the United States, which has made itself responsible to the world for protection of life and property here

Southern Pacific Resists Restoration of Tract to Public Domain.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 10.—An appeal to the United States circuit court of appeals and the United States supreme court was in preparation today by attorneys for the Southern Pacific company from a decree rendered here yesterday in the United States district court by Judge Robert S. Bean, of Oregon, restoring to the public domain more than 6,100,000 acres of oil lands in Kearn county. Millions are said to have been produced in petroleum from the property which is situated in one of the heaviest oil producing sections of the state. The decision settles on its merits one of the first of the original oil land suits brought by the government against the railroad. It was instituted four years ago after similar suits had been disposed of in a demurrer.

Patents issued to the railroad company in December 1904, covering the Elkhills properties were cancelled by the decree. The following trust deeds were also declared by the court null and void:

One to the Central Trust company of New York, of September 13, 1893; a supplemental deed of August 18, 1898; another to the Equitable Trust company of New York, of January 3, 1905; and still another to Homer S. King and James K. Wilson, surviving trustee of a group in whose favor a deed was executed April 1, 1875.

GERMAN AIRMEN RAID BRITISH COAST AGAIN

Today's War News Given in Summary.

Teutonic pressure on the eastern war front continues heavy against the Russian positions all along the line, with steady retirement of the Grand Duke Nicholas' troops recorded in most of the sectors. Northeast of Warsaw and up to the Baltic provinces the Russians are making their most determined stand. Increasingly strong resistance to the German assaults is indicated in this territory, where serious breaches would menace the new Russian lines of defense.

In the Baltic provinces, Petrograd claims that the Germans are being pressed back from Riga on land while on the water an attempt by a German battle fleet to break through the mine barriers defending the entrance to the gulf of Riga was beaten off.

Rome reports the capture of some Austrian trenches in Cavallo pass in the Carnia region and a similar success in the Plava zone.

The allies are again attacking vigorously in the Dardanelles and are making substantial progress according to news agency dispatches from Athens.

The Russians report new successes against the Turks in the Caucasus near the Euphrates river.

So far as is shown by the latest Paris report there has been little activity of a notable sort on the front in France. Several attacks by German submarine of the entente allies engaged in the Dardanelles operamans are declared to have been stopped.

Turkish aeroplanes threw bombs tions and sank the craft with the loss of all its crew, Constantinople reports.

London, Aug. 10.—An attack by German airships, which flew over the English coast last night, was announced today by the official press bureau. The statement says one of the airships was damaged by British aeroplanes and was towed into Ostend.

According to the official announcement, eight women, four children and one man were killed and six women, four men and two children were wounded as the result of the explosion of missiles dropped by the Zeppelins.

A Central News dispatch from Amsterdam says that five Zeppelins were sighted this morning off Vlieland, near the entrance to Zuider Zee. They were taking a northwesterly course in the direction of the Scottish coast.

Troops of the entente allies in the Dardanelles made a gain of 200 yards on a front of 300 yards east of the Krithia road on the Gallipoli peninsula, it was officially announced here today. A footing has also been gained on Chunuk Bahr and another landing effected elsewhere, the statement adds.

Check for Germans.

Although military operations in Russian Courland have hardly reached the decisive stage, the Germans who have been smashing their way toward Riga have been checked. Almost simultaneously German warships which attempted to enter the gulf of Riga and attain a strategic position to assist the troops ashore, were dispersed and damaged. The assemblage of German craft was the largest of any engaged in the naval actions of the war thus far, with the exception of the allied squadron at the Dardanelles. It nosed its way towards Riga much after the manner of the British ships ranged off the Belgian coast last fall.

PORT IS TAKEN BY STORM.

German Forces in Drive Against Russians, Capture Lomza.

Berlin, Aug. 10.—Fort No. 4 at Lomza has been stormed and the town of Lomza, which is situated on the Narew river, 72 miles southwest of Suwalki, has been occupied by German forces, according to an official statement issued by the German army headquarters staff today. The statement says:

"The troops of the army of General Falcke broke through the line of fortresses at Lomza yesterday afternoon and took fort No. 4 by storm. At daybreak today the fortified town was occupied."

ALLIES LOSE SUBMARINE.

Constantinople, Aug. 9.—(Via Berlin, Aug. 10.)—A submarine of the entente allies was sunk near Bulair this afternoon by a Turkish aeroplane, which threw bombs upon the craft. All the crew were lost.

WILSON TAKES HAND IN EASTLAND CASE

Seeks to Know if Any Federal Official is in Any Wise to Blame.

Cornish, N. H., Aug. 10.—President Wilson is planning, it became known today, to confer with Secretary Redfield soon after reaching Washington and go over thoroughly all the facts connected with the Eastland disaster in Chicago in order to learn whether any federal official was in any way to blame for the loss of life resulting from the overturning of the steamer. Although the president has received several communications from Mr. Redfield since the latter went to Chicago to investigate the disaster, he is waiting his return to the capital before reaching any conclusion.

President Wilson was in communication with Secretary Lansing today regarding a request from Commander McNamee that a battleship squadron be sent to Vera Cruz to protect Americans and was understood to be inclined to grant the request.

BUFFENBERGER NOW GIVEN HIS RELEASE

Chicago Police Drop Case Which Came Following Death of Babe.

Evidently concluding that there is no warrant for action, Chicago police have dropped their inquiry involving Henry Buffenberger and Mrs. Helen Pully, both of Fort Wayne, following the death of an 8-hour-old babe born to the woman in a Chicago hotel Sunday. Buffenberger is a car inspector, boarding at 2227 Oliver street, where the young woman was employed as a domestic. He originally told the Chicago police that the woman, who is 19 years old, was his wife. Mrs. Pully and her husband are separated.

Buffenberger secured a pass last Friday over the Pennsylvania for Chicago and left for that city Saturday. Mrs. Pully left the Oliver street residence Saturday afternoon, saying that she was going to Chicago. It is understood that the landlady was acquainted with her condition and that she had given her employment through pity. She declared that she would go to Chicago and after the birth of her baby place it in a charitable institution. Interest in the case was renew Tuesday when it was learned that a former baby had died in a charitable institution at Danville, Ill., last fall.

Buffenberger has been married twice and was divorced from both wives. His first wife is now in an asylum and their two children are in the custody of his parents in Decatur.

Buffenberger formerly boarded at 1125 Cochran street. He moved from there to 2227 Oliver street, saying that it was closer to his work and he would not have to pay car fare.

If Buffenberger and Mrs. Pully were married acquaintances here are not aware of it. All who know Buffenberger speak highly of him. According to the landlady at 2227 Oliver street, Buffenberger and Mrs. Pully had not known each other longer than two months, their first introduction being at the Star restaurant, on Walton avenue, where she was employed as a waitress. She worked there about two weeks when she went to the Oliver street home. According to employes of the Star restaurant she made frequent trips to the Pennsylvania yards, where Buffenberger is employed.

ANOTHER BODY WASHED ASHORE.

Thought to Be That of M. W. Harvey, Lusitania Victim.

Washington, Aug. 10.—The American consul at Cork has reported the finding of the body of M. W. Harvey, presumably a Lusitania victim, washed ashore on a small island off the Irish coast. The last Lusitania passenger list contained the name of Wm. Harvey as a third cabin passenger.

DAILY MEETINGS TO BOOST ARMORY PLAN

Indianapolis, Aug. 10. The business men of Indianapolis, acting through their five strongest organizations, have decided to build an armory at Indianapolis for the Indiana national guard. It will probably cost between $300,000 and $500,000. Daily meetings are being held in completion of the plans. Within a week the Indianapolis Armory Building association or some similarly styled body will be completed and be very busy.

The 1915 legislature appropriated $20,000 to be used by some city that could give an equal amount to build an armory, title and management to rest in the state. Indianapolis wishes to let some other city have this $20,000. The capital city business men will make their investment without state aid.

The new armory will probably be of sufficient capacity to accommodate a full regiment of infantry, one battery of artillery, one signal corps and one field hospital company. As a starter in the work, to stir the public interest and also raise a part of the money, Carl G. Fisher has proffered free use of the speedway for holding a military tournament during state fair week. Mr. Fisher also offers to advance all the money necessary to make the tournament possible and a success. Already all the officers of the state guard are busy making plans for this event, determined to make of it the greatest spectacular event ever pulled off. Two thousand enlisted men will participate and regular army officials will assist in the program.

The building of the armory will be done by subscription. The project is in the hands of men like Carl G. Fisher who are distinguished for accomplishing things. The building of the armory is prompted by the most excellent work of Adjutant General Franklin D. Bridges, and is in recognition of the splendid results he has accomplished. In the face of the meanest and most contemptible and unjust newspaper attacks and criticism, General Bridges has elevated the Indiana national guard from the deplorable condition in which many years of bad management had left it, to where an officer of the United States army told the Indianapolis business men "the Washington authorities now look upon the Indiana national guard as one of the very best in the whole country."

The same speaker said he recognized the fact that as yet it was not a large body, but that under the work of Adjutant General Bridges and the unusually excellent staff of officers he has enlisted the membership is growing fast and with only most desirable men enlisting.

The Indianapolis business men who are backing the armory building plan feel confident that the capital city will have a full regiment all her own. They feel equally sure that the building of one of the best, and probably the best, state armory in the country, will encourage steps in the same direction in other cities of the state, to the end that Indiana may soon have the very best national guard of which any state in the union can boast.

When General Bridges took charge of the national guard under appointment by Governor Ralston he found but five companies rated as "good" under the "militia" standard. Today he has over 2,800 men enlisted and holding their own under the standard set by the regular army. The present encampment is the most successful ever held in the state.

AND THEN IT HAPPENED.

Fast-Thinning Ranks of Legion That Fights for Fun Holds Reunion

Old Comrades in Soldier-of-Fortune Company Now Shooting at One Another on European Battlefields.

(By Jack Jungmeyer.)

Tweaking the whiskers of death has been their pastime; coining daredevilry into gold, their vocation.

The foreign legion, recruited in 1911 to help Madero in Mexico, has since then participated in every bit of bloodletting on two continents, dwindling from 300 to less than thirty.

Today they are at the European battlefronts, shooting with or at one another in equal zest.

Mercenaries, if you please, but brave gentlemen.

A few of them their boots off temporarily met in San Francisco recently to pay their respects to the absent ones in a manner befitting soldiers of fortune.

They drank a toast to Gen. Jack Mosby, nephew of the dashing confederate leader, and now with the French near Arras. Under him the legion has killed Diaz's federals a-plenty in northern Mexico.

They remembered Capt. C. Rhys Pryce, English gentleman and military genius who had led them to victory often against terrible odds along the Sonora border. He is now with the Canadians in Flanders, and has written: "I expect to get mine in this war, but at least the Mexican coyotes will not gnaw my bones."

"A health to Pryce, the debonair!"

And Capt. Paul Schmidt, who used to growl with loathing of the "unspeakable Turk," now fighting beside the men he abhorred against the British, whom he hates the more, at the Dardenelles.

"A good comrade and a fearless soldier: prosit!"

Another: Lieut. Franz De P. Rathkolb, just back from the Austrian front in Galicia with a Cossack bullet scar on his leg.

Thus they called the roll, the few who were out of it, and sighed for "a chance at the fun."

They would have you understand that they are gentlemen, these soldiers of the mixed foreign legion; men of every blood, creed and station. Only once did they so far demean themselves as to dundum their bullets.

That was in their last Mexican battle after they had failed to establish a republic in Lower California and had turned against Madero for failing to give them the gold he had promised. The 300 had promptly joined Zapata.

While 1,500 Maderistas were marching against the legion from Ensenada, a wily agent of his was plying the soldiers of fortune with high-proof mescal. They got gloriously lit up, ducked among themselves, shot up Tia Juana but did not forget about the gold.

"Boys," said Jack Mosby, then in command of the legion, "there are five times your number of Madero's men out there on the plain. You haven't a chance in the world. You can quit if you choose. But if you'd like to take a final rap at 'em, we'll fight—and the devil take the losers!"

The legion, to a man, voted to fight.

They liberated their horses, slashed their saddles, smashed up the town, drank more mescal, marched out to face the 1,500 Mexican veterans and dundummed their bullets.

Three hours later, the 300 cut down to ninety-seven, and their ammunition exhausted, backed across the international line and surrendered to Capt. Wilcox, of the United States army.

In the Balkan states war the ninety-seven were further reduced to fifty, and today there are a bare thirty survivors of a legion that fights "for fun" and is always ready to twitch the Reaper's whiskers.

Accordingly this will be done this year. Upon arrival at the park the old ladies should go directly to the pavilion, where the registration table will be located. They can rest there in the cool building until the parade lineup begins at 2:00 p. m. THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Mark 4:30-41.

30 And he said, Whereunto shall we liken the kingdom of God? or with what comparison shall we compare it?

31 It is like a grain of mustard seed, which, when it is sown in the earth, is less than all the seeds that be in the earth:

32 But when it is sown, it groweth up, and becometh greater than all herbs, and shooteth out great branches; so that the fowls of the air may lodge under the shadow of it.

33 And with many such parables spake he the word unto them, as they were able to hear it.

34 But without a parable spake he not unto them: and when they were alone, he expounded all things to his disciples.

35 And the same day, when the even was come, he saith unto them, Let us pass over unto the other side.

36 And when they had sent away the multitude, they took him even as he was in the ship. And there were also with him other little ships.

37 And there arose a great storm of wind, and the waves beat into the ship, so that it was now full.

38 And he was in the hinder part of the ship, asleep on a pillow: and they awake him, and say unto him, Master, carest thou not that we perish?

39 And he arose, and rebuked the wind, and said unto the sea, Peace, be still. And the wind ceased, and there was a great calm.

40 And he said unto them, Why are ye so fearful? how is it that ye have no faith?

41 And they feared exceedingly, and said one to another, What manner of man is this, that even the wind and sea obey him?

Despite the occasional railroad wreck that benumbs one with horror because of the loss of life that attends it, conclusive figures are at hand to make it apparent that few lines of activity in the United States are so safe as railway travel. The Bureau of Railway News and Statistics has collected data showing that during the last three months of 1914 in the United States 230,500,000 passengers were carried a total of 7,834,000,000 passenger miles and that not one lost life in a collision.

There were in that time 78 fatalities from train accidents, 14 of which were in cases of trespass, and the total includes railroad employes both on and off duty. For the entire year forty-one passengers met death as a result of collisions, a number that seems almost infinitesimally small when measured against the tremendous total of passengers transported, and the fact that railway mileage in the United States is steadily increasing while the number of fatalities is as steadily diminishing.

Reasons for this splendid showing, we think, are not difficult to find. American railroads are steadily improving both trackage and equipment. They are constantly making use of new appliances which operate for the safety of employe and public alike. More rigid rules to safeguard against accident are insisted upon, and the Safety First propaganda is steadily impressed upon operatives. Most important of all, however, is the fact that the American railroad man, as a class, was never of so high a grade as today. He is sober, quick-witted, careful, sturdy and dependable. The fine showing of the railroads is largely due to these conditions.

In all this discussion of possible republican presidential candidates for next year there is a plain undercurrent that makes very certain the fact that the "old guard" is going to be pushed so far back that it is going to be little more than mere scenery in the picture. It will be somewhat rough on those who have enjoyed the laurels of leadership for something like a quarter of a century, but when the race is under way it will be found that there is an entirely new entry and an entirely new driver. If there is one thing certain in the political indications at this distance in advance of the contest, it i sthat the rank and file of the party realizes that it can not hope for success without an entirely new deal both as to candidates and as to the crowd which surrounds them. The old-timers may as well prepare to do their yielding as gracefully as possible.

Fortunately, when the Board of Children's Guardians home near Indianapolis was destroyed by fire on Saturday, the fifty-one little inmates were rescued without loss of life, though the old structure was licked up like tinder by the flames. Equally fortunate, the lesson of the blaze has not been lost, for preparations are already under way for the erection of a thoroughly fireproof building as a home for the waifs under the care of the county board. And that is the only sort of structure that should ever be utilized for any institution of this character. Every city and every county that is following any other plan is apt sooner or later to pay a tragic penalty for its remissness and its neglect.

Lovers of the lighter variety of current American literature will at once realize that they have suffered a distinct loss in the death of George Fitch, the author, which has just occurred at Berkeley, Calif. George Fitch was possessed of the faculty of seeing humor in life's commonplaces and of depicting it with unusual charm. His work, none of it ranking pretentiously from a literary standpoint, was nevertheless delightful and wholesome, and it furnished millions of readers of the magazines and the newspapers with uncounted hours of rare delight.

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, successor of Dowie as overseer at Zion City, the Dowieite colony near Chicago, is now manifesting a desire to lock horns with Evangelist Billy Sunday over the latter's methods. Whether Mr. Sunday will deign to take note of it remains to be seen, but if these gentlemen ever unlimber their oratorical guns at each other, the fact that there has been no great clash of mighty dreadnaughts in the European war will be quickly forgotten, in view of what we shall probably see and hear.

A trained bear which had escaped from a circus wandered into the interurban station at Rolling Prairie where passengers were awaiting the arrival of a trolley car. The consternation was so great that the passengers made use of windows in negotiating a hasty exit from the building, and terror ran riot until the beast was taken blinkingly and unremonstratingly into captivity once more. Well, Rolling Prairie is clearly entitled to a bit of excitement of one sort or another occasionally.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

(Indianapolis News.)

The federal reserve board's summary of conditions in the twelve federal reserve districts indicates that in the business world there is a feeling of mild optimism which promises better business at least until the war brings new conditions. It is stated that "banking conditions remain dull, with large excess reserves on hand and low rates, at which banks seem reluctant to lend on the eve of the movement of crops. But even the banks expect an improvement in the near future, and this seems to be true in most of the districts." Thus, with the banks looking forward to better conditions, and business men in general expecting a revival of business as soon as the crops begin to move, there seems to be a fairly substantial basis for optimism.

The summary further calls attention to the widespread effect of war orders. Many manufacturers are enjoying better business than in normal times, and the number of such manufacturers is increasing. In New England and the cotton cloth manufacturing district of the south the demand for khaki, tenting and blankets for shipment to the belligerent nations has had a stimulating effect. The demand for steel, iron and plate has indirectly created a demand for coal and coke, which has extended the improvement area into sections having no special interest in war orders.

This summary by the government experts is on the whole encouraging. The large wholesale houses of New York city state that collections are "very satisfactory." When contrasted with reports from the same source a year ago, this statement is cheering. The summary agrees, in the main, with reports of better conditions, which have lately been coming from Wall street, although in that quarter some concern is expressed lest the speculative fever that has seized the public may react unfavorably on the situation. But with good crops and an abundance of war orders in the large industrial centers, business activity for the next few months seems likely. What the country needs to prepare for is the permanent readjustment of commercial and industrial relations after the war when Europe's purchasing power will have been reduced and many of our own factories will need to return to the manufacture of peace products.

RECALLING AN OLD STORY.

(Pittsburgh Dispatch.)

The international law situation may best be summarized by recalling the familiar story of the man who was arrested and placed in jail and sent for a lawyer. The legal adviser heard the circumstances with expressions of incredulity and indignation. The whole business was preposterous, he declared, without warrant of law or reason. He proved to his own satisfaction, by chapter and verse and precedent, that the incarceration of his client was an outrage and that the other side did not have a leg to stand on, winding up with the declaration: "They can't put you in jail. There's the law." "Yes," said his client dubiously, "but here's me!"

The international lawyers on all sides are very much like that lawyer. They declare things are impossible that have already been done. They cite precedents without number and establish to their own satisfaction that their case is flawlessly made out. But they cannot deny the facts. Perhaps if the diplomats would quit pettifogging and get down to business something might be accomplished. Results are worth more than precedents.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Fitch left today for Mackinac Island by way of Detroit and the lakes.

Gustav Detzer, of the Old National bank, will soon leave for a tour of the lakes.

M. M. M. Slattery, of the Electric works, will attend the convention of electricians at Cape May, this week.

August Detzer, the druggist, will spend the next two weeks at Detroit, Mackinaw and other great lake resorts.

Clarence Schell will leave tomorrow for Boston, Philadelphia and other eastern points on pleasure as well as on business for the Pulley works.

Deputy Sheriff Platt J. Wise has sold the woolen mill on East Columbia street to Mrs. Maria C. French, the mortgagee, for $22,220.

Prof. C. R. Dryer, who was in the city for several days, left this morning for Lake James, near Angola, to rejoin his family.

Supt. C. D. Law, of Pittsburg railroad, and his family have left for a two weeks' outing at Ashbury Park, N. J.

The White wheel works, the immense plant of the American Wheel company, in this city, were entirely destroyed by fire Friday night. The loss is $150,000, with insurance of $51,000. The origin of the fire is not certainly known, though credence is given the theory that a spark from a Nickel Plate locomotive caused the destruction of the big plant in the eastern part of the city.

The excursion party to the White mountains and the St. Lawrence river, chaperoned by Mrs. D. B. Wells and Miss Carrie Sharp, of Westminster seminary, has returned to this city. In the party besides the chaperones were Mrs. A. B. Nickey and daughter, Maxie, Mrs. J. O. Keller and Misses Pauline Thieme, Emma Buchman, Stella Mossman, Cora and Mabel Tinkham and Miss Pauline Flint, of Kendallville.

There will be two parades at Robison park on Woman's Day, August 18th. Wearing Newport scarfs, souvenirs of the 1915 Old Ladies' Congress, the venerable women will slowly march, two abreast, from the pavilion to the band stand in the grove where the exercises will be held. The Hard Times Parade will line up at 4:00 p. m. in front of the pavilion. The line will move through the park to the band stand where the prizes will be distributed. Imported German sewing baskets, also many useful and ornamental baskets, as well as imported French china plates that have been on exhibition in the pavilion will be awarded this year to those appearing in the Hard Times Parade. It is but fit and proper that those who so largely aid in the day's success should receive the souvenirs. There will also be ten grand prizes for the best ten costumes suggestive of hard times.

His Majesty Talks While He Watches Her Majesty, the Queen, Mend the Royal Shirt.

(By Fred L. Boalt.)

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 6. His majesty the king sat cross-legged on the dirt floor of the royal tepee, watching her majesty the queen mend his shirt.

In the entrance to the tepee I made deep obeisance and requested an audience. Also, would his majesty pose before the camera?

"Bimeby—mebby," said the king.

Finally I was waited upon, where I tarried, by one whom I must designate, I suppose, as a duke—a slim-waisted young Indian in a pink silk shirt, chaps and high-heeled boots—one of the royal nephews.

The king would grant me an interview. I could take his picture. Even now the king was making his toilet.

George Maniniek is hereditary old, fat and rich the richest Indian chief of the Yakimas. He owns much stock, both horses and cattle.

For thirty-two years King George has been going about the country, entering his horses at fairs and roundups, his young men riding them for prizes. It is a profitable business.

The duke confided to me: "Ol' man he want to show off. He be ready bimeby. You wait get dam' fine picture, you bet!"

I learned later that the duke is what you might call the heir-apparent, the king being without issue. After I had cooled my heels an interminable while the king appeared, followed by the queen.

The king was wearing his royal robe. The queen set upon his head the royal war bonnet. She placed in his hand the royal turkey's wing.

Now the king would mount his horse. The duke shouted, and other dukes came running. I helped.

Some of us propped the rangy grey on the offside. Others of us grasped the royal legs and hoisted! The grey spraddled and trembled. The king grunted. The queen held her breath.

Heave! The thing was done.

Later, in the tepee, the king talked to me graciously. The young man squirmed uncomfortably.

"Why?"

The question was put in the tribal tongue. And answered:

"He say no need for chief now. He say his father chief before white man come. Now Wilson chief."

The king listened intently. Suddenly he displayed a knowledge of the English language he had not previously revealed. The heir-apparent was cheating.

"Ugh!" said King George of Yakima. "You hear me!"

He plucked at the heir-apparent's pink silk shirt.

"White man shirt."

With the toe of the royal moccasin he touched the heir-apparent's high-heeled boot.

"White man boot."

He slapped his own mighty chest:

"Indian shirt."

He indicated the royal feet with a fat finger: "Indian moccasin."

The queen's sides shook. A giggle escaped her.

"Indian boy one time go to school, learn hunt, fish, make fire now Indian boy go school learn shorthand. Forget Indian custom. I die bimeby. No need for chief."

The heir-apparent lit a cork-tipped cigaret. He consulted an Ingersoll watch. The king waived a fat hand.

WOMEN AT ISSUE WITH ROOSEVELT DOCTRINE

Big Family Theory is Attacked in Suffrage Circles.

New York, Aug. 10.—"Roosevelt talks like the kaiser," said Mrs. Kate Morris, secretary of the Domestic Science Club of New York, "in relegating women to the nursery as he does in his latest remarks. Any man who would tell a woman with seven children who is attempting to live on $20 a week that she must keep on having more must be crazy. It is simply returning to the old German point of view which regards women as simply fit for church, kitchen and children. No woman can care for so many children and do her duty to society."

Colonel Roosevelt's advice, given in San Diego, Cal., to a mother of seven, whose husband is unemployed, and who asked him what she should do, aroused comment in suffrage circles. He is reported to have replied, "Keep on being a mother, no matter what the conditions may be."

"I can't believe he said it," asserted Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, "or at least I can't believe that he meant it literally. If he really did mean it I think his advice simply criminal. No child ought to be born into the world until its economical future is assured as far as possible. To have children without thinking what is to become of them or how they are to live, threatens the whole system of society. Why did the woman put it up to Roosevelt, anyway? He isn't running a social service bureau."

In 1850 there were 2,528 newspapers published in this country. Now there are more than 23,000.

Queen Victoria lived 29,828 days, or five days longer than the oldest of her predecessors, George III. Each was born on May 24.

LITTLE ADELAIDE CLOSE WHO HAD A CIRCUS FOR BIRTHDAY PARTY.

ADELAIDE B. CLOSE.

Greenwich, Conn., Aug. 10.—More than a hundred youngsters from New England's leading families are still chattering excitedly about that "birthday circus." It was certainly the oldest birthday party in all history.

Little Adelaide Close, daughter of E. B. Close, was seven years old. Her mother just had to do something nice to celebrate the great day; so she had a full two-ring circus, with clowns and animals and popcorn and pink lemonade all complete, give a matinee performance in Adelaide's front yard!

Marcelline, most famous of clowns, was there, and everything from peanuts and candy to the big show in the eighty-foot tent was free and exclusive for little boys and girls who were Adelaide's guests.

AIRMAN CANNOT KNOW EXACT DAMAGE DONE

Precise Results of His Attacks Not Often Disclosed to Him.

Paris, July 30.—Correspondence of the Associated Press.—During the first year of war, so far as accounts have been rendered to the public, thirty-five German flying machines, not including dirigible balloons, were brought to earth and destroyed by French airmen. The day he was obliged to alight behind the German lines and was taken prisoner, Roland Garros, the well known civilian aviator, held the record, with three machines to his credit. He has since been surpassed by Lieutenant E—— G——, who has brought down four.

Garros used a special armament planned by himself with a machine gun regulated to fire across the axis of the propeller. In the first ten days with this machine he brought down his three victims.

What a single airman is able to accomplish against land forces is indicated by the case of Adjutant V——, reported by Jacques Mortane, sporting writer and a volunteer in the aviation corps, as having in a single day dropped twelve three and a half-inch shells and 8,000 steel darts upon batteries of mortars that he destroyed at Norroy, eight shells and 4,000 darts on the general headquarters at Thiaucourt, four shells and 2,000 darts on Pagn-sur-Moselle, four shells and 2,000 darts at Pannes and four shells and 2,000 darts at Chambly—a total of thirty-two shells and 18,000 darts.

It is generally impossible for the airman to know exactly what damage he has done, except in the case where bombs cause conflagrations. In various ways, however, details of the results of some bombardments, have become known. At the headquarters of the German crown prince at Rivigny, October 22, fifteen men were killed and thirty-six horses and twenty-two men wounded. The men were mostly officers. At the general headquarters of Emperor William, November 1, two of the emperor's aides-de-camp were killed. In the destruction of a military train at Zeebrugge, December 17, forty soldiers were killed and 100 wounded. At the headquarters of the Prince of Wurtumberg, General Garnereich and two lieutenant generals were killed. On May 31, the airmen killed forty-four soldiers and wounded thirty at the German aerodrome at Contrade.

Official details have been given of over a hundred air attacks upon German camps, aerodromes, railway communications, etc., but they are only a part of what the attacking flying corps has done; it often happens that the raider does not come back to render account. How many French airmen have been brought down it is impossible to state; the French give out no figures of their losses. A number of accidents are known, however, and among them some that give a vivid impression of the dangers run by the bombarding section of the flying corps. Captain D—— was about to take the air for a raid, and, the machine gun man with him, was preparing a shell at 1,800 meters high, when he awkwardly let it fall upon the frame. The shock exploded the projectile and blew the apparatus and men to pieces.

A similar accident occurred to the English aviator, Captain C——. While he was taking aboard his supply of ammunition, a bomb fell to the ground, exploded, destroyed the machine, the pilot and twelve machinists who were standing by.

M—— P——, caught in the clouds on a severely cold day, came out at a height of 1,200 yards, so benumbed that he lost control of his machine and fell to his death.

Lieutenant N —— was reconnoitering with an observer whose scarf became unwound in the wind and caught in the propeller, precipitating the machine to the ground.

Illinois Steel Company Starts Dry Campaign Among Employes

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Officials of the Illinois Steel company in South Chicago have started a campaign against drinking among their employees. Signs and posters telling the evils of strong drink were displayed in all parts of the plant. The campaign had a good effect and the officials were just beginning to congratulate themselves when the saloon-keepers hit upon an idea to offset the boycott against them.

They established elaborate free lunches and advertised the fact. They posted signs, which told of the bad effects cold lunches had on digestive organs. One sign read:

"Don't come in to drink. Come in and eat."

The company came back with the establishment of a restaurant in the plant. Recently the men ate their first meal with the following menu; Bowl of soup, two cents; roast beef and potatoes, five cents; tomato, one cent; pie, one cent; coffee, two cents; ham sandwich, two cents; beans, two cents; ice cream, two cents.

WED LONG; ASKS DIVORCE.

Paris, Ky., Aug. 10.—Suit has been filed in the Bourbon circuit court here by Mrs. Willie Fisher Ingels against Edward M. Ingels, asking for an absolute divorce.

Mrs. Ingels was the beautiful Miss Willie Fisher, daughter of the late W. W. Fisher, a prominent Blue Grass farmer. She was married twenty-eight years ago to Edward M. Ingels, only son of Dr. Edward M. Ingels, who formerly was one of the most noted physicians and surgeons in Kentucky. Their wedding was a society event. In her petition Mrs. Ingels alleges that her husband has been a habitual drunkard during almost their entire wedded life.

FALL HATS, DID YOU SAY? HERE THEY ARE—THE FIRST CROP OF THE SEASON.

(By Betty Brown.)

Dame Fashion is going to see to it that no one's disappointed in the matter of hats this fall. There are broad brimmed, drooping hats for the girl who likes a picturesque frame for her face; there are perky little tri-corner turbans for the girl who likes a hat with a saucy tilt to it and there are hats betwixt and between in size, and richly trimmed to suit "Every woman."

For the early season the wide brimmed, simply trimmed hat will have supremacy, but with winter's approach the small, close fitting turban will come into its own, and milliners who forecast styles say the little hat will have great vogue in the late fall season.

The upper hat in the group shown here is a reminder of the "Merry Widow" of pleasant memory. It is black velvet simply ornamented with colored porcelain beads; a band of white chiffon lines the droopy brim.

The tri-corner hat at left is also black velvet, with the dove of peace—wings and breast—perched jauntily on its crown.

At right is a sand color panne velvet with a feather ornament capped with black jet from which juts an aigrette.

These hats will be shown at the August style show given in Chicago under the auspices of the Chicago Garment Manufacturer's association.

(By Betty Brown.)

"Simple elegance" are just the words that describe this stunning little costume I saw the other day in the studio of Mme. Marguerite of the Fashion Art League of America. It's made of marquisette and fine French serge, but just plain serge could be used with good effect and with a trimming of buttons it would be a charming gown for a school girl.

In the gown sketched the serge forms a 12-inch band at the bottom extending upward at the sides in pocket form. The marquisette blouse is trimmed with hand embroidered medallions of gold run lace, and gold buttons are used on the blouse, sleeves and skirt.

AT THE TEMPLE.

Paycen Stock Players in Mirthful Farce, "Hello, Bill."

Laughs of every size and shape known to man or woman are brought into being by the exhilirating farce comedy, "Hello, Bill," the hilarious three-act riot in which the Paycen stock company players are appearing this week. A happier selection in response to the request of scores of patrons of the house for a farce could hardly have been made, as the comedy, "Hello, Bill," although essentially a farce, is not mere hufoonery, especially as it is handled by the Paycen players, Maurice Jenkins, who in only one other character he has done during the current summer season, has had an opportunity to display his talents as a comedian, scores in the role of Bill, while his friendly fixer, done by Harry Manners, is a splendid foil for him. Jay C. Collins has originated his own conception of Dr. Hastings, and finally the stock company's "villain" has found a role in which he is not a double dyed rascal. He's one of the big laughs of the farce as the fussy, gushing young doctor who helps keep Bill Fuller in hot water.

Princess to Rule the Fall Fashions

The princess gown is to "queen" over the fashion world this fall. Not that all the gowns will be princesses, but according to fashion forecasts I hear most of the smart gowns will be built on princess lines.

A demure little frock to be shown soon at the Chicago Garment Manufacturers' association style show with a quaint fichu draped about the shoulders attracted so much attention at a recent style show that I sketched it for the benefit of my readers. It's dark blue charmeuse with fichu of black Chantilly drawn through the inside panel and reappearing at the back where it is tied in a sash. The skirt is short as are all the new skirts, and the scalloped edge is one of the new ideas so often seen on the new gowns.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

Famous Stage Beauty and Emotional Artiste at Jefferson in "Sold."

Containing all the elements for vigorous emotional portrayal, "Sold" provides Miss Frederick with a role adapted to her finely developed talents. Miss Frederick's characterization is that of the wife of an impoverished artist, who, in order to obtain funds for her husband, consents to pose in the nude for his wealthy rival. This sacrificial act is detected by the husband, who, misunderstanding her motive, spurns her and laughs at her protestations that the act he brands her for was committed for his sake. From this point, the drama develops much stress, and after a series of overpoweringly tense situations, the husband learns of his wife's true nature and absolute fidelity, and a happy reunion is effected.

As the doubted and suffering wife, Miss Frederick does not miss the slightest opportunity to score. It seems as if all the ability that she evidenced on the stage in "Joseph and His Brethren," as Potiphar's wife, and as the central character of "Innocent," are concentrated in the impersonation of the heart-broken wife in "Sold."

AT THE NEW PALACE

DISTINGUISHED ACTOR AT PALACE

William Faversham in "Right of Way," Tonight and Tomorrow.

The distinguished actor, William Faversham, makes his Fort Wayne screen drama debut tonight and tomorrow at the New Palace when he will be seen in the film adaptation of Sir Gilbert Parker's absorbing story of the great north country, "The Right of Way." Mr. Faversham is supported by Miss Jane Grey and a cast of notable proportions in this his premiere in the silent drama. Mr. Faversham's splendid successes on the legitimate stage are paralleled by his achievements in this thrilling story of life in the bleak north country as unfolded by the camera. His versatility and surpassing histrionic talents lend themselves admirably to the role of Charlie Steele, in which he appears in "The Right of Way."

Chaplin Coming Back.

Charlie Chaplin will be back Thursday and Friday in another satisfying revue of his favorite farce comedies. The selection for this second big revue include some of Mr. Chaplin's most recent laugh makers.

AT THE LYRIC.

A "MOVIE" CABARET.

"Midnight at Maxim's Colorful Four-Act Screen Revue at Lyric—Chaplin Friday.

With fifty-five of Broadway's prettiest, most symmetrical chorus beauties in the score of gigantic ensemble numbers, and twenty-five of the foremost entertainers of the native stage taking part in the different specialty numbers, "Midnight at Maxim's," the sensational four reel "movie cabaret" produced by the Kalem company, represents the greatest aggregation of feminine loveliness and cleverness ever gathered together in an event of the kind. Rector's Maxim's, Bustanoby's and the Winter Garden, Bohemian spots in New York, all noted for wealth of beautiful show girls, contributed in making this screen conception the dazzling success that it is.

In addition to "Midnight at Maxim's," the Lyric will display two other reels of pictures, one a Billy Reeves Lubin comedy and one of the inimitable Sophie Clutts comedies. On Friday and Saturday Charles Chaplin appears in his latest Essanay photo-scream, "The Bank."

BUT HE DREW REVOLVER.

Anton Refused to Kneel While Popping Question.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 10.—When Anton Miles went wooing pretty Rose Blue he intended to ask her to marry him. When he got to the point where he intended to pop the question, she insisted that he conform to time-honored custom and kneel. Anton wouldn't.

"You'll have to kneel to marry me," Rose said. Police charge that Anton then drew a revolver and fired at her. The bullet caused a flesh wound. Anton fled, but a crowd caught him and he was arrested on the charge of shooting to kill. He said he declined to kneel because it would humiliate him.

"GOT HER" ALL RIGHT.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 10.—When friends of Carl Ryder, private secretary of H. S. Kelsey, of Boston, learned that he was seriously ill in that city some time ago, they wired, "Get the best nurse possible." A little later came the reply, "Got her."

And they discovered that the nurse formerly was Miss Mary A. Foulke, that her name now is Mrs. John Carl Ryder, and that the patient had "got her" indeed.

The purpose of the trip was to demonstrate the efficiency of modern war machines now being turned out in this country and used in Uncle Sam's army. PROTESTS AGAINST CUT OF TRACK LEVY

In a special message to be sent to the city council Tuesday evening, Mayor W. J. Hosey will strongly protest against cutting the track elevation levy from 10 cents to 7 cents, and he will present some strong reasons for his position. He will not oppose the proposed motorization of the equipment at No. 1 fire station, but he will undertake to show the council that the $15,000 asked by the board of safety for that purpose can be procured without taking anything from the provisions for track elevation. The mayor will insist that the $30,000 in the garbage plant fund is sufficient for any plan that it will be wise for the city to adopt for increased facilities to destroy garbage and that the 3-cent levy maintained for two years for the garbage plant can be added to the general levy, producing next year about $12,500. He also will represent to the council that by motorizing the equipment at No. 1 station the proposed appropriation of $4,000 for fireproof quarters in which to install the electric fire-alarm headquarters can be in large part dispensed with and the money thus saved used to increase the motorization fund. The mayor will point out that the use of motor equipment will enable the fire department to remove the haymow from the station and thus eliminate the most complained of source of danger to the electric signal headquarters, which can be given more room and safety at a comparatively small expenditure. The mayor's message will approve the estimates prepared by City Comptroller W. C. Baade in practically all other details. But he will not acquiesce in the proposed cut of the track elevation levy.

The mayor will point out that the city must prove its good faith in demanding track elevation east of Calhoun street by display of financial preparation to perform its part of the work, and be ready in the event of litigation to demonstrate to courts that its own financial arrangements are complete.

BUDGET WILL ENGAGE COUNCIL.

First August Meeting Will Bring Annual Appropriations and Levy Forward.

The regular meeting of the city council Tuesday evening will have as the main event the presentation by the city comptroller of the annual budget and tax levy for 1916. The majority report, signed by Members Jacob Hartman and Frank Schliebecker, will recommend that the ordinance do not pass, and Member Robert John will report favorably. A large delegation from the Men's Christian league and numbers of other persons will be present to urge the passage of the ordinance. The appropriations and levy ordinances will be referred to the committee of the whole.

and yet does nothing more than to send repeated warnings that are derided by half savage men, drunk with ill-gotten power and the spirit of graft and hate.

"For many months the Americans here, driven almost to desperation, have tried to bring their government to a realization of the awful situation and begged that the American people be informed. Their request, long denied, was finally conceded in part by the president in his own statement of June 2, reciting briefly the conditions in Mexico. These conditions, then hardly endurable, are much worse now and the apparent inactivity of the government at Washington fills Mexico with despair. There is not even a semblance of government here at the capital and we are living on a smoldering volcano. The entire city council has been imprisoned without cause. We have seen three changes of armed government in thirty days. There is no communication with the world except by special messenger."

WHERE THE EXTREMES OF MATRIMONY MET

Words Uniting Couple Mingle With Demand for a Divorce.

While Justice H. C. Nierman stood up in County Clerk Stout's private office, Tuesday afternoon and said the solemn words that joined in the holy bonds of wedlock a very pretty girl and a good-looking youth, there stood just outside another and an older woman whose words rose above the marriage service while she "bawled out" her lawyer who had failed to file her divorce suit. As the pretty bride and the good-looking groom said "yes" to all the injunctions, the mismated one told her troubles to Deputy Clerk Al Brink and she was in considerable fuss because her lawyer had not got her suit for "a bill" from "that man" started. The extremes of matrimony were in a head-on collision.

Leonard, Rose & Zollars appear for the plaintiff.

Mrs. Caroline Taylor on July 21 last brought suit in the superior court for divorce from Cecil Taylor, has now begun action in the same court against Bernie Archer for $10,000 damages alleging that this defendant has alienated the affections of Cecil Taylor from the plaintiff. The will of the late Marie Hartman has been filed for probate. She leaves a number of cash bequests to relatives, the amounts ranging from $50 to $500, $500 each to the Zion Evangelical Lutheran congregation of Fort Wayne and the Lutheran hospital of this city and the balance of her property in equal shares to Henry and Christian Buettel and Charlotte Koop. Fred Klein is named executor.

The superior court has fixed Nov. 10 as the date for hearing the suit of George Jeffers against the Wabash railroad for $2,000 damages, and Nov. 18 for hearing the suit of George Wright against the Wabash for $5,000 damages. Each case will be heard by a jury.

(By Jack Jungmeyer.)

San Francisco, Aug. 7.—Fred Schroder a friend of the lost Viljalmer Stefansson and veteran whaler, who is about to go north again, was telling me how he introduced the doctrine of co-operation among the Eskimo huntsmen of the arctic.

It was when Schroder was accounted the most successful otter hunter above the circle, with pelts bringing $1,000 each.

By changing in a day the age-old custom of the natives he enriched himself by about $19,000 that season; shattered the accumulated wisdom and sagas of tribal patriarchs, and brought opulence in place of poverty among the Eskimos with whom he dealt.

It was simple enough.

"My natives," said Schroder, "in their skin kyaks, worked under the ancient tribal law that the kill belonged to the hunter who first wounded the animal, no matter who subsequently killed it. And to him also belonged all the reward.

"The man who believed he had planted a bullet in an otter for my hunters used rifles and shotguns, as well as harpoons—held aloft the paddle of his canoe. From that time until the otter was captured none of his fellows might shoot at the quarry. It had to be killed with the harpoon.

"Naturally bluffing crept in. Shrewd hunters raised their paddles on the thinnest pretext, and often the chase of an otter would consume an entire day under this crazy code—the law of the first wound.

"This meant few otter in a season, small profits for me and equally little pay for my natives.

"At the head of my crew was old Elia, an Aleut chief, and a great hunter—ugly, wrinkled and very proud of his prowess. No white man could tell him anything. His ways were the ways of his forefathers and of his Indian gods.

"Alongside Chief Elia's skin boat rode Loveretti, a lad of fourteen, in his "bidarka," out on his first hunt. Quiet and respectful he was, as behooved a boy in the presence of his distinguished elders.

"But when it came to shooting, Loveretti did not wait for his chief to fire first. So it was that the untried youngster got the first otter of the season, after many weeks of fruitless hunting.

"Chief Elia gloomed with pique and jealousy. But the tribal law allowed the boy the entire pay for the killing.

Fred Schroder; his whaling vessel "Elvira," and a group of Siberian natives, expert otter hunters.

When I paid the boy I got the men together and gave them a talk.

"'You see,' I explained, 'how it is with your law of the first wound. Chief Elia, a great hunter, gets nothing. This Loveretti, a mere boy, gets everything. And yet all of you worked hard, maybe harder even than Loveretti. That is not good: it is not fair.'

"They nodded doubtful approval.

"'Now,' I continued, 'why don't you all hunt together, get as many otter as you can, no matter who wounds them or kills them, and then divide the money equally among all?'

"The old chief got to his feet, a new light in his eyes.

"'Why you no tell us before?' he said, voicing surprise that a white man could have thought of this happy solution first. 'We do that way after this.' And he issued orders accordingly.

"In place of a probable half-dozen skins, I got twenty-four during that season under the new co-operative hunting. And everyone was the gainer.

"'Always hunt 'em your way now,' Elia told me on my last trip. 'Good way, even if white man think 'em first. Maybe white man know something, I guess.' And he grinned his compliments."

CUBS OPEN WITH WIN OVER TERRIERS

Re-arranged Line-up Goes Great and Cops First of Series.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 10.—Fort Wayne defeated the Highlanders yesterday when they pounded Gilbert out of the box and then repeated the stuff on Gregg in the ninth. Osborne started for Fort Wayne but went a little to the bad in the seventh, and Hart went to the rescue, stopping what for a moment looked like a Terrier win. The locals hadn't lost a game in the last dozen and the crowds took out their revenge on Umps Gochler at the end of the game, necessitating police protection for the indicator man.

Fort Wayne got to Gilbert for two in the third on a wild heave by Gilbert, singles by Hartle and Osborne and Brant's sacrifice fly. Three more piled up in the next frame and Gilbert yanked himself in the midst of it. Two were down then when Grey threw wild, and a double and a base on balls and a single made three more.

Brant doubled in the fifth and went to third on an error, Holderman sending him home with a sacrifice fly. Three more in the ninth cinched the game. Score:

"LITTLE OLD MAN OF THE LINKS" RETIRES.

Walter J. Travis, the "Little Old Man of the Links," is through. He has announced he will not play in the national championship tournament at Detroit, Mich., next month.

The tourney will be the first big one in years without the entry of the little old man who has watched golf grow from a game scorned as a pastime only for the Oslerized to a sport so popular that in many cities the courses are far too few to accommodate the demand of both young and old.

Travis has competed in golf tournaments twenty-two years. He was 34 when he began competition play. A little more than a month ago, at the age of 56, he won the Metropolitan championship.

Jerry Travers is the only golfer who has won more titles than the "Little Old Man." Travis won the Metropolitan championship four times, was national champion, and in 1904 won the British championship. He was the only Yankee to ever carry away an English golf title.

Travis, by being on the links almost every day for years, reduced the game to a science. He knew to within a few feet the carrying distance of each of his sticks. He played golf a good deal like a chess champion plays chess.

Travis' reason for staying out of the national meet is typical of his fairness.

"It would not be right for me," he said, "to start fresh and possibly eliminate some good man, then weaken and allow some one else, with not much chance of winning, to remain in. I'll just knock around for fun hereafter."

The tourney will not seem right to golfers and fans who, year after year, have watched the "Little Old Man" in his traditional uniform of Oxford jacket and knickerbockers, chewing on a black cigar, playing his way into the semi-finals and finals.

"I've had my day. I'm willing now to step aside for the younger element," was the statement of the "Little Old Man" as he closed his tournament career.

LOW PERCENTAGE IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

A new record for the forty-four years of major league baseball will be set this season, judging from the way things stack up now. Some club in the National league is going to win the pennant with a percentage mark of .588.

Since the National league was started in 1871, there have been 59 pennant struggles, 44 in the National and 15 in the American league. In all these struggles only one pennant was ever won with a mark under .600. The Detroit Tigers turned the trick in 1908 with .588. They just nosed out the Cleveland Naps.

The National race has been so torrid this season the Phils, although they led for a long time, have not been able to get far above the .550 mark.

If any club is going to go above .588 that club will have to cut loose from the rest of the bunch and run completely away from everybody. It does not seem likely any of the clubs can do that.

There are four clubs bunched around the top and all seem of almost equal strength. None is able to pull far ahead of the other. The race is getting hotter all the time, so the chances for a new record in low percentage is very good.

Over in the American league things are different. There is a bigger difference in the strength of the first and second division clubs. Boston has been well over the .600 mark for some time and Detroit has beaten that figure. There does not seem much chance there for the winning team will be under .600.

Don't fail to read every word of the Patterson-Fletcher Co.'s Great Half Price Sale "ad" on page 2. Sale began this morning.

CROSS LEAVES RING TO STICK TO DENTISRY.

Leach Cross

Leach Cross, the lightweight, who has been prominent in the ring for some time, says he will not fight any more, but stick to pulling teeth. Cross is a dentist and has a dental parlor in New York.

Cross says he has as much money as he needs, a fine auto and a good dental business. As a fighter Cross was one of the hardest punchers among the lightweights.

UMPS SLEAR WAS STAR IN LONG CENTRAL TILT.

(Terre Haute Star).

Umps Bo Slear in his day was quite a ball player. The indicator handler who is on the job at Athletic park has a clipping which shows that he won a 17-inning 1 to 0 game at South Bend, Ind., on Labor day, 1903, in which Cecil Ferguson, town lot star, and "Cy" Alberts, former Terra Haute flinger, were the rival slabbists. Slear decided the duel with a single which scored the only run of the affair. Ferguson was found for ten hits while Alberts, twirling for Fort Wayne, allowed but five. Cecil issued but one walk in the game, which lasted three hours and five minutes.

MAKING A SAFE SLIDE FOR THE PLATE IN A CLOSE PLAY

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 10. Some cities have their feminine golfers, their tennis sparks and some their swimmers, but Spokane has its women baseball teams.

There is great rivalry between the married women and the single women for the city championship, and the contests have been wavering between the feminine benedicts and the unmarried sisters until fair pins strew the base lines and bats are covered with ribbons.

The married women have carried off most of the games, but the single maids now threaten the umpires with hat pins unless more favorable decisions are given.

Every week the matrons line the baby buggies up next to the grandstand, put their husbands behind the wire netting at the park so that a mere man cannot get out of the cage, and then they commence to slam the ball.

Miss L. Davenport is star pitcher for the singles, while Mrs. F. Fletcher holds down the mound for the matrons. Mrs. A. Creder, the accomplished and stalwart shortstop for the married women, is champion slider and can usually make home from third in three slides. Mr. Creder, her husband, is waterboy. He comes in handy when the women wash up after a hard inning.

The single women put their long line of defeats down to overtraining, having eschewed candy for the summer.

STATISTICS PROVE THE CENTRAL LUCKY

Heilbroner's Circuit Weathers Storm That Sinks a Fleet of Clubs.

That the Central league, under the able command of Skipper Looie Heilbriner, has weathered a baseball gale of no small proportions and remained afloat while many sister leagues were foundering, was proven when Heilbroner's Blue Book supplement came off the press. The supplement is composed of figures secured at the end of the second act and looks a lot like an embalmer's manual. It is chiefly a list of the late lamented in the matter of leagues, managers and clubs.

Two leagues, the South Atlantic and the Georgia State, closed before July 20, and the latter changed its circuit and went under an alias through the last three weeks of its sickly existence.

The following leagues disbanded:

Southern Michigan association.

Nebraska State league.

Middle Texas league.

Central Texas league.

Void schedules are chalked up against the following:

Illinois-Iowa-Indiana league.

Northern league.

Ohio State league.

And thirty-four league clubs have fired their managers and taken on new pilots since the opening of the season, too. Eight new presidents have taken the places of those that have fallen by the wayside, four clubs have changed cities, the Northern league dropped a pair of clubs, and so much for the mortuary statistics.

And there has come into existence one new league (count it, one). It is the Central Texas league, and it came to an early death. But with the wails of the wounded and the sighs of the dying on every hand, and the snug little old Central playing right along, it shows that there was good management here. Hats off to Looie, sents, the little giant who sat so cussed tight on the Central lid that not a single team got spilled, and that we are having baseball here today.

COWS EAT DYNAMITE.

Three Members of Indiana Man's Herd Dead in Consequence.

Columbus, Ind., Aug. 10.—Ben Perry, a farmer who lives near here, reported today that three of his cows are dead as a result of eating dynamite. Perry says he left about five pounds of the explosive in a field where he had been blowing stumps and that the cows swallowed it.

QUITS AFTER CAREER OF 25 YEARS ON BALL FIELD.

BILL HART.

Bill Hart, after a career of more than twenty-five years on the ball field, has resigned as National league umpire. It was said he quit because he got tired of having his work criticised.

Hart was a pitcher more than twenty years, and was still hurling in the Southern league when he passed the age of forty. He was in the same class with Cy Young in point of service. Hart spent his years in the minors, while Young was in the majors. He was called "Bond Hill Bill" Hart because he lived at Bond Hill, near Cincinnati.

In Arabian marriages, as soon as the bride reaches the bridegroom's house she makes him presents of household furniture, a spear, and a tent.

A rough census of war workers has revealed that approximately 3,000,000 people are employed, directly or indirectly, in furnishing supplies for the allies.

SOME IMPORTANT INSPECTION TRIPS

Pennsylvania Has Three Booked for This and Next Week.

Two important inspection events are slated on the Western division of the Pennsylvania for this week and one for next week. The first is the trip over the line by General Superintendent W. C. Downing, which is now on and which was mentioned in detail by The Sentinel yesterday. The second one this week will be the color blind, station and building inspection trip, which will be a combination of departments in which the maintenance of way and the operating will figure. The color blind inspection trip was arranged some days ago and to save time and expense, it was decided to combine station, building and track inspection with it. The special train carrying the inspection party will leave Fort Wayne at 7:30 Thursday morning and work east as fast as Lima, where a stop for the night will be made. Friday the territory between Lima and Crestline will be covered, the party returning here Friday night. Among those who will be in this inspection party will be Supt. Otto Schroll, Trainmaster C. L. Hamilton and one of his assistants, Road Foreman of Engines C. R. Colmey and one of his assistants, Master Mechanic E. E. Griest, Division Engineer Guy Scott and Assistant Harvey Hall and possibly a few others. The bridge inspection, which will be confined to the maintenance of way department, will consume three days, commencing at Clark Junction Thursday, August 19, and working east, stopping en route at each bridge and important culvert. A. A. Wirth, of Pittsburg, supervising engineer, will have charge and among those who will be with him will be Division Engineer Guy Scott and Assistant Engineer Harvey Hall. Each supervisor will accompany the party over his own sub-division.

HAVE TREAT FOR PATRONS.

Electric Works' Band to Put Up Good Music Tonight.

The ice cream social and concert to be given by the band boys of the Fort Wayne Electric works at Swinney park tonight will be one of the best park entertainments of the season. The band has been rehearsing new music and will play some of it for the first time in public tonight. The "eats" feature of the entertainment will also be above the standard for lawn festivals. The money derived from the social goes into the treasury of the band and helps to defray expenses of the noonday concerts in McCulloch park, the second one of which will be given next Thursday.

Bodyguard of Lincoln Will Hold Reunion at G. A. R. Encampment.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10.—A reunion of the Union Light Guard, which was the bodyguard of President Lincoln for two years during the civil war, is planned in Washington during the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, September 27-October 2.

While conversing with Secretary of War Stanton in 1863 the governor of Ohio offered to obtain a bodyguard for President Lincoln. Secretary Stanton accepted the offer. The governor therefore asked for a picked man from each county in Ohio, but did not say what the service was to be.

Each man thought he was going to the front, or to lead a "forlorn hope," and he gave his life when he enlisted, and it was accepted as a sacrifice to his country. When the soldiers arrived in Washington they were informed they were to be the bodyguard of the president, and they served as such until after the war closed.

They were quartered upon the ellipse south of the treasury, and some of them were on guard every hour, two hours being the limit for each day and night, winter and summer. There were 108 men in the company and nearly every county was represented; a few being slow in responding, the deficiency was made up from other counties. They were mustered in at Columbus, O., December 17, 1863, and their enlistment was for three years of the war.

The mustering officer was Capt. Elmer Otis, Fourth United States cavalry. They left for Washington, December 22, 1863, and reported to the secretary of war, learning for the first time their mission.

The soldiers were not all kept about the white house, but were at times in Virginia, below Alexandria, and along the river to a point opposite Georgetown, scattered about Washington and the forts surrounding the city, but always a goodly number was kept on duty about the white house.

After being mustered out of service the members scattered, and it has been difficult to trace them, but at the encampment of the G. A. R. in Toledo in 1908 nine gathered and effected an organization with Lieut. George C. Ashmun as president and Robert W. McBride as secretary.

It was decided that a more thorough search should be made to locate the missing members, so that they might have the privilege of "touching elbows" again in a peaceful organization. Last year there was a meeting of the survivors in Detroit, Mich., and another meeting will be called in September during the G. A. R. encampment here.

HIS 70-YEAR-OLD DREAM COMES TRUE

Priest Who Greeted Commodore Perry in Japan Now in U. S.

San Francisco, Aug. 10.—Seventy years ago a Japanese lad of thirteen edged his way through a crowd of countrymen in Tokio to grasp Commodore Perry's hand.

At that time he dreamed of Perry's native land and vowed that some day he would visit it. The dream has at last come true. Purple clad in robes,

Archbishop Nichimio Asahi.

Archbishop Nichimio Asahi, 83 years old, of the Buddhist churches of Japan, is in America. He came to the world's fair here to see the two things that interest him most the exposition and the Indians.

"It frightens me, it is so marvelous," said the famous priest through an interpreter. "An old man who had never been in this wonderful country which gave Japan its civilization cannot help but marvel at its richness and immensity. It's unbelievable.

"When the great Perry came to Tokio in a ship that spouted fire," continued the venerable visitor, "it fired my imagination. I yearned to visit the country where such things are conceived. I wanted to see the place where the nations of the world intermingled and produced the American ideal from the melting pot of the races.

"As yet I have seen little. Even so, it is beyond my dreams."

When the priest was left alone for a moment he got an excellent idea of real Americanism.

Genially the patriarchal archbishop waved his assent. Another feminine souvenir hunter took his string of beads. A third admired his handsome staff. But the priest's escort luckily returned and prevented the old man from being disrobed.

The archbishop now resides in Kioto, formerly capital of Japan. He will preside at the Buddhist convention to be held here next month.

A glimpse of the Glacier Park Indians of the Great Northern railroad exhibit afforded the Japanese much pleasure. He asked why the race, which once held sole possession of North America, should become so nearly extinct.

Archbishop Asahi has crossed the China sea fifty-three times. He has served as missionary in India, Siam, China and many other countries of the east where the Buddhist religion flourishes.

TONY WILL HAVE TO FIGHT FOR BRIDE

No Fiancee of a Reservist in America May Leave Italy.

Philadelphia, Aug. 10.—Italian reservists in this city, subject to military duty, are dismayed by the announcement that no passports to leave Italy will be issued to their parents, relatives or friends until the men have answered the call to arms.

Hundreds of excited Italians have been visiting the office of L'Opinione, the daily Italian newspaper, and the Italian consulate, asking what they shall do. They have been informed that the issuance of the precura, the official document made out by the consul here and forwarded to Italy as a basis for the passport, has been suspended and that no reservist subject to military duty can obtain that document.

The suspension of the precura took place July 8. A full knowledge of exactly what it means has just been brought to the attention of local Italians by the announcement that August 10 is the last day to report, and that men liable to military duty who do not enroll themselves by that date will be classed as deserters.

The suspension of the passport will at once put an end to thousands of weddings from the old country which have been a feature of the Italian colony and of life among the immigrants in the coal regions, the coke regions and the great industrial centers throughout Pennsylvania. No brides can come from Italy to their sweethearts here if the men are reservists.

COUNCIL'S ANNUAL PICNIC.

The annual picnic of the city council will be held August 29 at the grounds of the Cripple club on the St. Joe river, north of Robison park. A committee of arrangements, consisting of Councilmen Frank J. Schlebecker, Peter A. Ofenloch and Albert H. Keller, met at the city hall Monday evening, and took some preliminary steps for the affair. All city officials and employes will be invited as the guests of the councilmen. It was decided that there should be no "kangaroo court" this year. The feature of last year's picnic afforded much amusement, and was profitable, but overworked the city attorney, who was prosecutor.

REPORT THE SICK BABIES.

That evidence may be had of dairies that delivery bad milk, Secretary J. H. Gilpin, of the board of health, requests the parents of all infants that suffer from intestinal troubles to report such cases to the health office in the city hall that investigations may be made. The deadly time of the year for babies has come and knowledge of a bad supply of milk will aid greatly in fighting entero-colitis, cholera infantum and like ailments that are the summer scourges of babyhood.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—"Blind John" Condon is dead.

The Chicago race track man and noted figure in gambling was claimed by death yesterday at the family residence, 2623 Michigan avenue. An attack of paralysis following a long period of illness proved fatal. Mr. Condon was 60 years old.

Funeral services will be held from the residence and at St. James' church tomorrow morning. Interment will be at Calvary.

Ruler in Gambling.

"Blind" John Condon ruled the gambling fraternity with an iron hand for over thirty years. There was no one to dispute that authority. Although he was heartily hated by some of his followers, his mastery was complete and his genius for organization everywhere recognized.

Although he has amassed several fortunes during his lifetime, only a careful appraisement of his estate will determine whether he died rich or a comparatively poor man. His property consists chiefly of interests in race tracks in the United States and Canada.

Interested in Many Tracks.

He was interested with Tom Williams in the California Jockey club, which operated the track at Oakland, Cal., permanently closed; with Cella and Johnson, in the track at New Orleans; with Cella and others in Douglas Park, Ky.; with Cella and Congressman Rhinock in Latonia track, Kentucky, racing permitted; the famous Blue Bonnet track at Montreal, racing permitted.

Condon built the Oak Lawn track with Dan Stewart at Hot Springs, Ark., but no racing meets can be held there.

Story of Ups and Downs.

There is something peculiarly western in the story of Condon. While it is the story of a gambler's life with its many ups and downs, it shows Condon to have been a man of unusual business ability, which, if applied to what is generally considered legitimate business, would have made him a financial leader of the country.

A poor boy, living in Logansport, Ind., he began life as a barber. He attracted the attention of Sam Doll, a well known gambler, who took an interest in him. Doll introduced Condon to the owner of a gambling house in Logansport. He soon developed remarkable dexterity as a dealer at faro, being one of the most expert in the country. He was never known to lose his nerve even when pitted against the old timers.

In early 80's he came to Chicago with Doll, and together they established a gambling house here. Chicago was then only a western town and gambling had not lost its western character. Everything was wide open, with Simeon O'Donnell as chief of police.

"All gamblers knew the ins and outs of the game as well as any one knew them at that time," said an old timer, growing reminiscent, "but they lacked what Condon had—the genius for organization. Condon was the first man to realize the possibility of organizing police protection and using it to control the gambling business of the city. This he proceeded to do as soon as he had established himself.

Central "Fixing Power."

"He became the central 'fixing' power. No gambler could do business in Chicago without consulting him and giving up a share of his business. He divided the city upon natural and racial lines; named the districts in which crap and stuss and faro were to be permitted and the lieutenants who were to be in direct charge of each. In certain districts he allowed high class gambling palaces, in which he was always a silent partner.

"The only losing fight he ever made was that which killed the racing game. It is generally supposed that the fight, made by John R. Walsh, the banker, upon Mayor Harrison through his newspaper, resulted in the closing down of Washington park.

Battle Over Washington Park.

"As a matter of fact, it was Condon's effort to control Washington park, with his partners, Hinky Dink and Tom McGinnis. I was the messenger who went to see Walsh in behalf of Condon. This is the message I gave him:

"'Unless you turn over the field book and ring, we to put up $100,000 for the field book privileges, and a further payment for the betting ring, to be arrived at later, you will receive information from the mayor's office that there will be no betting at Washington park.'

"This was in the latter part of March, 1903, and the state book announcing the meet was already out, but John R. Walsh was a good, game fighter.

"His answer was to kick me out of his office. He said: 'You boys may be able to carry out your threat, but if you do, I'll hang crepe on the gate of every race track in Illinois.'

Kills Racing in Illinois.

"The Washington park meet did not take place, as every one knows, but John R. Walsh was as good as his word. Racing in Illinois has been dead ever since.

"That's the story of 'Blind' John Condon. He kept the reins as long as his health held out. Some time ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis, and then he resigned his throne to Mont Tennes."

Condon had good taste as a collector of art. His beautiful home at 2623 Michigan avenue, built at a cost of $45,000 and decorated inside at a cost of $45,000, contains a remarkable art gallery. One of his finest canvasses is "Napoleon's Coronation," by Davies, which he picked up in the Swiss Alps for a few pounds. Gambler and man of the world, though he was, he yet found time to admire the beautiful in life as well.

LIVED IN FORT WAYNE.

Older Residents Remember Condon and His Career Here.

John Condon, "king of gamblers," who died Monday at his home in Chicago, was a resident of Fort Wayne for a number of years and is well remembered by the older residents of the city. He came to Fort Wayne when a boy, and, was for years, a barber in a shop on South Calhoun street. Later he worked for Dennis R. McFeely, who conducted a saloon and restaurant at Calhoun and Wayne streets. This was in 1873 and 1874. Shortly after he left for Logansport, where he made his first start in the gambling world. Although he did some gambling in Fort Wayne and was well known among the sporting element of the city, he did not operate extensively as a gambler until after he left this city.

While he was never a hard drinker he would frequently get on periodical "drunks," and, it was during one of these sprees, that he engaged in a fight on Columbia street with Jim Black, who has since died. He is alleged to have struck Black a terrific blow on the head, which caused him to be paralyzed for the remainder of his life. Condon never forgot this incident, and for years practically kept Black, sending money to him at regular intervals for his maintenance and support. After he left Fort Wayne Condon reformed, according to McFeely, and so far as he knows, was a total abstainer.

McFeely did not know of Condon's death until informed by a Sentinel reporter.

"He was one of the best friends I ever had," McFeely said. "He certainly was mighty good to me. I never went to him for a favor but what I got it."

NUDE WOODS NYMPH IS SEEN ONCE MORE

Mysterious Sprite Still Causing Sensation at Sparta, Wis.

Lacrosse, Wis., Aug. 10.—Should America really become involved in the European war the commander of the summer encampment of the United States regulars at Sparta has a plan of demoralizing the enemy worthy of consideration.

He knows it is effective because that portion of the United States army encamped at Sparta has been suddenly demoralized without the firing of a shot. The mysterious nude wood nymph, who startled Farmer Valbusby almost out of his boots and who has successfully eluded Sheriff George Boss, Humane Officer George Manuel and several posses of Spartans, is the demoralizing agency. She appeared on the fringe of woods near the encampment last night, and it is with the utmost difficulty that maneuvers have been continued today. After the excitement over the twilight visitation subsided and the soldiers were in nervous slumber, a sentry saw her again right in the midst of the camp, but at the command of "halt" she scampered off into the woods.

Officers hunting for the mysterious woman have found plenty of foot prints, but the nymph has eluded pursuit. They believe her insane and they say the soldiers at camp soon will be, too, if she is not captured.

ALLIES HAMMER HARD AT TURK ONCE MORE

Paris, Aug. 10.—The allied forces have resumed their attack upon the Turkish positions at the Dardanelles with great vigor during the last two days and have made sensible progress on the Gallipoli peninsula, according to a Havas dispatch received from Athens. The Turkish losses have been heavy.

Simultaneously the allied fleet bombarded the Turkish positions on the Dardanelles, inflicting severe damage upon their defense works.

Austrian Troops, Released From Russian Campaign, on Italian Front.

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 10.—The appearance on the Italian front of Austrian troops released from the Russian campaign is announced by the Tribune in a dispatch from Laibach, Austria. These troops, to the number of 30,000, equipped with artillery sufficient for two army corps, attacked the Italians yesterday outside of Gorizia. The Italians brought up additional artillery and after a battle of fifteen hours, the dispatch says, forced the Austrians to retreat into Gorizia, leaving 2,000 dead on the battle field.

The Italians are said to have gained an important point strategically by joining forces between Romans and Doberdo, south of Gradisca. The Austrians endeavored in vain to prevent this junction, losing heavily in the effort.

The bombardment of Roverto continues.

German Losses Heavy.

A despatch to the Tribune from Innesbruick, Austria, says that in the recent fighting along the section of the eastern front running from the Pissa river to Ostrov, northeast of Warsaw, the Germans lost 65,000 men in killed or wounded, but succeeded in capturing the principal fortified positions of the Russians.

The engagements in the vicinity of Novogeorgievsk, the despatch says, have been continuous for five days, and the Germans have occupied the northern portion of the defenses of the surrounded fortress. The Russian garrison depends mainly upon bayonet charges, as artillery ammunition is lacking.

North of the Lublin-Chelm railroad the battle continues to the advantage of the Austrians and Germans. In the region of Nova Alexandria on the Vistula, south of Ivangorod, the Russians are offering fierce resistance, inflicting heavy losses on their opponents.

Federation Endorses Movement for Damming the St. Joe River.

The proposed new trust company to be installed in connection with the Co-Operative store was discussed Monday evening at the regular meeting of the Fort Wayne Federation of Labor. The state law provides that the company must be capitalized at $100,000 or more. Those discussing the matter declared that this amount could be raised with very little trouble. It was pointed out that the Farmers' Equity union could be depended on for $50,000, labor for $25,000 and the same amount from other sources. The proposition will again be taken up with the state banking board on September 4.

After listening to arguments presented by a committee composed of A. J. Vesey, Rodney Fleming and Louis Moore for the damming of the St. Joe river the Federation endorsed the movement.

The following delegates were named State Federation of Labor, which opens at Gary on September 28: E. T. Drew, J. D. Shaw, William A. Jackson, F. J. Schwanz and A. C. Berger. The alternates chosen were: J. E. Wolfe, J. J. Perry, J. Lakey, Edward Miller and John A. Koch.

P. H. Shea, general organizer for the Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway Employes and Cal Wyatt, general organizer for the American Federation of Labor, reported the progress that is being made in the organization of the street railway employes. Mr. Shea declared that he had found a good sentiment among the men and that many of them want an organization.

Miss Maloney, general organizer for the Hotel and Restaurant employes, gave a short talk on the campaign being waged by that organization. On Thursday night at Yordermark hall an open meeting of Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen will be held.

Remarkable Wage Increase is Announced at Works in Indiana.

Gary, Ind., Aug. 10.—(Special) One of the most remarkable wage increases ever offered in this country is announced by the Aetna Chemical company and the Aetna Explosives company of New York, which operate plants at Aetna, a suburb of Gary, Thebes, Ill., and Ishpeming, Mich.

Employes are to participate in war order profits and monthly increases will be made until their wages are greater by 100 per cent.

Effective Aug. 1, the military powder operatives of the chemical subsidiary and the dynamite, black powder, cap and explosive operatives of the parent corporation receive a voluntary 10 per cent. wage increase.

Till End of War.

A similar monthly increase will be made for five months and if at the end of that period the war still permits and the experiment is a success, monthly advances will continue until June 1, 1916, when employes will be receiving over 100 per cent. increase over today's wages. The plan is to be effective only during the continuance of the war.

The Aetna Explosives company, which is a merger of several powder companies, with the old Aetna Powder company of Chicago as its head, employs several thousand men. It has a number of plants in the Pittsburg district, Emporium, Pa., and at Birmingham, Ala.

Want All to Share.

A circular issued by General Manager Egbert Moxham says in part:

"It is the desire of the company that all its employes should share in the profits which the company expects from its war orders. To accomplish this, the following plan is announced:

"From Aug. 1 on there shall be made an advance of 10 per cent. in the existing scale of pay roll employes' wages, payable at the end of each month as a bonus, and at the end of each month thereafter, for four additional months, making five months in all, the bonus will be further advanced 10 per cent. every month.

100 Per Cent. Increase.

"If the experiment gives us results expected during the next five months, the company further intends that for another five months thereafter, provided the war lasts that long, it will continue the monthly increase of 10 per cent. So that by the 1st of June, 1916, our employes will be receiving 100 per cent. increase over today's wages."

The circular further states that the closing of the war may make necessary a reduction to normal wage rate.

The company is stated to have nearly $40,000,000 worth of war orders.

MAY PURCHASE BLOCK FOR A PLAYGROUND

Members of the school board have taken under advisement the proposition to purchase the entire block bounded by Orchard, Second, Marion and Third streets for a playground. On a part of these streets the Bloomingdale school is located.

Many residents of the Ninth ward attended the meeting of the school board Monday evening and presented arguments why in their opinion this property should be purchased. Among those present were: President William A. Bayer, of the council; Chairman Robert E. Kelly, of the board of works; Secretary Charles J. Steiss, of the park board, and Councilman Peter A. Deitschel, of that ward.

Upon recommendation of Principal Ward the board will purchase fifteen typewriters for use in the commercial course and two hundred lockers to be built in the high school building.

Upon request of various labor organizations the board has decided to install a commercial course in the vocational schools. The board unanimously decided to spend approximately $2,500 for supplies, included in which is an appropriation of $400 for fifteen drawing tables in the high school, twelve double tables in the Harmar school at $500, to be used in the domestic science department, and twenty-four benches, range, locker and sink to the amount of $450. Four hundred dollars will be expended for installing the necessary equipment in the lunch room of the high school.

It was decided to place portable schoolhouses at the Lakeside school, Hamilton school, Franklin school and Bloomingdale school.

No action was taken on the matter of asking the board of public works to remove the electric light tower from the Bloomingdale school property. The tower interferes with the portable school on that side of the building.

SPANK HER, SAYS JUDGE; I WILL, AGREES MOTHER

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Judge Graham was "stumped" for a minute yesterday, in finding a proper punishment for Miss Mary McDermott, 21 years old, who gave her address at 226 East Forty-ninth street. She had been arrested for fighting with Arthur Beck, of 21 East Fifty-sixth street. The judge after hearing evidence, said he didn't want to send her to the bridewell and didn't want to fine her. He decided, if she would promise to reform, he'd let her off, provided that her mother would give her "a good old-fashioned spanking." Mrs. McDermott said she would. A reporter was unable to learn, however, if the punishment was imposed as directed.

LYNCHING IS THREAT OF MICHIGAN POSSE

Deputies Save Peddler at St. Joe and Hustle Him to Jail.

St. Joseph, Mich., Aug. 10.—A posse of angry farmers after scouring the woods and lowlands of two townships in the southern part of the county yesterday, captured Charles Hunter, a peddler, accused of having attempted to attack the thirteen-year-old daughter of Peter Malone, a farmer living near Niles.

There were threats of lynching, but while the captors were holding a council deputy sheriffs hustled the prisoner to the county jail.

The Malone girl was passing a clump of woods when a man jumped out and dragged her into a ravine. She fought desperately, and finally freeing herself from her assailant, regained the road and shouted for help. She was not seriously injured.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat which clogs Kidneys, then the Back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

(By Kenneth W. Payne.)

New York, Aug. 10. Six hundred and thirteen million two hundred thousand be realized in the United States of separate and distinct sneezes! That is a record for resonation almost the equal of the cannonading in Europe, and devotees of the annual sneeze declare it will America before the hay fever season, now just open, has terminated!

According to P. F. Jerome, secretary of the United States Hay Fever association, there are 200,000 persons in this country who are annually preyed upon by the pesky poisons of the pollen. Officials of the association claim that seventy-three sneezes a day is a low estimate for each person, and forty-two days is the minimum length of their affliction. Thus by simple calculation is obtained the foregoing terrifying total of the nasal titillations terminating in temper-trying tempests known as sneezes.

As a matter of sad fact there are probably hundreds of hay fever victims today in Fort Wayne who aren't included in the above total, who haven't the time nor the means to seek safety in one of the "high and dry" zones marked "immune" on the hay fever map, and yet who suffer and sneeze and suffocate and weep, to the pitiless amusement of their friends, throughout the weary season while the noxious ragweed blooms.

For these, the unsung and neglected victims of Dame Nature's annual campaign of "schrecklichkeit" the following article is written. It tells all that is known about the wherefore and the cure of the great American sneeze, and as this topic will soon have supplanted the war and the weather in all leading conversations, it is advised that every reader of the Sentinel acquaint himself with the following facts:

Hay fever was discovered (for literary purposes) about a century ago by a chap named Bostock who lived in England.

There are 130 plants known whose pollen carries the particular poison which produces hay fever. Ragweed, golden rod, daisies, wild roses, burdock, pigweed, rye and timothy are among the guilty strands of herbage.

But why should city people, living perhaps on the top floor of a flat miles from the nearest field of golden rod, succumb to the ruthless aerial campaign of these plants?

Well, German scientists who have studied the disease maintain that one tiny pollen grain carries enough poison to produce the affliction in those who are subject to it. And the quantities of pollen adrift in the air at this season are amazing. As many as 4,000,000 grains, the records show, are deposited on a surface of three square feet when the flowering season of the grasses is at its height! Go into the business heart of Fort Wayne, where there is only asphalt and brick and no weeds at all. Climb to the top of the tallest building. You will find ragweed pollen soaring around you there! Hence this hurrying hegira of hay feverists now under way to the mountains and the northern forests.

Meanwhile, the United States Hay Fever association, whose headquarters are in New York, is waging a great fight to immunize further parts of the country, by lobbying for anti-weed laws.

As for the remedies—well, the association recently in convention assembled at Fire Island, N. Y., heard 100 remedies discussed, including everything from pyscho-analysis and hypnotism to osteopathy and bleeding. Some members declared they had tried them all, and in vain!

But hope for the hay feverite is at last actually beginning to dawn! At least ten or a dozen American physicians are now experimenting with various methods of immunization, and each reports a great number of successful cases.

Some inject a toxin made from a mixture of ragweed and nettles; others vaccinate their patients with a serum taken from rabbits into whose blood the toxin has been injected. Though these doctors do not claim to cure hay fever, they declare that they have rendered their patients immune for one season or more.

Anti-vaccinationists have evolved another variety of hay fever cure. This year, clad in heavy furs, they are spending two hours each morning in a cold storage refrigerator. Relief for the day is thus assured, according to several New York society women, who take the cure regularly in the Woolworth building storage vaults.

BILLY SUNDAY TO PREACH.

Will Deliver Sermon at Winona Lake on August 29.

Winona Lake, Ind., Aug. 10.—Dr. Dickey announced in the auditorium yesterday that he had received a telegram from Billy Sunday, saying that he would be present at the closing of the Winona Bible conference and will preach a sermon on August 29. Dr. Dickey has hoped all the time that he would be able to secure this engagement with Mr. Sunday and has telegraphed him three times recently regarding the matter. It will be a great pleasure to persons attending the conference to hear Mr. Sunday. He has spent most of the summer on his fruit farm at Hood River, Oregon. He has received great benefit from the quiet and rest of the summer, and will be in excellent shape to begin his evangelistic campaign next fall.

City of Berlin in Canada is Loyal to Britain, But It's Pretty Hard on Berlin

Berlin, Ontario, Aug. 10—If there is a "hyphen" in Canada, Canadians of Anglo-Saxon tradition are certain it is located here in Berlin, in the province of Ontario. Canadians of Germanic inheritance, populating this thriving namesake of the Prussian capital, are equally certain such opinion is a libel.

One is conscious of Berlin's external "Germanism," at least, the very moment he steps off the train. The platform of that depot is, I am sure, cleaner than any other west of the Gulf stream: Here there are no peanut shells nor discarded lunch boxes, those station adornments almost universal outside of the "Fatherland." The place is as spotless as any German "bahnhof" and to add to the illusion, there is a wrinkled old Bavarian going along the tracks impaling stray bits of paper on a nail fastened in the end of a broomstick, while another is scrubbing the brick wall on his hands and knees!

And this illusion of being in some "new Germany" gains upon one steadily. From the depot one turns into von Webber street and in the door of a store marked "Baeckerei," a rosy-cheeked woman with flaxen hair calls across the way to another in a blue calico gown and her words are spoken in unmistakable "low German!"

The houses here, too, one sees, are, like those of Germany, all of brick and stone. They are built on those square "villa lines" that prevail so deadeningly in the kaiser's kingdom; indeed, they might have been set down out of Leipsic!

The impression of "Germanism" deepens as one turns out of Ahrens street into King street, the business thoroughfare of Berlin. For it is immediately evident that there is nothing English about this "strasse"—except its name! For there greets the eye, as one walks past the half mile of typically German shops that make up the retail district, only such names as Braun and Schweitzer, Bauer and Rheinhardt!

And, as if in imitation of Krupps, there is one munition factory in Berlin, Ontario!

Dr. John E. Hett, rosy and affable, is the mayor of Berlin, this German-Canadian community of 20,000 souls, 100 miles or so due north of Cleveland, O. He was born in the dominion of German parents who emigrated from Hessen and is strictly representative of his people—15,000 of them—who compose easily three-quarters of the entire population here.

"We of Berlin, Ontario, are British subjects," said Mayor Hett to me, "and we are loyal to the union jack; you will find none loyaler in the whole dominion!" when I asked him to tell me of the attitude of the German-Canadians toward the great conflict.

"Our loyalty cannot be questioned," he said. "We have not had a single citizen interned yet and we have given freely to the cause of the allies. Our contribution to the Canadian patriotic fund has amounted to $100,000—by far the greatest proportionate showing made by any city in the country. And we are preparing to excel that record in our local Red Cross work."

Could this mean, I pondered, that the German-blooded people of Berlin had actually become Canadians—Anglicised in their hearts? Would their names appear on the Canadian volunteer army rosters?

Colonel H. J. Bowman took the recruiting lists of Berlin out of the court house safe and went over them with me.

"We have sent three contingents of recruits from Berlin so far," he said, "amounting to a little over 100 men, all volunteers. It is a German center, you know, and whatever volunteers there have been have enlisted without pressure. Of course, German-born Canadians are not taken—only their sons."

The lists were then disclosed and here is the story they tell:

English-born recruits, eighty.

German-Canadians, nine.

At first sight these figures, one can readily see, are calculated to make Canadian officialdom do some tall thinking about their German-extracted population, and their intrinsic value to the strength of the empire. I said so much frankly to Mayor Hett, and here is what he said back to me:

"In the years between 1727 and 1775 there emigrated to Philadelphia from Germany and Switzerland 69,000 Mennonites—the so-called Pennsylvania Dutch. They were a religious sect, and history tells us that their chief mark of distinction was that they objected strongly to military service and warfare and to the taking of judicial oaths and the baptism of infants. When the revolutionary war broke out the Mennonites, hating all conflict, fled—many of them, at least—to Canada and settled in Waterloo county, of which Berlin is now the center. Of course, there have been many additions to this stock from the fatherland, notably that of 1848. But these latter came here to avoid the yoke of Prussian militarism, so that the abhorrence to warfare, early inculcated in the colony by the Mennonites, then received a fresh impetus.

"Now we Germans here all hate militarism—it is our chief legacy, as you can see from our history. We loathe the Prussian militarism of the kaiser, but we also instinctively loathe all kinds of warfare. We know the militarism of the Rhine must be crushed, but it is going to take a little time for us to overcome our instincts and adjust them to the conditions we must now face. And he must be blind who cannot see that it is going to be doubly difficult for us to volunteer to shoot men who sprang from the same blood as we did. When recruiting comes to Berlin it is going to reach down into the very hearts—as it can do nowhere else in the world today!"

Tears stood in Mayor Hett's eyes as he spoke, and I knew he spoke the truth—and that means that the people of Berlin are theoretically loyal to the flag of their adoption and are now trying with might and main to prove it in that hardest of all ways—to point muskets at trenches in Flanders where commands are given in their mother tongue!

Are they going to be able to do this soon enough and completely enough to shut down once and for all the rumors about their "real feelings" which continually are cropping out?

"I am pretty sure we will," said Mayor Hett to me, "and yet sometimes I have my doubts."

Two things which had happened while I had been going about the city with the mayor made me have my doubts, too!

In the first place, in the public park of Berlin, which, of course, is largely kept up by the German Canadians, since they pay most of the taxes, a beautiful bronze bust of Emperor William the First, commemorating the "peace" between Germany and France, as the shaft distinctly states, was recently pulled down by the English-Canadians and thrown into the lake.

The second incident occurred when I was talking with a leading member of the Berlin board of trade, who is a Scotch-Canadian. I asked him if he thought the Canadian government was concentrating any particular watchfulness on Berlin and the German-Canadian communities. His manner grew very excited and accusing, saying that the dominion officials are altogether too lax. He declared that more than a dozen German spies made Berlin their headquarters.

As we walked to the station Mayor Hett was pointing out to me the wonderful industrial progress Berlin has made.

"We have 125 manufactories here," he said. "We are the furniture and leather center of Canada and very rich. Seventy per cent. of our 200,000 people own their own homes. Most of the cities of Canada are feeling the war depression. We are not; it is the sample of the efficiency and thrift that is everywhere in the German blood. Yes, the world has something to learn from the Germans!"

It is a good thing there are no more German statues there—and only one munition factory, I thought, as the train slipped between the great buildings of the Kurz Furniture company, and I heard one Englishman say to another in khaki, "I'll bet that place has got a concrete base!"

Louis Gathmann, Famous as Armament Inventor, Plans Triple Hull That Will Enable Warships to Defy Shells, Mines or Torpedoes.

Washington, Aug. 10.—A battleship that no torpedo can sink—that will be one of the first things Uncle Sam's newly created naval board of experts will consider.

Such a battleship is badly needed now, as demonstrated by the present war, but the idea is not new, for Louis Gathmann, famous armament inventor, submitted his invention to the navy department some twelve years ago—but vainly.

Gathmann for years has worked on plans for a triple hull battleship that could defy mines, torpedoes and high explosive shells. During this time he has sought to get the navy department interested in his plans, but his idea was always ignored.

Recently, however, an experiment was made with a torpedo charge against a hull construction representing the latest United States dreadnaughts.

The torpedo charge sank the target—just as it would had it been our newest and biggest dreadnaught—and Gathmann again laid his invention before the navy department. This time with some success.

In letters to Secretary of the Navy Daniels, Gathmann said:

"My advice to you, Mr. Secretary, is to call a halt on the war vessels now under construction, because being not constructed nor equipped in harmony with modern science, they will be absolutely or no military value."

In a later letter accompanying sketches of the triple hull which the secretary of the navy has asked for that he may submit them to the new board of experts, Gathmann points out that:

"Germany is the only country which has recognized the value of this triple hull system so far, and their latest dreadnaughts are so constructed and can defy high explosive shells and torpedoes or mines."

Louis Gathmann's exclusive diagrams showing old style and his new triple hull invention, which are explained in the accompanying story.

Figure 2 shows the effect of the explosion of an armor piercing shell after it has pierced the armor belts used in the present construction of our battleships.

The United States navy depends upon armor piercing shells while other naval powers use shells that explode on impact.

With an armor piercing shell penetration of a ship's armor belt as shown in Figure 2 could only be effected at target practice and not in actual conflict, Gathmann claims, because the enemy's ships using impact shells could sink our ships at long range before we could penetrate even a five-inch armor belt on their ships.

In Figure 3 is shown the effect of a 42-centimetre high explosive shell (or a large torpedo) striking the belt armor of a battleship. As shown in the sketch it practically blows in the side of the ship. Yet Gathmann claims vessels with his triple hull could withstand even such an attack without being sunk.

men under arrest are Frank Wilson, who is alleged to have disposed of the stolen goods; Benjamin Watkins, an employe of the express company and a man known to the police only as "The Mysterious Man," who is said to have traveled under as many as 20 aliases.

Watkins was employed by the United States Express company which was absorbed by the Wells Fargo more than a year ago. For 11 years previous to that time, detectives said, the United States company had been losing an average of $2,000 worth of goods a month. Watkins remained in the service when the United States company was absorbed.

Packages containing valuables would be wrapped into one large parcel by Watkins, it is charged, and adressed to the "Mysterious man" at some suburb of Chicago, where it would be claimed by him under the alias which happened to be on the label.

DECLARE IT WORK OF TRAIN-WRECKERS

Pennsy Train Plunges Into Open Switch—Two Men Are Killed.

Indianapolis, Aug. 10.—Two trainmen were killed when the Pennsylvania railroad's fast passenger train, running from St. Louis to New York, went into an open switch and was wrecked a few miles east of Indianapolis about 8 o'clock last night. None of the passengers were injured seriously. The dead are:

William H. Ervin, 50, engineer, Indianapolis.

William Z. Henness, fireman, Indianapolis.

The engine, a baggage car and a sleeping car turned over. The engineer and fireman were crushed under the locomotive.

Deputy Coroner Wagner, after an investigation of the wreck, said that the lock on the switch had been broken, the lamp extinguished and the switch opened by some person with intent to wreck the train. A train passed the switch twenty minutes before the wreck and the device was in proper position at the time. A heavy iron rod was found near the switch. The deputy coroner believes this was used to break off the lock.

H. B. Reynolds, Pennsylvania trainmaster, and John W. Coneys, superintendent of Indianapolis terminals, after an investigation, declared that the train was "maliciously wrecked." Many passengers were bruised and scratched, but none required medical attention.

WHEN MEN GO OUT TO FIGHT AND DIE

Just Before the Battle Story from Blood-Stained Flanders.

(By Mary Boyle O'Reilly.)

London, England, July 26.—(Staff correspondence.)—London has been curiously quiet these last few days. Indeed, the most real news I have heard from the front was told me the other day by two tired soldier priests, an Irishman and a Frenchman, who have come over for a quiet week-end. The Irishman spoke first.

"English, Irish, Scotch, Canadian, Australian, yes, and Catholic and Protestant, we are just brothers-in-arms 'out there,' he said. "One must see to understand how the allies lift up their hearts to the unseen when death is at their feet.

"Never will I forget the night before that last big battle in early June. What an inspiration for a poet, what a picture for a painter.

"We are billeted within hearing of the guns. The men belong to two famous regiments of the guards, fine young fellows with the delicious laugh of youth and never a care for bullets or shells.

"Suddenly a worn-out staff officer rode in to report that disaster threatened a salient. The guards were summoned to action.

"Then I saw things which made eyes swell with tears. For I looked along the ranks of brave boys preparing to die.

"It was very hot. The boys were coatless and hatless, their open shirts showed their quietly heaving breasts. A few yards from the company street half a dozen Tommies began to prepare a temporary altar while various chaplains heard the confessions of the men. Each father embraced his departing penitent, urging him to shed his blood for his country.

"The altar was soon ready and a benediction service begun. Not a grenadier was absent. Many of the guardsmen were not Catholics, of course, and most of the Catholics were Irishmen. Even the ironic cockneys knelt to make vague petition for the something they could not understand.

"While the angel of death hovered over that battlefield altar the Sacred Host was exposed. A thousand voices rang out with 'O Salutaris Hostia,' the sound of singing being drowned at intervals by the roar of artillery.

When the hymn was finished the officiating priest raised the sacrament and every head was bowed in silent prayer. Darkness had fallen and except for a motor lamp the only light came from enemy flares as they lit up the night. Distant bombs exploded somewhere and the crackle of machine gun fire increased in volume.

"When the Catholic part of the service was over the Irishmen and the non-Catholics burst forth into 'Onward, Christian Soldier.' What a thrill must have gone through the hearts of those fighters!

"Business-like and cheerful every man fumbled through his knapsack to find and put on his token (i. e., war office medal), lest he be shot dead. Five minutes later the battalion marched out to action, light hearted, high spirited boys.

"In the dark one could hear a mellow voice inquire, 'Are you there, Murphy?' or, 'What's the matter with your feet, Hennessy?' and inquirers always getting as good as they sent. So off they went to the firing line, no longer singing pious verse but rollicking along to a lusty 'Here we are. Here we are. Here we are, again.'"

The little French priest looked up with his quiet smile. "It was a lieutenant of the royal Irish told me about Grenadier Mulligan," he said. "The lieutenant was close to poor Mike the night he died. The officer, slightly wounded, asked what he could do for the stricken private.

"'Maybe, sir,' said Mike, 'you could say a bit of a prayer for me.' But, naturally, the lieutenant knew none of the familiar Catholic prayers. 'Never mind, sir,' Mike reassured him, 'I have a little book here with them all in it.'

"So the officer opened the little book and read the prayer Mike chose. When it was finished the dying soldier looked thoughtful for a moment. 'I do hope, sir,' he said, 'that God won't think any less of that prayer because it was said by a Protestant.' Then, still smiling he lapsed into unconsciousness.

"The war has taught us all a good deal that has nothing to do with matters military," commented the little priest.

Follows Syrian Baptismal Ceremony at Home of Nissiff Maloley.

Following the solemn ceremonies attendant upon christening in the orthodox faith of Salem Basbara, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Basbara, at the home of N. Maloley on North Harrison street, Monday evening at which time Archbishop Germanos, of Faalbec, officiated, a feast of rejoicing was held. Many out of town visitors were present. Mary Maloley was the godmother and Louis Shamie, of Detroit, the godfather.

The feast of rejoicing lasted well into the morning hours. The peasant dances and folk songs which have been preserved through many ages were danced and sung. One hundred and fifty people enjoyed the supper, which was served by Head Chef Sam Sooky.

The red grouse is the only bird that is exclusively British.

Business and Professional Men Take Up Military Life for Month.

Plattsburg, N. Y., Aug. 10.—The vanguard of the little army of 1,200 business and professional men from the chief cities of the eastern and middle western section of the country, who are to undergo a month's military training in a camp of instruction here, had arrived today. One thousand more of the volunteer military students were due to arrived some time today from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Boston and other cities.

Many men of national reputation or of prominence in the various cities represented are among the volunteers. Mayor Mitchel, of New York city, one of the early arrivals, was assigned to the task of setting up cots in the tents. Today was devoted chiefly to the organization of the camp. As fast as the student soldiers arrived they were assigned to companies and army equipment was issued to them.

The regular work of the camp will begin tomorrow when three days of drilling will be commenced. Evenings will be devoted to lectures on military subjects. Major General Leonard Wood, who has taken a keen interest in bringing the civilians together to train them in preparedness for military defense, was expected to arrive today. Lindley M. Garrison, secretary of war, will be at the camp for several days and an effort will be made to induce President Wilson to come here and review the student troops. Governor Whitman was here today to review the regular troops at the local barracks.

GERMAN CATHOLICS PLAN A FRAUENBUND

National Federation Will Soon Have Women's Auxiliary.

St. Paul, Aug. 10.—Delegates to the annual convention of the national federation of German-American Catholic societies held lengthy sessions today in order to leave only routine work for tomorrow when the four days' meeting ends. The report of the resolutions committee was expected late today.

The social study movement was discussed at the first meeting, the establishment of a school at Chicago to study capital and labor being agreed upon by a number of delegates. Preliminary plans for the organization of a Frauenbund of women's league, have already been completed. It is expected temporary organization for which Mrs. Mary Bosack, of Pittsburg, is chairman, and Mrs. Val Reis, of St. Louis, secretary, will approve plans today for the calling of a convention next year when the league will be permanently organized. It is proposed to combine all societies of the German Catholic women engaged in social work.

FARMERS ARE BUSY HARVESTING OATS

The farmers of Allen county are about the busiest people on earth this week for the few days of pleasant weather and sunshine have made it possible for them to get into the harvest fields to cut the oats which is already dead ripe. The farmers have been compelled to face some very difficult and perplexing problems this summer in harvesting their grain. Some of the fields have become so damp that it seems that nothing will dry them out and as a result the horses find it a hard task to walk, much less pulling a heavy binder behind them.

According to a Fort Wayne business man who was in the country Monday a farmer residing near Monroeville and Maples has invented something entirely new in the way of harvesting his oats. He placed his binder on a very low mud boat and also put a gasoline engine on it. The engine is attached to the binder, supplying the necessary power to cut and bind the grain while four horses were hitched to the mud boat to pull it about the field.

In many communities farmers have united their forces and it is not uncommon to see two, three or even four binders at work in one field.

The price of corn, which has steadily been on the increase for the past ten days, took another stride upward Tuesday and farmers on the street received from 88c to 92c a bushel. CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Declines in the price of wheat resulted today from the bearish showing made by the government crop report. After opening ⅜c to ⅝c lower, the market underwent a moderate additional sag.

The close was firm at ½c to ⅞@1c net advance.

Corn responded only a little to the downturn in wheat. Opening prices, which ranged from the same as last night to ⅜c down, were followed by a slight hardening of values all around.

The close was steady, ⅝c to ⅞@⅞c above last night.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Aug. 10—Announcement that the western railroads are soon to receive an increase of freight rates, imparted further strength to the market at today's opening. Union Pacific opened with a substantial fractional gain on an offering of 1,000 shares. This soon increased to 1¼ points. St. Paul and other grangers also were higher.

War specialties were again conspicuous with new high records for General Motors, Westinghouse and Willys Overland. U. S. Steel touched 75½, its best quotation of the current movement.

Sales in the first hour approached 300,000 shares, steel supplying the major share, with large dealings in Union Pacific, American Smelting and Crucible Steel. Prices were more than maintained in the face of continued profit taking, steel advancing to 76¾ by noon. The effect of the proposed rate increase was seen in the general strength of the western rails although trunk lines and coalers, notably Norfolk and Western, Chesapeake and Ohio and Reading also rose spiritedly. Bonds were steady.

The movement was more irregular, the later war shares falling five to eight points, with further gains in some of the railways. The closing was strong.

STEEL TONNAGE.

STATE TO DEMAND $100.

Madison County Prosecutor Says Justice of Peace Was Short.

Anderson, Ind., Aug. 10.—S. L. Brooks, prosecutor of Madison county, says he is drafting a complaint to be filed against Daniel Sigler and Ira Kidwell, both of Elwood, sureties on the bond of Ward Roach, a justice of the peace at Elwood, from November 16, 1910, to September 25, 1913. The state will demand $100, alleging that Roach collected fees from fines and other cases to the amount of $104, and that state accountants can find only $4 reported on Roach's books. Friends of Mr. Roach at Elwood assert there was no dishonesty on his part and that there was probably a misunderstanding as to the fees, since, he contended at the time he was justice of the peace, he did not believe he could collect the same fee that would be charged in a city court on fines

English Stick to Trenches to Last; Others Not so Particulars.

London, July 30.—Correspondence of the Associated Press.—The British stick to their trenches to the last man, hence their heavy casualties. The French, the Germans and Belgians have no sentiment about yielding ground, if to their military advantage to do so, especially when they can draw the enemy on to marked ranges. But the tradition of sticking it out to the last, born of the days when man was pitted against man instead of man against machine, is so strong in the British army that one of the most important lessons of the war has yet to be learned by it.

These are the observations of a Canadian surgeon who has worked on the three allied fronts in Flanders and made a close study of the different fighting methods.

According to his account, the French and German, unlike the British, lay no stress on holding their front line of trenches. In case of an attack they withdraw to the rear lines. Being a careful measured range, the enemy in taking the first line gets into a wasps' nest. The French, with marvelous accuracy, pour in both shrapnel and high explosive shells from their famous 75 field guns. When they assume the offensive and capture a German trench, they protect their men with a curtain of fire as long as possible; but if its occupation seems likely to prove too expensive, they withdraw, measuring the ground as best they can in their retreat in order to correct the aim of their batteries. Somewhat the same tactics are followed by the Germans, who, however, use machine guns instead of field cannon. But the British hold on to their front trench when attacked, and onto the captured trench when attacking, with a courage unexcelled in history. But they act with more courage than intelligence, since they play into the hands of the Germans by their very stubbornness.

British losses have almost all been due to an effort to stick it out to the last man, when the French would have retreated, shelled out the foe and made a fresh attack. This is the French policy of attrition. It enabled them to assume the offensive at will and to keep up a constant and wearing action, while the British make their fight and then remain as they are for long periods of inaction.

For Fort Wayne and vicinity: Unsettled tonight and Wednesday, probably showers.

For Indiana: Unsettled tonight and Wednesday; probably showers.

For Ohio: Unsettled tonight and Wednesday, probably showers, except fair north portion tonight.

For Lower Michigan: Fair tonight; Wednesday fair north, unsettled south portion.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

Practically normal temperature conditions obtained this morning. Since yesterday morning temperatures have not changed materially in any portion of the country. In connection with a low area centered in the west gulf states, the weather is unsettled in the south and thence northeastward to the Ohio valley, with the rain area extending northward to central Illinois. This low has given rains in the lower Mississippi valley and on the middle eastern slope of the Rockies, with quite heavy rains in Arkansas. Another low over the New England states has been attended by local showers in the upper Ohio valley, and thence northeastward over the St. Lawrence valley. Pressure conditions over the western states have been favorable to fair weather and generally clear skies in north central and western sections.

In this vicinity conditions will become unsettled during tonight, with probably showers early tomorrow morning or during the day. The changes in temperature will be slight.

"Belgian Navy" Seeks Shelter in New York Harbor from Dangers of Wartime

Lone Ship and Crew Without a Country Have Been Wanderers on the Face of the Sea, But Always Hoping for Best.

(By Kenneth W. Payne.)

New York, Aug. 10.—The Belgian navy has taken refuge in New York harbor!

"The Belgian navy" consists of the one forlorn and lonesome sailing ship, L'Avenir.

And aboard her are seven little boys without a country, seven young middies who have no present, but are living only in the future! L'Avenir is the French word for future; the prophetic name, given to the ship when she was built six years ago, sums up all the hopes and thoughts of her crew today.

She is certainly the saddest ship that ever tied up at a dock in New York. The visitor who goes aboard her feels at once the tragedy that has fallen upon Belgium. The seven little middies came of prosperous Belgian families. Today they are homeless wanderers on the seas, their parents are poverty stricken refugees in London!

L'Avenir is not officially a part of the Belgian navy. Two or three gunboats, now interned in Holland, constituted the little kingdom's only sea power. L'Avenir was a naval training ship meant to educate officers especially with the purpose of building up a Belgian merchant marine.

"When the war broke out," said her second officer, Camille Verbe, "all the cadets who were old enough enlisted. Only these little lads are left. They are from twelve to sixteen years old—too young to fight, yet!"

And since the conqueror has taken their own land from them, they have had to make "The Future" their home. And earning money for their native land is their business. They have converted the beautiful ship of which they were so proud into a tramp cargo ship, and are cruising about the seas picking up freight wherever they can get it. The profits go to help support their ruined government.

L'Avenir will sail shortly on her first cargo carrying trip, laden with oil for Australia.

They are sturdy these Belgians. In the course of his day's work, little Pierre Lefage, the youngest of the middies, has twice fallen down an open hatch, thirty feet to a steel deck! Yet today he is running about the rigging as nimbly as ever.

J. D. Hale has returned from a month's visit in Chicago with his daughter, Mrs. Hiram Gregg.

Sam Wyatt motored to Rome City with the Frank Rumschlag family.

Mrs. Fred Schafer was badly scalded while emptying a bollerful of water when the tub on which it rested slipped and threw the water over her feet and ankles.

William Becker was arraigned in the city court Tuesday morning on an assault and battery charge in which his father, Heinrich Becker, 1121 Jones street, was the complaining witness. The case itself amounted to little, but afforded members of the family, including the wife and mother and her two grown sons, an opportunity to tell damaging stories against the household. William Becker resides in rooms on the upper floor of the house and has the use of the stable for a garage, for all of which he pays rent. His father wants him away from the premises. The trouble for which William was arrested occurred Sunday evening, when he shook his father. Mrs. Becker said the trouble was all due to her husband's drinking and she took her son's part in her statement to the court. William testified that his father wanted to get him out of the house so he would be free to beat up the wife and mother, and declared his mother's body was covered with scars that bore testimony to his father's brutal treatment. Another son testified against the father. Judge Kerr continued the case until August 31 and William Becker was allowed to go on his own recognizance.

Negro's Loot is Identified.

Fred Helms, a yellow negro who was arrested early Monday morning by Officer Johnson, who saw the fellow drunk and toting a big willow rocking chair and large brass jardiniere on Harrison street, was arraigned Tuesday morning on a charge of petit larceny in having stolen the chair from the residence of Ray Vordermark, 1010 Harrison street. Helms pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs and given thirty days in jail. He stuck to his story told in court Monday morning when he was arraigned on a drunk charge, that he did not know where he had stolen the property, persisting that he cannot recall where he got the jardiniere.

Prejury Case Falls Flat.

When the trial of Mike Ross for prejury was finally put through after numerous continuances, it resulted in the disclosure of a curious state of affairs. He was accused of having procured a loan of $225 from the People's Collateral Loan company by means of a perjured affidavit, declaring that certain chattels scheduled as security were his own and unincumbered. This was proved not to be the case, but it was shown in court that Ross could not read English, had never heard the affidavit read and that his oath as to its contents was not taken. Judge Kerr acquitted him. A prosecution for subornation of perjury may follow and also a damage suit for false arrest.

Other City Court Cases.

Tom Jordan, Joe Brown and Tom Ryan were the names given by three vags who were arrested while staging a drunken orgy in the Wabash yards. All went over for fifteen days. Bob Mitchell, J. Bartlett and Harry McLane, picked up in the same neighborhood, were released on vag charges to get out of the city at once.

John McLee and James Armold, another pair of jugsters, were given fifteen days.

James Worley and Fred Collins, drunks, and James Blanard and Edward Larry, vags, were turned loose.

John Schuler, charged with embezzlement of $2.50 given him to buy wall paper for the Bowers home, where he roomed, was blown up when he produced a witness to prove that he had payed for the wall paper. The $2.50 has gone off the road somewhere, and L. O. Hull, from whom the paper was purchased, had already marked the account from his books and is shouldering the loss.

Vera Hart, a negress residing on Francis street, was tried for disorderly conduct and was continued on her own recognizance till August 31.

Allen Gaines, a negro charged with neglect of his children, was continued to the end of the month and William Langhor, on a similar charge, was ordered brought into court.

Any woman can profit by her own experience, but it is a wise woman who can profit by the experience of others. The lady who is a new-comer to Fort Wayne can shop around for a year or two before finding out the saving she could make by buying all her Furniture and Carpets at Foster's. The wise woman asks for the experience of her neighbors and profits thereby.

FOUR STORES

Order Has Been Received at Fort Wayne Office to That Effect.

An order has been received at the Fort Wayne postoffice to the effect that hereafter "lucky stones" will be barred from the mails. As a result a business which has netted its promoters about $44,000 annually in recent years has been given a "black eye."

The order is directed against Captain Rand, Walter I. Rand and W. I. Rand, at 270 Tremont street, Boston. The department says:

"The representations which induce the purchase of said stones are to the effect that they are rare, hard to procure and of great value, and that they possess mysterious powers, by means of which lost jewelry is restored, true and false friends pointed out, the sick are healed, the poor come into possession of wealth, the unemployed secure work, hard luck is banished and hundreds of secrets are revealed.

"The evidence shows that these stones are found in abundance and that Rand purchased them from dealers in New York, London and Colombo, Ceylon, by the thousand at from two and one-half to fifteen cents apiece, and that said stones are often defective in that they show internal seams upon the outer surface, which, however, Rand attempts to induce persons to believe are not flaws, but are peculiar marks of these so-called lucky stones, which he calls magic mirrors, and states that because thereof, those favored mortals who are gifted with the illumination of the astral light can, by the aid of this peculiarity, read on the surfaces of said stones the reflections of the past and the promises of the future."
